

Top-Ranking Seniors Get Break at NYU

High ranking senior students in the College of Arts and Science at New York University are free to skip classes without penalty, according to a new ruling announced by the faculty.

The faculty voted to allow unlimited absences from classes for seniors on the college's dean's list. The list is comprised of students with a scholastic average of 85 per cent or more, corresponding to the Penn State 2.5.

Council Plans Ed Publication

Education Student Council voted Tuesday night to sponsor a four-page council newspaper. Carol Strong, sixth semester education major, was named editor-in-chief. Publication will begin early in April.

Each division of the College of Education will be represented on the paper by an editor. No name for the newspaper has been chosen.

Staff members include Loretta Hunter, fourth semester education major, lay-out director; Nancy Helman, sixth semester education major, business director; Carol Durbin, fourth semester education major, elementary department editor; and Joan Snodgrass, sixth semester psychology major, psychology editor.

men in public life: what can be said for it?" at a banquet 5:30 p.m. tomorrow in the State College Hotel. Selection of the candidates will take place some time Friday.

Emphasis on discussion rather than technical procedures will be an innovation of this year's congress. Sterling silver keystone keys, inscribed "Parliamentary Speaker," will be awarded to four speakers judged most effective in assembly sessions.

Davis Heads Judges

H. Barrett Davis, Lehigh University, will be chairman for the board of judges, comprised of senior faculty advisers of the participating colleges.

Officers of the congress, Richard Davis, Lehigh; Benjamin Sinclair of the University; and Lee Vines, Slippery Rock State Teachers College were elected at the convention last year. Otto Hetzel of the University will serve as congress secretary.

Participating colleges and universities are Allegheny, Bates, Bucknell, Dickinson, Duquesne, Fordham, Lehigh, Muhlenberg, Oswego, Mount Mercy, Pitt, Princeton, Rhode Island, Rutgers, St. Vincent's, Slippery Rock, Temple, and Westminster.

The Meld copy of the famous Gutenberg Bible was the first book ever printed from movable type. It was sold for $106,000.

Prexy to Chair High School Oratory Finals

President Milton S. Eisenhower will preside at the finals of the state oratorical contest to be held in Schwab Auditorium, March 19. Sectional winners will compete in the contest sponsored jointly by the Department of Pennsylvania of the American Legion and the University.

A four year scholarship that may be used at the University, the University of Pittsburgh, or Temple University will be awarded to the winner of next week's contest. He also will be eligible for national championship competition which provides $4000, $2500, $1000, and $500 scholarships to the respective winners.

Last year's winner was Paul J. Kleppner, 17-year-old senior in Carrick high school, Pittsburgh.

The local arrangements for the state finals are being made by C. S. Wyand, executive assistant to the president; and a committee composed of Joseph F. O'Brien, professor of public speaking; chairman, Dr. Walter Coutu, professor of sociology; Henry Keller, commander of Nittany Post 245, American Legion in State College; John E. Miller, administrative assistant to the director of summer sessions; Arthur H. Reede, professor of economics; and Ray V. Watkins, University scheduling officer.

turned away down the only road he believed to be open to him.

Besides telling the story of this unfortunate salesman, Miller portrays the daily living of many Americans in all walks of life as they struggle in an unfriendly environment for a livelihood.

Realistic Drama

A great piece of realistic drama, "Death of a Salesman" is written with technical merit that is rarely seen in the modern theater. Full of majesty and sweep, the play renders an almost previously unequalled emotional impact from which even the most unsympathetic audience will have a hard time recovering.

Ugly Man Contest Will Begin May 5

By BEV DICKINSON

The ugliest man on campus will once again be given a chance for a claim to fame in the fourth annual Ugly Man contest May 5, 6, and 7.

Organizations are urged to start thinking about whom they are going to nominate as a candidate for the contest, according to Kirk Garber, chairman. The contest is sponsored annually by Alpha Phi Omega, national service fraternity. The deadline for nominations has been set as April 17, he said.

Only one candidate may be entered by each organization. This rule applies to two groups who combine, in which case they may jointly enter only one candidate in each of the three Spring Week contests, Ugly Man, He-Man, and Miss Penn State, George Richards, chairman of Spring Week, announced.

Points to be Awarded

In the Ugly Man contest, 25 points will be awarded for each group which makes an entry and participates in Spring Week. The seven finalists will receive 20 points. The winner, who will be chosen on the basis of the most effort put forth, will be awarded 100 points toward Spring Week, Garber said.

In line with past custom, the favorite ugly man entered by each group must be a graduating senior. On April 17, the last day for nominations, he will be required to have his picture taken in costume and to participate in the Ugly Man parade May 4.

Registration Fee $1

A registration fee of $1 will be requested of each candidate. Fees will be collected at the time candidates are registered at the Student Union desk.

The winner of the contest will receive 100 Spring Week points and an Ugly Man key. A 28-inch trophy will be given to the sponsoring group.
