

Better Housing Facilities Asked

Graduate students are for the most part dissatisfied with their present housing accommodations and 85 per cent of them feel that the University should do something to provide better housing facilities for graduate students, a graduate housing survey taken recently reveals.

The results of the housing questionnaires, distributed with the fall issue of the graduate student Newsletter and again at registration, were tabulated this week.

Training Group Hears O'Brien At 1st Session

Approximately sixty-five students attended the first session of the Leadership Training Program. Joseph O'Brien, professor of public speaking, addressed the group on the subject of "Parliamentary Procedure and Floor Leadership." O'Brien's talk was followed by demonstration work in which members of the group participated.

O'Brien discussed parliamentary process and leadership as an integral part of parliamentary procedure. Parliamentary process "is a lot more than knowing that a two-thirds vote closes the debate," he said. It includes human relations—dealing with people—the manner of speaking and discussing, and the parliamentary rules.

O'Brien stated leadership must comprise competence, a knowledge of human relations, and "drive"—the ability to work hard and long.

In the following five weeks of the course, speakers will discuss the responsibility of leadership, organization of the Penn State student government, reports, correspondence, delegating responsibility, publicity and public relations, working with advertisers, and program content.

Penn State Stamp Sought

Sen. Edward Martin (R.-Pa.) has reported to the Daily Collegian that the decision on whether to issue a postage stamp honoring the University on its 100th anniversary in 1955 will be made by the Post Office department.

Martin proposed the stamp at the request of the Board of Trustees during the last session of Congress.

But, he explained in a letter to the Daily Collegian received yesterday, "Because so many requests for commemorative stamps were being received by the Senate post office and civil service committee, a resolution was passed in the last session of Congress whereby the Senate committee has delegated authority to the Post Office department to consider such requests."

"The final decision in the issuance of such a stamp will rest with the Post Office department," he wrote.

Crackdown On Driving Has Begun

Campus patrol has begun a campaign cracking down on students driving on Pollock road during class hours, James Dunlap, Traffic Court chairman, said last night.

Dunlap said that 12 students were reported driving on Pollock road in a 20-minute interval yesterday. Student driving on Pollock road from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. Monday to Friday, and 8 a.m. to 12 noon Saturday is a traffic violation, Dunlap added.

Two persons were sent to the Dean of Men Frank J. Simes on a general recommendation by the Traffic Court which met last night. They will probably receive a traffic probation, Dunlap said.

Six of the seven persons scheduled for Traffic Court appeared last night. The student not appearing sent a letter to the Court asking to be excused and explaining his case to the Court.

Of the $15 levied in fines, $4 was collected. The other $11 will be paid to the Dean of Men. One fine was suspended, one person was deferred for a hearing next Tuesday, and one student was acquitted.

In operation one month this semester, under the new plan for collecting fines, the Traffic Court has collected $350 in fines. This goes the Interclass Budget system. Information about the use of this fund can be obtained at the Student Union desk in Old Main.

Ten students were placed on Traffic Court probation, and five had their cars sent home by the Dean of Men this semester.

Academic Pay Increase Shown

Figures showing academic salaries had increased 20 per cent more than the 1949-1950 academic year have been presented to the University Chapter of the American Association of University Professors.

The increases range from 21.4 per cent for associate professors to 25.6 per cent for professors, Leland S. Rhodes, professor of civil engineering and chairman of the chapter's committee on salaries, tenure and promotion, said. This was higher than cost of living indexes for the same period, he said.

Rhodes also said that in comparison with salaries in a group of comparable Universities, we fall below from 7.4 per cent in the case of instructors to 25.6 per cent in the case of professors.

General Beaver To Be Honored With Memorial

A memorial honoring Gen. James A. Beaver, former governor of Pennsylvania and twice president of the University Board of Trustees, will be dedicated on campus at a public ceremony in June.

A bronze tablet with a relief portrait of General Beaver mounted on natural rock will be erected by the Class of 1909. It will be unveiled at Beaver Field at the 45th reunion of the class June 12.

General Beaver was elected governor of Pennsylvania in 1887. He served as president of the Board of Trustees from 1874 until 1882 and again from 1898 until his death in 1914. He also was acting president of the University from 1906 to 1908.

The chairman of the class committee arranging the project is Herbert Rader, Germantown. Serving with Rader on the committee are John K. Barnes, Ocean Springs, Miss., and Roland G. Augst and Edward K. Hibshman, State College.

Ag Leaders To Be Feted

Ag Hill leaders and members of All-University Cabinet will be honored at the Ag Hill Achievement Night program at 7 p.m. March 24 in Schwab Auditorium, Ned Clark, program chairman, has announced.

Clark also announced that Edgar Fehnel, eighth semester animals husbandry major, will be student master of ceremonies. A. H. Imhof, assistant professor of agriculture journalism, will be faculty master of ceremonies.

Persons to be honored at Achievement Night will be the winners of the Paul R. Guldin Speaking Contest; recipients of spring semester scholarships; show managers of the Little International; members of All-University Cabinet; presidents of the various Ag Hill clubs; editors of Ag Hill publications; members of the judging teams; and other Ag Hill leaders.

At present 57 per cent of unmarried male graduate students and 27 per cent of the unmarried women live in private homes while only 21 and 3 per cent respectively would choose to do so.

High Rents Cited
Chief complaints of the married graduate students are that rents are exorbitant and apartments are inadequately maintained. Of 197 married graduate students who offered proposals for University housing action, 141 suggested apartment houses be built.

One hundred twelve of 234 unmarried graduate students offering housing proposals said that the University should provide graduate student dormitories. Twenty-four married graduate students also favored the grad dorms.

William M. Smith Jr., professor of family relations and council adviser, said "I believe that more students would have chosen a graduate dorm as first choice (instead of apartments), if they knew what it might be like."

(No comment was available on what a graduate dormitory might be like or if one is likely to be built in the near future.)

Grad Social Center
Of the single men and women questioned, 67 per cent said they felt a need for a graduate student social center. A total of 442 or 58 per cent of both married and single students said they felt such a student center was needed.

One hundred nine of 177 married male graduate students said they felt rents should be lowered, although married men indicated they were willing to pay more than the average rent favored by single men for housing accommodations to be shared.

Pollock Drivers Given Tickets

Campus Patrolmen yesterday stopped traffic on Pollock road and passed out tickets to students driving on the road during class hours.

A number of violators were caught. Capt. Philip A. Mark, head of the patrol, said he did not have any figures available on how many tickets were issued. He said it was "quite a few."

Mark warned that this policy would be pursued until students stopped driving on Pollock road during class hours, a violation of campus traffic regulations.

Violators are subject to a $1 fine for first offenses and $4 fines for second offenses. Third offenders appear before the Traffic Court and are dealt with by the Dean of Men's office.
