Juniors Name Queen Tonight

By BAYLEE FRIEDMAN

Tonight one of five junior women—Faith Gallagher, Katherine Reynolds, Gail Smith, Suzanne Strom or Nancy Van Tries—will reign as queen of the Junior Prom.

The queen, who has already been selected by vote of the junior class, will be crowned at 10:15 p.m. in Recreation Hall by Joseph Barnett, class president. She and her court will pass through a coronation formed by junior men's hat societies Blue Key and Androcles. Alec Beliasov will act as master of ceremonies.

Juniors Present Gifts

An engraved trophy and bracelet will be presented the queen on behalf of the junior class. Other gifts will include a stole, an evening purse, pearls and candy.

Miss Gallagher, a sociology major sponsored by Delta Gamma, is a member of Thespians. She was president of her freshman dormitory unit and a member of the sophomore executive committee.

Kappas Sponsor Kit

Secretary-treasurer of the junior class, Miss Reynolds is sponsored by Kappa Kappa Gamma. Her activities include Chimes, junior women's hat society, Liberal Arts Student Council, and sorority treasurer.

Miss Smith, a journalism major, was sponsored by Chi Omega. She is a member of the Riding Club, the College riding team and the advertising staff of the Daily Collegian.

Miss Strom, sponsored by Kappa Alpha Theta, was in the Harvest Ball court as a freshman and a runnerup for Dairy Queen last year. A home economics major, Miss Strom has worked on the Thespians makeup crew.

Froth Girl Candidate

Miss Van Tries, a journalism major, is sponsored by Delta Tau Delta. Her activities include Froth advertising staff, LaVie editorial staff and Campus Chest. Froth Girl-of-the-Month last spring, she works in the Pattee Library.

Prom tickets will go on sale for $4 at 9 a.m. today at the Student Union desk in Old Main.

Delta Sigma Pi Admits 29 Men

Delta Sigma Pi, professional business fraternity, recently initiated 29 men in the business curriculum.

Initiates are Joseph Adams, Richard Allen, George Armenio, Jack Bernbaum, Walter Daub, Donald Eberhart, Charles Folkers, Arthur Goldstone, William Hamilton, Robert Hawk, Joseph Hayes, John Hill, John Kensinger and Donald Lauck.

John Manley, Thomas McCallum, John McGarvey, Leonard Mittin, Eugene Nepa, William Rosenmiller, Alex Schoemann, Jay Schmehl, Nicholas Skimbo, Robert Smith, Walter Sledge, George Stark, John Sterling, Sergio Toigo and Jose Verguido.

Ossian R. MacKenzie, dean of the business school, presented Raymond Tannerhill, Class of '23, a portrait of Old Main for his service to the College and to Delta Sigma Pi.

New Rating Asked for 2 Activities

Requests that Campus Chest and politics be rated as major activities in the revised constitutions of men's hat societies were made to Hat Societies Council Wednesday night.

Richard Gibbs, president of Parmi Nous, senior men's hat society, said that the Campus Chest committee hopes to make Campus Chest a year long activity next year. Gibbs asked that Campus Chest be given a major activities rating in the constitutions. He said that if the work of the committee is not given a higher rating than it now receives by honorary groups, the project will die out.

Myron Enelow, secretary-treasurer of Skull and Bones, senior men's hat society, asked that the positions of chairmen of the seven major committees, class clique chairmen and All-College clique officers of the State and Lion Parties be rated as major activities in the constitutions.

Enelow said that the amount of work and time spent in preparation for and after political campaigns is equivalent to the time and work spent in other major activities.

He said that at present only class clique chairman positions are rated as major activities.

Gibbs asked that the constitutions of men's hat societies be revised so that their evaluation of campus activities, which is the basis of eligibility to the men's societies, be in accord with the current comparative rating of activities. The rating is based on service to the College and amount of work required by the activity.

