

Deadline Changed For Grad Polls

The deadline in the polls on graduate student housing and proposed fee increase has been postponed until 5 p.m. tomorrow, Moylan Mills, editor of the Graduate Student Newsletter, has announced.

Questionnaires should be put in ballot boxes in either the offices of the deans of the nine colleges or in the office of Harold K. Schilling, dean of the Graduate school.

Additional copies of both questionnaires are still available in the deans' offices.

Ag Council to Discuss Fate of Harvest Ball

The Agriculture Student Council will meet at 7 tonight in 105 Agriculture to take formal action on the suggestion to discontinue the Harvest Ball.

At the last council meeting, council was notified the dance caused a loss of $100.

Men's Debate Tryouts Will Be Held Tonight

Tryouts for the men's debate team will be held at 7 tonight in 316 Sparks, according to Thomas Farrell, team manager.

Those interested should prepare a five-minute talk on whether the United States should adopt a policy of free trade. The talk may be either affirmative or negative.

Cap, Gown Orders

Seniors graduating this semester may still order caps and gowns at the Athletic Store today through Friday. Caps and gowns may be picked up at the Athletic Store three days before graduation.

Marino Outstanding Boxer
Captain Marino, two-time Eastern 125-pound champion who was voted the outstanding boxer of the 1953 Intercollegiate Boxing Association tournament, lost the 119-pound title to Vic Kobe, Idaho State, in the semi-finals.

Flore was defeated in the 139-pound class by champion Calvin Clary, Louisiana State, in the finals.

Adam Kois, this year's captain, was defeated in the finals by Wisconsin's champion, Ray Zale, the 178-pound winner of the tourney's Outstanding Player trophy award.

The original date set for the NCAA tournament was listed in Penn State's winter sport's schedule as April 8-10. Neither Ernest B. McCoy, director of athletics, nor James H. Coogan, public information sports editor, had returned yesterday from the Cincinnati conference for immediate comment concerning the change.

The Penn State Outing Club skied at the Boalsburg trail yesterday and reported skiing conditions to be good.

Seating Plan--

Student Cooperation

Despite the good results on Saturday, Czekaj said there is still room for improvement. In an effort to utilize every bit of space, some students were asked to place their coats on their laps rather than on the seat next to them. Student cooperation in connection with this request, which was made by Czekaj and ushers, was good.

Eighteen persons can be seated on each of the rows in the balcony, with the exception of the first row, which can seat 20. Czekaj said he counted the number of persons seated in various rows, selected at random, and found that only 14 or 15 persons were seated in some of the rows. The same condition was noticeable in the bleachers on the main floor, where ten persons can be seated in each section.

WDFM To Present Special Program

Campus Station WDFM will broadcast a special tape recorded interview with members of the gymnastics team and Coach Gene Wettstone at 9:30 tonight. The interview will concern the coming meet with the Swedish Olympic team Saturday night in Recreation Hall.

More WDFM Music During Finals Requested by Student Petitions

Student petitions requesting Station WDFM to broadcast music between midnight and "2 or 3 a.m." during final exam week have been circulated through dormitories and fraternity houses.

The 14 petitions, each with space for 50 signatures, state: "We the undersigned students of the Pennsylvania State University, wish to fully endorse the suggestion that radio station WDFM broadcast nightly from midnight until 2 or 3 a.m. during the final examination period only." So far, approximately 400 signatures have been obtained.

A spot check yesterday indicated WDFM staff members would support the programming if it were allowed.

Commenting on the petitions yesterday, David R. Mackey, faculty manager of the station, said that since late programming would be a considerable departure from the regular procedure, he would have to obtain an official statement from the staff on the matter and then present the issue to the station Board of Directors.

"I have no personal feelings in the matter," Mackey said. "What ever the Board of Directors would decide would be fine with me."

If the program were adopted, the station could sign off at 10:30 p.m. and return to the air at midnight with an uninterrupted broadcast of music, according to a WDFM staff member.

tany and other surrounding mountains.

A large banquet room will provide seating facilities for as many as 850 people in regular weather and many more if the adjoining terrace can be utilized in good weather, Donovan added. Smaller banquets will be held at the Nittany Lion Hotel.

Committees to Set Policies

Policies for the new SU will be set by a special committee of students and faculty. He felt that the building, which has been in the planning stage since 1937, "will take care of the needs of the Penn State students."

Donovan said students at last year's Student Encampment wanted to give the building a definite name other than the logical choice, Student Union building. The Student Union Board will make the final decision.

Names suggested are the Warnock Union Building, for Arthur R. Warnock, dean of men for 30 years; the Hetzel Union Building, for Ralph Dorm Hetzel, president of the University for 20 years; and the Memorial Union Building in honor of graduates of the University who died in World Wars I and II.
