

IFC Blind Date Drawing Tonight

Joseph Barnett, junior class president, and Joan Hunter, last year's Homecoming Queen, will learn tonight who their dates for the Interfraternity-Panhellenic Council Ball will be.

The drawing for the Campus Chest tickets will be held at 7 o'clock in Old Main. Thomas Schott, IFC president, and Ellen Wandel, Panhel president, will assist in the drawing. Barnett and Miss Hunter will also be present.

Ticket sales will continue until 5 p.m. today. Tickets are ten cents each or three for a quarter. Hat societies are handling sales in front of Carnegie Hall and in Hamilton lounge.

Summer Sessions Bulletins Available

Bulletins announcing courses to be offered during the 1954 summer sessions at the University are now available free of charge at the Scheduling office, basement of Willard Hall.

Courses will be offered during the inter-session, June 8-25; main session, June 28-Aug. 7; and post-session, Aug. 9-27.

Colloquium to Hear Van Breda Talk

E. P. Van Breda, professor of philosophy at the University of Louvain and visiting professor of philosophy at Duquesne University, will address the monthly philosophy colloquium at 3 p.m. tomorrow in 129 Sparks.

His talk will concern the philosopher Hasserl. The meeting is open to the public.

Red Theme--

"I'll be seeing you all in class," promised the Provost, "—come next Saturday."

A sleepy All-University Cabinet was portrayed in costume—striped and well-used pajamas.

Cabinet Session Panned

On every Cabinet vote, there were one or two ayes, maybe a negative, and a houseful of abstentions. David Jones, Collegian editor, who played David Jones, Collegian editor, tried vainly to get a word in sideways, while Richard Kirschner denounced the "five, ten, or 15 men who think they are in the know..."

All-University President took a split-second vote and observed, "it-looks-like-the-eyes-have-it."

The All-University Elections committee came on stage and jumped—every time a man labeled Benjamin Sinclair yelled, "Jump!"

"You Goofed"

At an Interfraternity Council meeting, all the Greeks present hooted Thomas Schott, IFC president, by declaring, "You goofed!" when the housemother question came up. Dean of Men Frank J. Simes was invited to sit on a chair which was wired to a lie detector. Everytime he fibbed, a bell was supposed to ring. It rang often.

Questioned about housemothers, Simes reassured the fraternity men, "Your fears are groundless." The bell rang.

Asked about drinking, the Dean said, "We want you to have a good time." The bell rang.

Queried about "forces" from the Dean's office to clean up fraternities, Simes replied, "After all, I'm on your side." The bell rang.

And then Joseph McCarthy, the junior senator who needed a shave and hummed "On, Wisconsin," came. He first heard the plea of the Town Merchants, who exposed "creeping free enterprise" on the campus in form of the Penn State Book Exchange and the campus snack bars, the merchants who never sell books to students for more money than they have on their person, and who sell the meatiest meatballs at the "least finer diner" for $4.50 on specials.

McCarthy Questions Prexy

President Milton S. Eisenhower next appeared before the inquisitive senator. He was told, "Your brother didn't shut me up. I doubt if you can."

With a yell of "Vive la Puerto Rico," McCarthy was shot.

At the request of President Eisenhower the witnesses took loyalty oaths.

Pledged BX manager Charles Obertance, "I swear I will buy all my books from downtown merchants..."

Promised Secretary of the State College Chamber of Commerce, Eugene Fulmer, "I will urge students to buy at the snack bar and from the BX."

Schott Makes Promise

Swore IFC President Schott, "I promise to get housemothers in all Penn State fraternities, even Phi Gamma Delta."

Promised Provost Morse, "I swear I will work to end Saturday classes; in fact, Friday classes too."

And the average student even came clean. He said, "I'll even start going to classes."

After the more than 100 guests chewed their "Purged salad with Russian dressing" and their "100 per cent American turkey," Morse chided campus publications. He asked if someone would explain Froth's jokes, and remembered "the days when you could actually sell the Collegian."

He called Jones "the editor who developed the system of having headlines written by headline writers who haven't read the stories."

Myron Enelow, eighth semester business administration major, was presented with a collection of moneybags. Chuck Gibbs received a broom "to clean up politics," President Eisenhower got a copy of "Esquire" to follow the fashions in, and Edgar Fehnel, recently-named Mr. Ag, received a box of imported fertilizer of sorts.

American industry today presents the greatest field ever open to engineering students. And we honestly believe that no opportunities are more rewarding than those offered at:

HAMILTON STANDARD

Division of

UNITED AIRCRAFT CORP.

WINDSOR LOCKS, CONNECTICUT

Here you'll have a good starting salary and excellent chance for advancement. You'll work in an atmosphere that challenges every facet of your training and imagination, associating with an exceptionally high calibre engineering staff, many of whom have gained world-wide recognition for their contributions to aeronautical science.

We offer the opportunity to use your complete education on the development of not just one product but many:

Jet Fuel Controls
Jet Engine Starters
Hydraulic Pumps
Cockpit Air Conditioning Systems
Turbine Engine Propellers
Piston Engine Propellers, and other products still in the early stages of development

Our modern plant is ideally located, midway between Hartford, Conn., and Springfield, Mass., the center of an area rich in cultural and recreational advantages.

OUR REPRESENTATIVE WILL BE HERE FOR INFORMAL INTERVIEWS:

He'll be glad to answer questions and tell you more about the opportunities in our growing organization. No lengthy application to fill out — just come in and get acquainted.
