First Reading Hour Features 3 Students

One graduate student and two undergraduates will give readings in the first reading hour of the spring semester at 7 p.m. tomorrow in McElwain Hall lounge.

, Marian Ungar Barash, graduate speech major, Margaret Troutman, eighth semester English-speech education major, and William Grundy, fifth semester liberal arts major, will read in the program. Philip Wein, fifth semester hour.

tival.

Four Students To Initiate Sorority Talks

Four Panhellenic Council members will lead a fireside discussion on "What Sorority Offers You" for women living in McAllister Hall at 9:15 tonight in McAllister Way Barash, who was manager Hall lounge.

Tonight's program will be the first in a series of discussions sponsored by the council. Discussion leaders are Jane Grundy will read an excerpt

Discussion leaders are Jane Bishop, eighth semester home eco-nomics major, Marilyn Buzby, eighth semester pre-medical ma-was the representative from the jor, Norma Reck, sixth semester education major, and Mary Heck-man, sixth semester medical tech-sylvania Intercollegiate Reading Before 1945 proceeds from the nician major.

The talk will include the soror ity rushing program, sororities in campus and community functions, social activities, expenses of belonging to a sorority, average requirements made upon women by their sororities, the advantages of being a sorority member after graduation, and living and work-

Initiates 59 Women

Fifty-nine new members have Schwab Auditorium, been initiated into the Home Economics Club by Doris Strathmeyer, retiring president. New officers are president, Car-ol Jenks; vice president, Phyllis Richards; recording secretary,

Walter and Florence

Freshman Council Freshman Council will meet at 6:30 tonight in the Day Student's room in Woman's Building

WRA Will Hold Sweetheart Ball Saturdav Nicht

The program will mark the sec-ond half of the sixth annual ser-ies of reading hours on campus. The Women's Recreation Association will continue a 16-year-old tradition when it holds the The series is sponsored by the oral interpretation division of the Speech department under the di-Sweetheart Dance from 9 p.m. to midnight Saturday in White Hall. The dance is the only semi-for-mal affair held in White Hall, where WRA has beer sponsoring the event since the building was constructed in 1938. Each year the dance is a girl-ask-boy event based on a Valentine theme. This year's theme will be "Alice in Wonderland." Jack Huber and his orchestra, assisted by vocalist Francis Spatafore, second semester arts and letters major, will play for the dance. Tickets are on sale for $1.7

dance were used for scholarship Miss Troutman, who is a memfund. Since then four war orphans Miss Troutman, who is a mem-ber of the debate team, will read Robert Nathan's "Portrait of forts. Marie Aftanas, 14-year-old Jenny." Miss Troutman was the University's representative in the short story event at the Pennsyl-Josianne Macquet, 10-year-old Fromb shild was the first to re short story event at the Pennsyl- Josianne Macquet, 10-year-old vania Intercollegiate Reading Fes- French child, was the firs. to receive aid from WRA. Ireta Pasz-taul, 13-year-old Polish orphan, Oral interpretation became popularized at Penn State six years ago when the oral interpretation workshop was begun mainly by faculty members. Each year agreater percentage of students took part in the reading hours sponsored by the workshop. In November students at the University heard Charles Laughton. na-

Members of Alpha Chi Omega are addressing 14,000 envelopes for the 1954 Easter seal sale for the Pennsylvania Society for Crip-pled Children and Adults, Inc. Seals will be mailed to residents of Centre County.

This is part of the sorority's na-tional project which was started at the end of World War II when the national vice president investigated various organizations to

THOMAS BRASHER and Sylvia Smith get the worst of Richard Meek's fun at the Blue Key-Chimes Valentine Party which was held last Sunday at Phi Gamma Delta for 20 underprivileged children from Woodycrest.

Aches 'n Pains Suffered By Chimes, Blue Key

By NANCY WARD

Members of Chimes, junior women's hat society, and Blue Key, junior men's hat society, trudged stiffly around campus yesterday as a result of bumps and bruises suffered Sunday when the two groups entertained 15 children from Woodycrest at Phi Gamma Delta.

The hosts and hostesses were run ragged playing games the kids took in their stride. Members of Blue Key played horse for young "piggy-back" riders who battled gaily with balloons from the balloons from stance. The bubbles were stamped unfamiliar heights.

Energy to Spare!

One clever member of Blue Key left.

out on the floor by capricious unfamiliar heights. It was a continual challenge to catch a racing Dennis-the-menace to include him in a game, feed him cake and ice cream, or give him a toy. A glass of milk remained un-touched until the depths of the kitchen were scoured for a straw. Paper hats soared around the out on the floor by capricious four-year-olds and the entertainer spent some time after the party cleaning up the spots. There were of course, those who refused to be entertained, preferring instead to trip the corner, or bite ballons. "It was all part of the fun but

Paper hats soared around the 'It was all part of the fun, but room and the popping of balloons exhausted students sighed wearily interspersed with conversation. when the still-peppy youngsters

Jean Mercer; corresponding sec-retary, Gail Fromer; and treas-urer, Ann Sterner.

Three more reading hours will be held this semester, one in March, a two-day reading festival in April, and a final reading hour in May.

sity heard Charles Laughton, na-tional figure in oral interpreta-tion, give a series of readings in speech major, is chairman for the rection of Mrs. Harriet Nesbitt,

Mrs. Barash, who was manager of the vomen's debate team while Festival on campus last spring.