3 Seek Queen Title For Harvest Ball

Finalists for queen of the Harvest Ball, 9 p.m. to midnight Friday in Recreation Hall, are Sylvia Crum, Caroline Manbeck, and Jayn Frank.

Lyman E. Jackson, dean of the School of Agriculture; Ridge Riley, alumni executive secretary; and Louis Bell, director of public information, announced the finalists.

Student Paper—

At a board of regents meeting later, Harris told the author of the editorial that state funds, amounting to about one-third of the school paper's $15,000 annual budget, would be discontinued if more editorials construed as being at variance with state segregation laws appeared.

The next day the university's paper carried a page-one story and editorial declaring that Harris had threatened to "put us out of business."

Harris said the articles had "misrepresented" him. "I didn't threaten them. I just told them what was going to happen," he explained.

University officials and student editors met later. After the meeting the students issued a letter expressing "deep concern if we have created an embarrassing situation for the university or for the board of regents through our editorial and news columns."

The issue had apparently been settled when Harris' name-calling article appeared.

The students said they were shocked by the article. They said they would like to strike back in defense, but were keenly aware of "pressures" on the university.

Forty-six hundred students are enrolled in the university. Reportedly, the 544 students in the Agriculture college and the 221 students in the Home Economics department voiced strongest support of school segregation.

Miss Crum is a fifth semester home economics major and is sponsored by Delta Delta Delta. A seventh semester liberal arts major, Miss Manbeck is also sponsored by Delta Delta Delta. Miss Frank, sponsored by Alpha Chi Omega, is a fifth semester medical technology major.

Applause to Choose

The queen will be chosen by applause during intermission. She will receive an inscribed gold trophy.

Committee chairmen for the dance are Robert Sutter, publicity; Clark Sell, decorations; David Morrow, tickets; and Peter Bond, refreshments.

Decorations for the ball will center around a blue and white autumn theme. A dark blue background with silver musical notes and a blue and white banding will provide a backdrop for the bandstand. At the far end of the hall, a blue backdrop will be featured with silver letters spelling out "Harvest Ball."

Blue, White Banner

Tickets for the Harvest Ball may be purchased for $2 at the Student Union desk in Old Main or from representatives of the Agricultural clubs.

Music for the dance, sponsored by the Agriculture Student Council, will be provided by Johnny Nicolosi and his orchestra. Agriculture Student Council requests no corsages be worn. Refreshments of cookies and punch will be served.

MISS EDIE SPAULDING, AXO

Okay Joe?

This is one of Edie's pictures for the AXO composite. Perhaps not too appropriate for a composite but certainly a most lasting portrait. You can't help but note something classic about her profile. One of the few girls a short hair-do does wonders for.

Did you ever get stuck in this town on a student holiday? The term, "dead" could hardly fit the description. A word more ghoul-like would have to be coined. And that too would hardly do justice. Even what the movies offered to us would make Lower Slobovians turn green.

I think this will be the last week you can arrange to have a pre-Xmas sitting. And speaking objectively, a good portrait is a gift hard to beat, especially for parents.
