

Council to Get New Member

The Chem-Phys Student Council announced last night that it will replace a junior chemistry major who recently resigned from the council, at its next meeting Dec. 9.

A bottled-coke machine will be installed this weekend in the hall on the third floor of Pond Lab by the Altoona Coke Company, the Council learned.

The Council voted in favor of optional elimination of finals for graduating seniors.

The Council and the School Executive Committee will hold their banquet Monday at the Eutaw House. The group will meet at 6 p.m. behind Osmond.

The Student-Faculty Mixer was well received by students and faculty and is planned to be an annual function of the council, Ronald Ferguson, mixer committee chairman, reported.

ated in by the majority of the members of a fraternity.

The chief fraternity complaint against the University's version of the code is that it would be impossible to get chaperones for all events where they would be necessary.

Housemother Solution

Another solution to the problem suggested at Thursday's IFC meeting was the adoption of housemothers. This proposal was defeated by a vote of 35 to 4.

The administration has maintained its interpretation of the unchaperoned dating code is not a move toward housemothers. The administration has also stated there are no proposals before any official body of the University concerning housemothers.

The issue features articles on Leonard Moore, Lion football star, and the University Food Service.

Quake Recorded By Seismograph

A moderately heavy earthquake centered about 2200 miles from State College was recorded Tuesday by the University seismograph.

Had the quake occurred in a densely populated area, heavy property damage and loss of life might have resulted, Dr. Benjamin F. Howell Jr., chief of the Division of Geophysics and Geochemistry, said.

Areas of the earth subject to the quake would include California, southern Mexico, Central America and the West Indies.

Hosler Explains Warm Weather

The warm temperatures that Penn State has experienced for the past week are not unusual for this time of year, according to the University Weather Station.

Dr. Charles Hosler, meteorologist in charge of the station, said temperatures vary greatly during this time of year, sometimes running as high as 90 degrees. He explained that mild weather is due to the influence of a high-pressure area passing over the district. Colder weather is expected within the next week.

The forecast shows continued mild weather for tomorrow, with some cloudiness in the afternoon. Colder weather, with possible showers in the afternoon, is anticipated Friday.

MI School Given Seismic Equipment

A truck mounted with seismic recording equipment has been presented to the School of Mineral Industries by the United Geophysical Co., Pasadena, Calif.

Dr. Benjamin F. Howell Jr., professor of geophysics and chief of the Division of Geophysics and Geochemistry, explained the equipment will be used for student instruction and research on ground vibrations and geophysical prospecting.

Colds Cause Increase In Infirmity Cases

A large number of colds is responsible for the recent increase in infirmity cases, according to Mrs. Carol H. Burt, infirmity superintendent.

The infirmity load has been rather low until this week, Mrs. Burt said. Other cases include two sprained ankles and a knee injury.

Vandals Paint Lion Again

The Nittany Lion Shrine, for years a favorite target for paint vandals, received its third unscheduled dousing of the semester early Tuesday.

This time the Lion was painted with a green enamel-type paint. The vandalism was discovered about 5:45 a.m. by the Campus Patrol. According to Capt. Philip A. Mark, head of the patrol, the painting occurred sometime between 5:30 and 5:45 a.m. Mark said the Lion had not been painted at 5:30 a.m. when a patrolman made his routine round.

A can of half-used green enamel paint was found near the Lion yesterday by the Campus Patrol when the vandalism was first discovered. The Campus Patrol is checking the paint brand with borough dealers.

It was the third painting the Lion has received in the last three weeks. During the West Virginia weekend, the Lion first got a yellow dabbing Saturday morning before the game and then a blue coat Sunday morning. Two other landmarks were painted during the West Virginia weekend. The Old Willow received a dousing with blue water-base paint and the main campus gateway was inscribed with two "WVUs."

Sigma Pi Sigma Initiates Seven

Sigma Pi Sigma, physics honor society, recently initiated seven candidates.

Dr. John A. Sauer, head of the Physics department, spoke to the group on "Graduate Study at Oxford."

Initiates are Mary Burgan, instructor of physics; Walter Sawchuk, graduate student in physics; Penman Sheldon, eighth semester physics major; Richard Humes, Edward Keller, Emmert McGarry, and Richard Sloan, seventh semester physics majors.

Council to Publish Monthly Newsletter

Education Student Council decided Tuesday that Edits, council newsletter, will be published once a month beginning in January. A proposed name change for the newsletter was also suggested.

Dec. 10 was set as the date for the Education school Christmas party, the Mistletoe Mixer. Janet Feaster, orchestra committee chairman, said Lynn Christy and his orchestra will play for the dance.

Young Republicans To Discuss Election

The Penn State chapter of the Young Republicans Club will discuss the Nov. 3 election results at 7 tonight in the State College Hotel.

Grace McCloskey, fifth semester education major, was recently elected club secretary.

Chairman of tomorrow's meeting will be Joseph Galati, eighth semester arts and letters major.

Villanova Given University Status

Villanova College yesterday followed Penn State's path through the courts and formally became a university.

Villanova, which has more than 5000 students, was founded by the Catholic Augustinian Order in 1842. When the college was chartered in 1849 it was granted all rights and privileges of a university, but was formally called a college.

Disabled Veterans

Disabled veterans in the State College area interested in forming a chapter of the Disabled American Veterans will meet at 7 p.m. tomorrow at the American Legion home, 200 S. Pugh street.

are allowed in the house, Kenworthy said. A violation of these rules or another incident after the strict probation is lifted in March would result in very serious steps, he added.

Two Officers Removed

The two house officers are being removed from office and being called before the Dean of Men because the investigation revealed they were personally involved in the incident, he said. They were both there and were parties to serving the girl alcoholic beverages, he said.

As a result of the incident the girl involved was given a strict campus for three weekends, and Tribunal recommended last night that the boy, also a freshman, be suspended but action be deferred until the end of the semester. This means the student will be suspended at the end of the semester, but he may be re-admitted if the dean of men sees fit after reviewing the case and hearing testimony by the student.
