Indian Foreign Policy Question To Be Debated at 8 Tonight

The first Indian college debate team to tour the United States will debate the question of Indian foreign policy against two University students at 8 p.m. tonight in Schwab Auditorium.

"Resolved: that Indian foreign policy offers the only hope for the establishment of world peace," will be the topic of discussion at the annual international debate.

Mrigendra K. Chaturvedi, 22, of Maharaja College, Jaipur, and Rameshchandra P. Sirkar, 21, of Elphinstone College, Bombay, will assume the affirmative position against Richard Kirschner and Benjamin Sinclair of the men's debate team.

Stolen Goods Are Recovered By Fraternity

Delta Sigma Phi reported yesterday they have recovered most of the clothing and personal possessions stolen from their house during a party Saturday night.

Fraternity members picked up the stolen items at the home of one of the three men arrested in connection with the robbery. Three sweaters, $19 in cash, and a beer mug is still missing. Thieves took $536 worth of possessions from the house.

One thousand dollars bail was set and posted for the three men and they have been released from jail.

Justice of the Peace Guy G. Mills said that the three men, James Williams, 20, Rodger Garner, 18, and Garry Willison, 17, all of Saxton, were under the influence of alcoholic beverages when they took the items.

Judge Ivan Walker of Centre County court, indicated Monday that the case will come before the court at the May session.

The international debate is part of the debate exchange program sponsored by the Institute of International Education in cooperation with the Speech Association of America and the Indian government. The program started at Fordham University last week, where the Indian team debated that Indian neutrality is necessary for an understanding between East and West. Joseph F. O'Brien, professor of public speaking, reported that the Fordham program was well-received by the student body.

Chaturvedi and Sirkar will discuss affirmatively Gandhism as an alternative to war and the Fakir as mightier than the man of action. Both will oppose the motions that equality is essential for democracy and that plenty is more dangerous than poverty. Chaturvedi has been president of the University Law College Union, captain of the tennis team, and member of the cricket team. He is independent in politics. Sirkar, 21, whose student activities include debate, dramatics, and chess, adheres to an "entirely theoretical" political position.

University Service Committee Will Foster Education Program

A World University Service committee, to be composed of student and faculty representatives, is in the process of organization at the University.

An international education program based on mutual assistance among the world university community is sponsored by the WUS.

Richard Gibbs, coordinator of the committee, said the establishment of a WUS group on campus will mark the first attempt in the Middle Atlantic district to distribute control of the program between the WUS district office and a university campus.

Funds Given to WUS The University this year gave 20 per cent of undesignated funds from Campus Chest to the WUS, in addition to money designated to the organization by contributors.

Students and professors of all religions participate in the WUS. It has no political purposes or activities. Its function is to help needy students and faculty members at universities abroad, individually and through projects which benefit the particular university community.

Work Is Universal The organization works in North America, Western Europe, the Middle East, South Asia, and in countries of the Far East. It is developing contacts with Africa and South America.

Gibbs said members of the WUS committee at the University will come from the National Student Association, Hillel Foundation, Penn State Christian Association, Newman Club, Cosmopolitan Club, International Relations Club, Interfraternity and Panhellenic Councils, Leonides, the Association of Independent Men, and the faculty.

Will Mainly Advise The committee at the University will be mainly an administrative and advisory group, Gibbs said. Under All-College Cabinet recognition which will be asked Thursday night, he said, it will report to other student organizations on WUS work throughout the world, obtain speakers on international problems for interested groups, and sponsor clothing and book drives.

Gibbs said the main purpose of the committee will be to associate the student body with the foreign students at the University. It will help these students to take part in campus activities and encourage them to inform their fellow students of the life in their homelands, Gibbs said.

The committee will be divorced from all other campus organizations, he said, but will work for the benefit of all those who wish to make use of its facilities.
