

Greek Week Activity Schedule Will Open With Work Projects

The schedule of activities for the 1954 Interfraternity Council-Panhellenic Greek Week have been announced and chairmen for various events have been named. In a release yesterday by John Carpenter of Sigma Alpha Epsilon and Iris Rodgin of Phi Sigma Sigma, the fraternity and sorority co-chairmen for the project, 14 men and women were appointed to head the departments. The week will be held from March 27 to April 3.

Enelow to Ask For Charter For New CPA

Myron Enelow, representative of the Central Promotion Agency, Wednesday night will apply to the University Senate committee of student affairs for a CPA charter. The CPA will also apply for membership in the Associated Student Activities, which would make it an official campus organization.

Approximately 40 persons turned out Thursday to organize plans for the development of CPA into a fulltime student activity.

According to Enelow, the group has applied and has tentatively secured a room in the new Student Union building. Other plans for the operation of the CPA are in the negotiating stage now, he said.

The group will meet at 7 p.m. Thursday in 2 Carnegie. Students may still join CPA, according to Enelow. Interested persons may call Otto Hetzel, at 8-6967, for further information.

Warm Weather May Continue Until Tuesday

The unseasonably warm weather of the past week will probably continue at least until Tuesday, according to the University Weather Station.

The February temperature record of 69 degrees, set in 1890, was broken by a thermometer recording of 73 degrees last Tuesday. The normal temperatures for February is 27 degrees.

The warm weather was attributed by University meteorologists to warm air masses moving northward covering most of the United States and Canada.

Sharp increases in temperature have been noted throughout the country.

Flying Club Film

The U.S. Navy will show a film at the Flying Club meeting at 7 p.m. Monday in 208 Willard.

Carpenter said action will really begin the week prior to the main events when IFC-Panhel sing preliminaries are held March 24 and 26. The sing, he explained, is the choosing of a top fraternity and sorority vocal group.

Once Greek Week gets into full swing, the tentative calendar prepared by the committee reads:

March 27, Greek Community Day with fraternity-sorority work projects.

March 28, Greek Sunday with Chapel and church services in the morning and IFC-Panhel sing finals in the evening at Schwab Auditorium.

March 29, Outstanding Pledge banquet with the top pledges from all fraternities and sororities attending.

March 30, exchange dinner between fraternities and sororities.

April 1, IFC-Panhel spring banquet.

April 2, IFC-Panhel Ball at Recreation Hall with Ralph Flanagan's orchestra.

April 3, fraternity house parties.

Carpenter pointed out that March 31 had been left an open date so students would have a break in the week's activities.

A poster contest will also be sponsored, Carpenter announced, with the resulting posters being placed in the windows of downtown merchants as advertisements for the week. A prize will be given to the fraternity and to the sorority entering the winning poster in each group, he said.

Committee chairmen named included Allan Schneirov, Phi Epsilon Pi, and Marie Heller, Zeta Tau Alpha, community work projects; Kirk Garber, Sigma Chi, and Jeanette Nittrauer, Kappa Alpha Theta, Greek Sunday; Alexander Zerban, Tau Kappa Epsilon, and Anna Mae Webb, Alpha Xi Delta, IFC-Panhel sing.

Alec Beliasov, Phi Kappa Psi, and Jane Bishop, Alpha Gamma Delta, IFC-Panhel and pledge banquets; William Wismer, Sigma Alpha Epsilon, and Nina Finkle, Alpha Epsilon Phi, exchange dinners; John Reid, Tau Kappa Epsilon, Greek Week booklet; Benjamin Lowenstein, Phi Sigma Delta, and Katharine Reynolds, Kappa Kappa Gamma, advertisement and posters; and Nancy Ward, Kappa Alpha Theta, publicity.

Formal Pledging Begins Today For Freshmen

Pledging of second semester freshmen by fraternities formally began at 7 a.m. this morning.

The seven days until next Saturday have been designated by Bruce Coble, Interfraternity Council rushing chairman, as pledge week. He has urged fraternities to extend bids to rush-ees and pledge them during this time.

Coble has asked fraternities who pledge men during this week to turn in official acceptance cards and the $2 pledge fee to Alan McClesney, IFC secretary-treasurer, at Phi Kappa Sigma or to the Student Union desk in Old Main by next Saturday.

This is so the council may list the men as officially pledged and do the paper work involved at one time, he pointed out. No penalty will be issued if the cards and money are not turned in by this time, he added, and fraternities may continue to rush and pledge throughout the semester.

Requirements for pledging, as listed in the IFC rushing and pledging code, are that the prospective pledge have a 1.0 All-University average and be receiving resident instruction at the University. They are not recognized as officially pledged by the IFC until the acceptance card and pledging fee have been submitted.

The code furthermore states that if a man breaks his pledge, he may not be pledged nor remain overnight in any fraternity house for a period of at least 30 days. This, however, does not apply to pledges dissolved by sole action of the fraternity, the code reveals.

Chem-Phys Society Will Hold Mixer

The Chemistry-Physics Society will hold their third coffee hour of the semester Wednesday in Dean Haller's office, Whitmore Laboratory.

The coffee hour's main purpose is to acquaint students with faculty members. Approximately 30 students, chosen from different curriculums in the college, are invited each week. The coffee hour is sponsored by the student council.

