

Cabinet Consider Measure On Judicial Appeal Procedure

All-College Cabinet will vote tonight on a constitutional amendment concerning procedure in disciplinary cases appealed from Tribunal and Judicial, and will discuss the composition of a committee to deal with the appeal cases. Cabinet will also hear the first reading of an amendment establishing an appeal for decisions of the All-College elections committee.

The revisions of the judicial system were conceived by the second Student Encampment judicial reorganization committee and were presented to cabinet previously by Thomas Farrell, committee chairman.

The procedure amendment, which would refer cases appealed from Tribunal and Judicial to the subcommittee on discipline of the Senate committee on student affairs, has been read twice before cabinet and will come to a vote after its third reading tonight. Under the present system appeals are referred to cabinet. The resolution dealing with the composition of the disciplinary committee was given back to the judicial committee for further study. Cabinet members previously objected to the chairman of Judicial or Tribunal sitting on the appeal committee when they heard the case. The resolution, as Farrell will present it tonight, substitutes the All-College president or the president of the Women's Student Government Association for the chairman of Judicial or Tribunal on the committee membership.

The elections committee amendment which will be read for the first time would refer appeals from the elections committee to cabinet. Cabinet recommitted the amendment which, in its original form, referred appeals on elections committee decisions to the subcommittee on organization and control of the Senate committee on student affairs.

All-College President Richard Lemyre said yesterday there may be a motion from the floor of cabinet to discuss the selection of nominees for Who's Who Among Students in American Universities and Colleges, but he had not been officially informed of such intentions by cabinet members.

Cabinet will also hear committee reports on Religion-in-Life Week, student handbook and the National Student Association policy on academic freedom.

$20,500 Fire Caused by Oil Burner

The $20,500 fire that left two students, one faculty member and seven townspeople homeless last Thursday was probably caused by faulty timing in the building's oil burner, Sgt. George A. Hahn, state fire marshal, told Bruce Homan, borough fire marshal, yesterday.

Homan said he and Hahn were not sure where the mechanical failure was, but the investigations were definitely not of a suspicious nature. "It was just one of those things," Homan said.

The results of the investigation

Students and faculty members of the department of music and members of the Blue Band have started a fund drive to help Richard Brady, one of the students victimized by the fire at 133 N. Barnard street.

A fund box was set up Friday for Brady in 216 Carnegie. Brady, seventh semester music education major and a member of the Blue Band, lost his tenor saxophone in the fire. The saxophone was valued at $400 to $500.

Damage to the Barnard street building was estimated at $17,000, Homan said. Loss of personal possessions was estimated at $3500.

Coed Penalized For Drinking

A first semester coed has received a three-week strict campus on charges of drinking and returning to her dormitory 40 minutes late Friday night.

The penalty, which went into effect yesterday, was imposed by the Freshman Customs and Regulations Board after the coed and her escort appeared before the board Tuesday.

Because she was unconscious when she was returned to her dormitory, the coed was taken to the Infirmary. She was released Sunday.

The coed's escort told the board he brought her back to the dormitory a few minutes before 1 a.m., and tried to revive her before taking her into the building.

Erroneous information received Monday by the Daily Collegian said the coed had been found in a snow bank early Saturday morning on the south side of Hamilton Hall.

Senate OKs Spring Week Final Plans

Spring Week plans, including the two-evening carnival, were given final approval yesterday by the Senate committee on student affairs.

The action, taken on proposals submitted by George Richards, chairman of the Spring Week committee, includes a schedule of events for Monday through Thursday of the week. The announcement was made by Dr. Henry S. Brunner, chairman of the Senate committee.

Plans passed provide for the Mad Hatters' parade at noon Monday and the parade through town and campus and the coronation of Miss Penn State in the evening. The He-Man contest is set for Tuesday, and Wednesday and Thursday evenings are reserved for the carnival.

Wilmer E. Kenworthy, director of student affairs and secretary of the committee, said groups entering booths in the carnival would be allowed to set up their outfits on Tuesday evening, the day before carnival opens. This will enable entrants to do their work without cutting classes as has sometimes been done in the past, he explained.

