

Chapel Fund Grants Benefit 2 Students

By AL MUNN

Two students from Silliman University in the Philippines are taking graduate work at the University on scholarships provided by Chapel fund contributions.

Evangeline Nobleza is majoring in home economics and George Juliano in agriculture education. Both students worked as junior members of faculty at Silliman.

Home Economics Faculty To Be Rated By Students

The faculty rating sheet for the College of Home Economics will be distributed to classes by the Home Economics Student Council during the last week of the semester.

Jane Mason, council president said students will be able to evaluate their instructors and textbooks used in the course, but will not be required to sign their names to the opinions. Council members will tabulate results and give them to individual instructors.

The council Tuesday elected Mabel M. Nemoto, instructor of home art, to be its faculty representative and to attend meetings as an adviser.

It was suggested that eighth semester seniors should be asked to evaluate courses from the previous semesters. Mary Lou Schillenburgh, Douglas Fischer, and Joan Fretz were appointed to study the suggestion and report to the council.

A party was held with the Mineral Industries Student Council following the meeting.

Chapel funds were sent to Ligan, China until the revolutionists refused to let money enter the country. The Chapel fund board of directors debated over a year before they decided to establish two scholarships for students from Silliman University for the academic years 1952-53 and 1953-54, and put the remainder in the campus chapel fund.

Scholarships Total $3000

The scholarships amount to $3000. Miss Nobleza receives room, board, fees, and travel expenses. Juliano receives room, board, and fees. The Presbyterian Board of Foreign Missions paid traveling expenses and bills for the summer school session for Juliano.

Silliman University was founded in 1901 at Damagute City in the Philippines. It is privately operated by the Board of Foreign Missions, the Congregational Church, and the Evangelical Church of the Philippines.

Carries On Research

Approximately 3500 students are enrolled there with 1750 on the college level. Silliman University carries on research, resident instruction, and extension work.

The College of Agriculture at the University has been advising and helping the Agriculture department at Silliman.

Juliano and Miss Nobleza will do extension work when they return to the Philippines.

Saturday Classes--

at other times anyway." Elizabeth Ives, first semester arts and letters major: "Saturday is the only day of the week to sleep. This new schedule is going to be as hard on the professors as on the students."

Herman Kaufman, seventh semester industrial engineering major: "I've had Saturday classes for seven semesters, so one more semester doesn't matter. The new schedule helps spread out my classes."

Anne Cain, first semester applied arts major: "I think Saturday classes will mean an increase in cuts. The problem will be especially great on big weekends."

Frederick Shoyer, fifth semester business administration major: "I think Saturday classes will affect the University's enrollment. Men who have to work will have more trouble getting part-time jobs."

Suzanne Kiel, fifth semester arts and letters major: "The five-day work week has become general in most occupations. Why shouldn't the students have a five-day week, too?"

Edward Frick, fifth semester labor management major: "The reasons given for the scheduling change don't seem sufficiently valid to warrant Saturday classes. The program will destroy a lot of spirit in the athletic program by keeping students from attending out-of-town sports events."

Eleanor Duffan, third semester education major: "I don't think I'll mind Saturday classes. I like the idea of having my classes spread out."

Earl Wollaston, third semester business major: "I don't like the idea of not being able to go home over weekends. I think scheduling of Saturday classes is an attempt to cut short the weekend social program and a publicity stunt to get more classroom buildings."

Margaret Choate, first semester arts and letters major: "Aside from keeping me from going home on weekends Saturday classes won't affect me. Of course, I haven't tried to work out a schedule yet."

Trampled Lawns Have Cost Students $3500 This Year

Students have wasted $3500 so far this year.

This was revealed yesterday by Walter Trainer, supervisor of landscape construction and maintenance, who said the $3500 represents the expense of replacing lawn ruined by trampling students.

"If the present rate of lawn destruction continues without check or control the cost may be as high as $5000. Such money is not in our budget," Trainer said.

He pointed out the money would be spent for improvements on campus and for campus projects if it were not needed to replace campus lawns.

To facilitate hurrying students,

12,720 feet of new walks were built in 1953. Cost of the new paths was $4554.

Over 16 miles of walks are now on campus, Trainer reported.

Although they look dormant, lawns are presently in a "critical period" Trainer said. If they are trampled now, he said, they must be replaced.

If the lawns continue to be ruined at their present rate, Trainer warned, there will not be sufficient funds in his department's budget to continue replacing them.

New walks are built wherever they are necessary, Trainer said. The University Physical Plant does not presently have the funds necessary to install new walks, Trainer reported in November.

Mark Reports Hubcap Thefts

Capt. Philip A. Mark of the Campus Patrol has warned students with late model cars on campus to "take the hubcaps off their cars and lock them in the trunk."

Mark reported a rash of robberies of hubcaps on cars parked in out-of-the-way places on campus. At least ten caps have been stolen within the last week, he said. All four hubcaps have been taken from two cars on campus, he said.

Mark advised students to secure gas caps with locks on them. Thefts of caps have also been reported recently, he said.