Committee members of the society are Barbara Foss, Robert Lawrence, Catherine Baker, and Leonard Ruczeko.

Entries Reach 22 In Queen Contest

The number of entries in the Pittsburgh Press campus queen contest increased to 22 yesterday when two sororities and two fraternities submitted a total of 10 pictures.

Delta Delta Delta entered seven coeds in the contest, the most one group has entered to date. The deadline for submitting pictures for the contest is 5 p.m. Tuesday. Pictures should be turned in at the Student Union desk in Old Main.

Other groups who entered candidates in the contest yesterday were Delta Zeta, Theta Chi, and Delta Upsilon.

Groups already represented in the contest are Chi Omega, Phi Kappa Sigma, Gamma Phi Beta, Alpha Chi Omega, Phi Sigma Sigma, and Phi Mu.

A board of judges will select the six finalists Tuesday evening from which Penn State's representative will be chosen by student vote.

Entries in the local and inter-collegiate contests will be chosen on the basis of the photograph. No personal interviews will be made of any candidate.

The judges are Edward Leos, photographer for the University extension service; Robert Beese, assistant in agriculture photography; Robert Breon, of the Penn State Photo Shop; William Coleman, photographer for the Lion Studio; Louis H. Bell, director of Public Information; and David Jones, editor of the Daily Collegian.

A special picture of Penn State's entry winner will be taken by the Department of Public Information and forwarded to contest headquarters in Pittsburgh.

The pictures of winning candidates from each of the 30 competing schools in the Tri-State area will appear April 11 in the ROTO section of the Pittsburgh Press. Press readers will vote for the final contest winner by sending in ballots printed in the Press. A full-color picture of the contest winner will appear on the cover of the ROTO section sometime in May.

Plans to Be Organized For Pan American Day

Plans for the organization of Penn State's Pan American Day celebration will be made at a meeting of the University committee at 4:10 p.m. Tuesday in 8 Sparks.

The day of Pan American celebration has been observed annually for the past 12 years.

Job Booklet Is Proposed By Androcles

Androcles, junior men's hat society, Thursday discussed plans for compiling a student employment booklet to be sent to prospective freshmen during the summer.

John Carpenter, president, said Androcles also plans to revise its initiation procedure in an attempt to instill greater formality and prestige into the ceremony. He said some of the antics which frequently characterize hat society initiation will be eliminated.

The employment booklet would list types of jobs available to students and the means of obtaining them, Carpenter said.

The booklet would also be available in the Dean of Men's office and at the Student Placement Office.

Ronald Safier was named chairman of a committee to revise the Androcles constitution. Thomas Kidd was appointed to head the membership and initiation committee.

Watson Leese was appointed to investigate a proposed project of helping to move books into the University Library extension. Robert Smoot was asked to consider the need for a student welcoming committee which would greet campus visitors.

Members of Androcles will entertain former members March 3, Carpenter said.

Dean Will Speak To WD Council

James W. Dean, assistant to the dean of men in charge of independent affairs, will speak to the West Dorm Council Monday night, at one in a series of talks he is giving to dormitory floor meetings in the West Dorm area.

Problems of discipline, the dress rule, elections, resident counselors, food, and exchange dinners are some of the problems Dean will discuss.

East Meets West Before India Debate

By BAYLEE FRIEDMAN

Never the twain shall meet?

A Daily Collegian interview of two Indian student debaters proved East and West could agree, at least where student alertness and homesickness were concerned.

Mrigendra Chaturvedi, 22, and Rameshchandra Sirkar, 21, leaned back and calmly discussed American speakers, politics, and automats before participating in the international debate Wednesday.

Winners of a national debate contest, Chaturvedi and Sirkar revealed their three-month debate tour at eastern colleges was sponsored by the Institute of International Education. Sirkar, a lean, scholarly-appearing fellow, admitted he had been told to watch out for American debaters, who quoted many statistics and facts. The six colleges against which the team competed prior to the University match didn't disappoint him. Chaturvedi described the debaters at Yale and Princeton as "quite reserved," with the team from St. Joseph's presenting the only "fiery arguments." Both Indians felt Yale was the most British of the American colleges they had visited.

Political alertness is an outstanding characteristic of the Indian students, Chaturvedi, president of the Maharaja College union, said. The student body is interested in a "cultural regeneration" with a slight shift away from British cultural influences.

"Most of the students still greatly admire Western ideas," he said, "but there is a growing segment back—but not backward—toward Eastern solidarity."

Sirkar, the theoretical member of the team, mentioned he had worked as a sub-editor of Eyrangpat, a philosophical magazine. His politics include applying comparative religion and Ghandism to international foreign policy. Although Chaturvedi wholeheartedly agreed about the necessity of Ghandism in promoting peace, he denied that theory was sufficient when presiding over the 800 students in his University Law College Union.

The debaters said India had average students similar to the American "Joe College." Representative of them, Sirkar has participated in chess and dramatics (having appeared in "Charley's Aunt") and Chaturvedi, much like the American big-man-on-campus, is captain of the tennis team and member of the cricket squad, in addition to his speech activities.

No wonder these men, 4000 miles from home, are a little homesick.
