Matmen Pin Maryland, 22-6, Extend Winning Streak to 33

By SAM PROCOPIO

With more than 1800 spectators looking on, Penn State's fabulous wrestling team pinned Maryland at College Park last night, 22-6, to successfully hurdle its fourth obstacle this season and its 33rd opponent in succession.

The win, which rewrote the Penn State record books once again, was more impressive than the score indicates. Bill Krebs and Joe Humphreys did exceptionally well in handling the two highly regarded Fischer brothers, Bob and Ernie, despite losing.

The only falls gained by Coach Charlie Speidel's wrestlers were gained by sophomores Joe Krufka and Bill Oberly in the heavier weights. Krufka, wrestling his initial match for the Lions, pinned 177-pounder Bob Drake in 5:47 with a three-quarter nelson; while heavyweight Oberly had his Maryland foe, Carl Everly, flush with the mat in 7:08 with a half nelson and grape vine hold.

Hal Byers started the Lions off to a 3-0 lead as he captured his second victory of the season, decisioning Frank Alfaro, 8-3. Trailing 3-1 late in the first period, Byers gained a take down. Then in the second period, wrestling on vantage position but was immediately reversed.

JERRY MAUREY, Lion 137-pound EIWA champion, scored a 16-5 victory over Don Hartnett last night to aid the Lions in a 22-6 triumph at the expense of Maryland at College Park. Bob Fischer (left) had one of the two decisions won by Maryland. He defeated Bill Krebs, 4-1.

In the 130-pound battle Bob Homan remained unbeaten this season when he easily defeated Rony Carroll, 7-1. Although there wasn't any action in the first period, Homan escaped from Carroll's hold and then took him down. The Maryland grappler escaped in the third period for his only point but he was taken down. Homan received two points for riding time.

Speidel's 130-pounder, Larry Fornicola, who has moved up one weight class for the third time this season, got back into the winning column. He decisioned Dan Little, 7-2. Little found the Bellefonte matman a little hard to handle. Little's only two points came in the final period when he took down Fornicola; however, the Maryland 137-pounder had control for a short time as Fornicola reversed him.

In what was probably the most interesting match of the evening, Jerry Maurey found his 147-pound adversary, Don Hartnett, wrestling in a shell. Nevertheless, in the third period State's EIWA champion permitted Hartnett to escape five times, only to take him down each time. The final score read, 16-5.

At this point Penn State took a commanding 12-0 team lead. However, the Fischer brothers were not to be denied. Krebs, wrestling in his own class for the first time lost a hard-fought 4-1 battle in the 157-pound division. Fischer had two minutes riding time and a reversal, while Krebs scored an escape in the third period.

Joe Humphreys, who like Krufka wrestled his first match for the Lions, was edged out 3-1 by one of the finest matmen in the 167-pound class, Ernie Fischer. There was no action in the first period. But in the next, Humphrey was given a penalty escape be-

Mark Criticizes Parking Rules, Asks Changes

Captain Philip A. Mark of the Campus Patrol yesterday called for a change in parking regulations to make them apply to faculty and staff members and graduate students, and 200 cars were tagged and $19 in fines was collected on the first day of operation of a new fine-collection system.

Mark called the present system of enforcement of parking regulations "unfair to students" because students are fined and other violators are not.

James Dunlap, Traffic Court chairman, commenting on Mark's statement last night, agreed "There is a great inequality in the present system. It is unfair to slap a fine on students and not on other violators," he said.

Dunlap pointed out that changes would have to come from the administration, since faculty and staff members and graduate students are not under the jurisdiction of student government groups.

Traffic committee recommendations are on the agenda for tonight's meeting of All-College Cabinet.

Graduate students who violate the regulations are generally warned by the Dean of Men's office or the dean of the College in which they are doing graduate work.

Deans of colleges are told when faculty and staff members in their school violate regulations. Enforcement or disciplinary measures are solely in their hands, Mark said.

He said he thought this leads to unfair and unequal punishment for the same violations. "A faculty man's car takes just as much room as a student's car," he commented.

If the administration is interested in easing campus parking problems, it should "clean its own house first," Mark commented.

Eight students were fined a total of $19 yesterday at the Patrol office. Under the fine-collection system which went into effect yesterday, students who receive

Ice Hockey Team Not Anticipated

There will be no ice hockey team at the University in the foreseeable future, Ernest B. McCoy, Dean of the College of Physical Education and Athletics, said yesterday.