Enelow suggested that the council outline projects of the men's and women's hat societies next spring and that the major projects be divided among the societies, with the approval of next year's members.

The council declared a weekly hat day for each Thursday, when members of men's and women's hat societies will be asked by the council to wear their hats.

Parking Area Gets New Asphalt Coat

The 120-space parking area on the W. College avenue side of the engineering buildings received a repaving job Wednesday.

The area was paved with two layers of an asphalt and limestone base, Walter W. Trainer, supervisor of landscape construction and maintenance, said.

State Group To Consider Title Change

The College request that its name be changed to The Pennsylvania State University will be considered by the State Council of Education at a meeting scheduled this morning.

Judge Ivan Walker, judge of the Court of Common Pleas of Centre County, said he submitted the College petition for a name change to the Council immediately after he received it from Roy Wilkinson Jr., Bellefonte attorney. Wilkinson, acting for the College, made the formal presentation of the request to the court a week ago Monday.

If the name change is returned to him approved, Walker said he will take final action at the "earliest possible date." This will make the hope a reality and the College may then begin to use its new name.

Earlier in the week, it was not known whether Walker had presented the petition to the Council, and, therefore, whether they would have it on their agenda for consideration. There seems to be no question now but that they will act because their meetings are held quarterly and some action must be taken within 90 days from the time when the petition is filed with them.

'Farmer' Distributed Today in Ag Buildings

The November issue of the Penn State Farmer will be distributed today in agricultural study buildings.

The issue features an article on the dairy cattle judging team's trip to the National Dairy Cattle Congress at Waterloo, Ia.

Import Housing Rules In Effect for Prom

Thomas Schott, Interfraternity Council president, said yesterday that rules governing import housing in fraternities will be in effect Junior Prom weekend, Military Ball weekend, and undoubtedly any other weekend with approved import housing.

Schott, in clarifying the rules, said they were drawn up by the IFC and approved by the College and cover any weekend in which the Senate committee on student affairs sanctions import housing. This year, he said, Junior Prom and Mil Ball have been approved and Senior Prom and the IFC Ball probably will be approved also.

Import housing, he explained, is a part of a "big weekend" at the College and is where fraternity men give up part or all of their houses and/or annexes as facilities for their dates. The rules have been in effect for several years, he said.

He listed six requirements that the houses must meet.

1. Members of the fraternity must have vacated quarters to be occupied by guests by noon of the day of their arrival.

2. Guests must be informed of all exits from the house in case of emergencies.

3. Space for guests must be large enough for their needs and comfort.

4. Each house must have two married couples approved by the deans of men and women for chaperones and one couple must remain in the house all night if it is shared by men and women.

5. Guests must be returned to their quarters by the same hour as dormitory women.

6. Chaperones must be provided with names, addresses, and hosts' names of all house guests.

Schott added that anyone with additional questions should contact him.

Simes to Speak

Frank J. Simes, dean of men, will discuss "The Student and the Dean" before the Faculty Luncheon Club at noon Monday in the State College Hotel.

Three Students Win Awards In 4-H Program

Three of 11 Pennsylvania winners in the 1953 national 4-H awards are students at the College.

Eleanor Griffith, seventh semester home economics major, won the home improvement project, and Sara Walter, first semester home economics major, was the girl's leadership winner. The dairy husbandry award winner was Paul Kleisath, first semester dairy husbandry major.

Miss Griffith and Kleisath will attend the National 4-H Congress Nov. 29 to Dec. 4 at Chicago. They will compete with other state winners for national cash scholarships.

Miss Walter will be presented a gold watch.

The Pennsylvania awards program was conducted by the agricultural and home economics extension service in conjunction with the national committee on boys and girls club work, sponsor of the 4-H Congress.

Supervising the awards were Miss Sullivan and Edward A. Mintmier, assistant professor of agricultural extension. William S. Jefferies, professor of agricultural extension, and Pauline Hoke, instructor of home economics extension, will accompany the group from Pennsylvania to the national congress.
