Fink, State Party clique chairman) and others in the State Party were behind this too," Wade said.

Fink Issues Denial

Fink, in a statement issued Wednesday, denied this. "The specific intent of the State Party was always to run Wade and not to ask for his resignation," Fink said.

Smoot said yesterday he had contacted Wade as soon as he had heard that he might be asked to resign. They agreed that Wade should remain a candidate, he said.

"He was informed that I was behind his resignation. Actually, I was not," Fink said. "The other parties deliberately told Wade that I was against him. In this way they confused matters considerably . . . It is the intent of the State Party to put Lew Wade into office . . ." Fink stated.

Three Named

Wade said that John Lyon, vice clique chairman of the State Party, Rae Delle Donne, secretary of State Party, and Lewis Goslin, vice clique chairman of the Lion Party, were among those who convinced him to stay in the race.

In his statement, Wade indicated he had been offered political office if he would resign.

"There weren't any exact promises on what would be offered if I would resign, there were just hints. Nothing specific was promised," he said.

On this Fink said, "The State Party did not have anything to do with promises to Wade if he would resign. It was other persons not connected with the State Party," he declared.

Both Barnett and Herbein withheld comment on Wade's statement.

Phi Mu Alpha Jam Session Set

Phi Mu Alpha, honorary music fraternity, will present a jazz concert at 3 p.m. Sunday in Schwab Auditorium.

The concert is open to the public. No admission will be charged.

Four groups will participate in the concert, Richard Brady, concert chairman, said yesterday. They are the Phi Mu Alpha dance band, a progressive jazz combo, a Dixieland jazz group, and a "George Shearing-type" combo.