Rumors that a hockey team would be formed had been circulating on campus after plans were announced to build an ice skating rink soon.

Cost of supporting an ice hockey team was listed as the chief reason for there being no team planned. Few universities and colleges outside of the New England area maintain intercollegiate teams in the sport.

Construction of the rink will get underway as soon as plans are completed and the weather permits, McCoy said.

Admission charge for students will probably be set at 25 cents, McCoy said. The charge will cover one session of skating, he said, and not one day. Several skating sessions a day are planned.

On weekdays, an afternoon session, from 3 to 6 p.m. and an evening session, from 7 to 10 p.m. is being planned. The rink will probably be open all day on Saturdays, and from 1 p.m. on Sundays.

Men's physical education classes in ice skating are also being planned, McCoy said.

Skating will be to music. Lighting facilities will be installed for night skating.

The rink will be built by mid-November, McCoy said. Until plans are completed, no estimate of the cost can be made, he said.

Skating will be halted periodically to allow workmen to re-surface the ice. This will be done by sprinkling hot water on the surface, which will melt the surface of the ice, and fill cuts and scrapes in the surface. This process will assure an even surface at all times, McCoy said.

The University will build the 32-by-65-foot building on the west side of the rink and will do preparatory work. A refrigeration firm will install equipment for the rink.

The rink will be built in the tennis court area east of Nittany dormitory 44. It will accommodate 800 skaters at one time.

Library Stacks Remain Open

No action has been taken to close the new extension of the library due to recent magazine thefts, Ralph W. McComb, University librarian, said yesterday.

Previously, McComb had said the periodical stacks might have to be closed to students due to heavy losses of unbound magazines.

The present situation is being watched, but no plans to close the section have been made, he said.

Geology Prof to Speak

John P. Miller, assistant professor of geology, will discuss the "Great Mountains of America" before the Penn State Geographical Society at 7:30 tonight in 218 Mineral Science.

Vietminh Units Near Laos Capital

HANOI, Indochina, Feb. 10 (AP)—Advance rebel guards pressed within six miles and sight of Luang Prabang's golden-roofed palace and pagoda tonight, but the defenders expressed confidence they could throw back any Communist-led Vietminh assault on Laos' royal capital.

Reports received here indicated the advance rebel units were mostly regional troops, recruited to pave the way for Vietminh's crack Division 308 still about 30 miles to the northeast. The division, which covered 120 miles in four days, was believed resting and gathering fresh rice supplies.

About 1100 of the rebel regional troops had made some contact with Luang Prabang's defenders about ten miles from the city limits, the French said.

Qualified observers here believe that the Vietminh, if it really plans an all-out assault on Luang Prabang instead of pulling away from its approaches as it did last May, likely will not be able to attack for another week.

The rebel advance units slashed their way through jungle and banana and coconut groves and drove within sight of the royal capital during the last 24 hours. But these units were described as too small to launch any frontal attack.

French and Laotian troops were reported strongly entrenched with artillery on hills overlooking the entrances to Luang Prabang.

Freshman Customs Revisions To Be Presented to Cabinet

A report on proposed revisions of freshman customs regulations will be presented to All-College Cabinet at 8 tonight in 201 Old Main.

The report, which was tabled at the last cabinet meeting to allow more time for study, will be submitted by William Shifflett, co-chairman of the Freshman Customs Board. Shifflett was appointed at the last cabinet meeting to replace Thomas Farrell, who was graduated.

Lack of Funds Delays Return Of 'Lineman'

Lack of shipping funds and difficulty in securing trucking facilities are the reasons for the failure of the removal of "The Lineman," Harry Archinal, president of Pi Gamma Alpha, fine arts honorary society, said yesterday.

The decision to return the statue was brought about by a lack of interest in its possibility as last year's senior gift. Permission was granted by its sculptor, William Zorach, to keep it on display indefinitely in Old Main.

Pi Gamma Alpha paid shipping charges to have the statue brought on campus and will decide at a future meeting the exact date of its return.

"The Lineman," a large figure of a kneeling football figure, was originally done as a part of a sports series. Because of its high quality the statue was exhibited at the 1932 Olympic Games in Los Angeles, and at the Newark Museum. It is priced at $5000.

According to the proposed revisions, freshman men and women would be required to wear name cards and blue dinks with the white University seal for the duration of a two-weeks period.