He said he hoped this confirmation and clarification of plans would eliminate the confusion that is currently circulating concerning the week. Many people are under the impression that Spring Week is only going to last three days this year instead of the usual four days, he said.

Richards said the Spring Week committee is still not sure where the carnival will be held but the Physical Plant has suggested they use the part of Windcrest trailer camp recently cleared of dwellings. He said construction may be done on the booths between 5 p.m. and midnight the night before the carnival opens.

Traffic Court Tries 11 Cases

Eleven cases were heard by the Traffic Court Tuesday night. The court levied seven fines, suspended three cases and dismissed three other charges.

Six $1 fines were collected from first offenders and payment of a $4 second offense was deferred until Tuesday.

One first offense charge was suspended along with two second violations. In such a case, if the suspended offender acquires another violation, he is required to pay the suspended fine and the new penalty.

The court will recommend that one defendant be issued a parking permit by the Campus Patrol.

Two charges of parking in unauthorized areas and one for parking a motor scooter beside Schwab Auditorium were dismissed.

A charge against a graduate student was referred to the dean of men and the dean of the Graduate school. The Traffic Court has no jurisdiction over graduate students.

WDFM to Program Mock Broadcasting

Preliminary auditions of live programs for radio station station WDFM will begin Sunday and lead up to dry run broadcasting starting Dec. 1, Doris Berkowitz, station manager, and John F. Price, assistant to the general manager, said yesterday.

The dry run, to be broadcast on a continuous seven-days-a-week basis, will involve mock broadcasting of all scheduled shows without actual air transmission.

Time schedules of shows have not yet been made final, David R. Mackey, general manager, said.

The date of actual broadcast is being held up by lack of equipment—antennae, a broadcasting tower, and turntable arms, Price said. Some of the electronic equipment has been on order since March, but has not yet arrived.

Student and faculty suggestions, made in a poll conducted two weeks ago in dormitories and town living units, were followed closely in setting up a tentative program of shows, Price and Miss Berkowitz said.

Letters asking for recommendations for programming were sent to faculty members and about 250 student leaders, the latter being asked to obtain recommendations from the organizations they represent.

Price and Miss Berkowitz said faculty response to the poll was overwhelming, and in many cases included detailed suggestions for engineering and transmission.

However, they said, only about ten of the 250 students notified replied to the letters, either in written or verbal form.

Musical shows predominate in the present tentative program. This is in accordance with the trend toward a student demand for all kinds of music, especially classical and semi-classical, as shown by the poll, Price said.

The program will also feature national, campus, sports and weather news broadcasts.

Human interest shows have been planned to present prominent students and members of the faculty and administration to radio listeners on a non-academic level.

Shows have also been planned, upon student request, which will explain the operations of campus organizations and professional honorary societies with which students are not readily familiar, Price said.

He said that many of the shows to be presented will be transcribed, because the station does not have sufficient broadcasting facilities to produce all live shows.

Student to Get Hearing Today

A fifth semester industrial engineering major will be given a hearing before Guy M. Mills, justice of the peace, at 9 a.m. today on a disorderly conduct charge.

Bert Oberg was arrested late Monday night by Donald E. Benner, borough policeman, and released immediately. Oberg was said to have been a "general public nuisance" early Saturday morning before he became unconscious in the vestibule of a borough apartment house, according to Benner.

Oberg was taken to the Infirmary Saturday morning by borough police.

Pitt Game Seats On Sale Today

Tickets to the Penn State-University of Pittsburgh football game go on sale at 8:30 a.m. today at the Athletic Association ticket window in Old Main.

The game will be played Nov. 21 at Pitt Stadium, Pittsburgh.

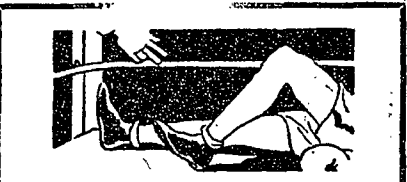

Under a new ticket sale system, student exchange forms must first be picked up at the Student Union desk in Old Main, filled out and presented at the ticket window. Only one form will be given each student. To purchase tickets for more than one person, students must write the names of those for whom the tickets are intended on the back of the forms.
