

20 Foreign Students Enrolled on Campus

By JOE BEAU SEIGNEUR

Probably most of the Penn Staters you know are from Pennsylvania or at least from the States. But a glance at the Foreign Student Directory reveals that over 43 countries are represented on campus. Most of these are, of course, graduate students, but the directory lists 20 in regular undergraduate work. The most popular major for the 20 is petroleum and natural gas engineering, which has five enrollees.

The Zetas and Acacia also held a children's Christmas party at the chapter house.

WSGA Begins Clothing Drive

The annual clothing drive sponsored by the House of Representatives of the Women's Student Government Association began yesterday.

Marie Wagner, fifth semester home economics major, is chairman of the committee in charge of the drive. The committee has placed boxes in each of the dormitory units where students may contribute old clothes.

The drive will continue until the desired quota is reached. The clothing will be given to the Friends' Committee in State College for shipment abroad.

Phi Sigma Sigma To Hold Dance

Phi Sigma Sigma will hold a square dance at the Temporary Union Building from 9 p.m. to 12 midnight Saturday.

The dance which is an annual affair will feature Duane Beals and his square dance orchestra.

Tickets will be sold on Thursday and Friday afternoon in front of the bulletin board near Carnegie by members of the sorority. Donation is 35 cents.

Proceeds from the dance go to a rheumatic heart fund.

PSCA Will Present Racial Prejudice Film

"The Toy Maker," a film which symbolically shows how fear and suspicion originate when people become aware of racial differences, will be shown at the Penn State Christian Association Assembly at 6:45 p.m. tomorrow in 304 Old Main.

The picture was obtained through the Anti-Defamation League of B'nai B'rith. The meeting will close at 7:30 p.m. so that students may attend the Penn State-Syracuse basketball game.

If You Wanta Be a Queen— Try Penn State

By AL MUNN

Girls, would you like to be a queen? If so, Penn State is the right place to enroll for higher education. During the school year, nine queens are elected, plus the Froth Girl of the Month and the Engineer Girl of the Month if you happen to be left out somewhere.

The majority of the fraternities also have a queen sometime during the year for one of their annual dances.

The University list includes Dairy, Belle Hop Ball, Homecoming, Junior Prom, Harvest Ball, Military Ball, Forestry Ball, May Day, and Miss Penn State, all queens.

At one time, the May Day Queen was "the" queen on campus. The prettiest and/or most popular girl was honored and it was a big event.

Then various dance and activities committees decided to run queens for publicity. The idea grew.

Mardi Gras has gone one better and elects a king.

The Ugly Man contest during Spring Week is a take-off. Instead of electing a pretty girl, this committee picks an "ugly" man, chosen, however, on the basis of popularity.

If the queen idea is pushed much further, Penn State will soon have at least one per weekend maybe more. One thing must be admitted, a number of women graduates from the University can claim that they were queens.

Panhel Council

Panhellenic Council will meet at 6:30 tonight in the Sigma Delta Tau chapter room, 158 Simmons.
