

2 Fraternities Vote 100% in Elections

Delta Tau Delta and Phi Epsilon Pi had 100 per cent participation in the fall semester sophomore class elections, according to a survey recently completed by Lewis Goslin, Lion Party vice-clique chairman.

According to Benjamin Sinclair, Lion Party clique chairman, results of the survey will be used to plan future Lion Party campaigns. The State Party won two out of three sophomore class offices in the fall elections.

Other fraternities having a high number of members participating in the elections were Phi Gamma Delta, 78 per cent; Sigma Alpha Mu, 75 per cent; Delta Theta Sigma, 75 per cent; Pi Kappa Alpha, 74 per cent; Acacia, 67 per cent; Alpha Gamma Rho, 62 per cent; Kappa Sigma, 58 per cent; Tau Phi Delta, 57 per cent; Phi Kappa, 50 per cent; Theta Chi, 47 per cent; and Tau Kappa Epsilon, 47 per cent.

The independent men's living unit with the largest voting percentage was Hamilton Hall with 43 per cent.

In the women's voting, Atherton Hall's voting percentage of 42 was the highest. McElwain Hall was close behind with 39 per cent.

In a breakdown of the vote by colleges, the Division of Intermediate Registration far exceeded the others with a voting percentage of 78 per cent. The College of Physical Education and Athletics was in second place with 45 per cent.

One of the freshmen had paid the other to take his Air Science final examination, Dean of Men Frank J. Simes reported yesterday.

Indefinite suspension means that a student will not necessarily be permitted to petition for readmittance at the end of one semester, Simes said.

Fehnel Reports Ag Fee Plan Is Unsuccessful

Despite the new plan initiated for spring registration for payment of the 50 cent Farmer subscription fee by students in the College of Agriculture, students again failed to pay their fee, Edgar Fehnel, retiring editor of the Penn State Farmer, said last night at the Agriculture Student Council meeting.

Fehnel reported approximately the same number of students paid the fee this semester as last semester. Five hundred students paid the 50 cents during fall registration.

According to reports from council members, many students still favor discontinuing the magazine. Fehnel felt that if an Agricultural School of Journalism were introduced the Farmer would not need the financial support of students in order to continue publication.

A plan to promote attendance at club meetings by the standardized scheduling of club activities and blue books in the College was proposed by the club committee.

The plan would provide for curricular clubs to meet on the first and/or third Monday of each month and for general clubs to meet on the second and/or fourth Wednesday of each month.
