effect. The code will be presented to cabinet March 4.

Refuse to Obey

"We completely deny the right of the elections committee to prescribe on this matter," the statement said, "and furthermore, neither party will feel bound, nor will it obey, this edict of the elections committee."

Edwin Kohn, elections committee chairman, declined comment on the parties' statement. Concerning the provision, Kohn said he felt something should be in writing to uphold the unwritten "gentlemen's agreement" now in existence between the parties. The unwritten agreement provides a yearly rotation for the office of All-College president between a fraternity man and an independent man. The agreement also provides that a fraternity man will not oppose an independent man in any election.

Unfounded Rumors

Kohn said certain unfounded rumors had been circulating on the probability of one party running a fraternity man for All-College president. He said he felt what the committee did in approving the provision was within its jurisdiction. There will be no emergency committee meeting, Kohn said.

Concerning these rumors, the party statement said: "We would like to point out that it is the intention of both parties to run independent men for All-College president, thereby not breaking the precedent for the top position, and we plan to continue this in the future."

Mutual Agreement Made

The elections committee's decision was passed without the consent of either party, the party statement said. Both parties felt, according to the statement, that "the elections committee went beyond its scope of authority in meddling in the internal affairs of the party."

"This would be the first step toward complete internal control of parties by an external group," the statement said.
