

Bedenkmen Cop 2; Stickmen Win, 12-7 Lions Win First Game Easily, 12-1; Edge Mounties in Nightcap, 2-0

By HERM WEISKOPF

Penn State's baseball team rolled along in high gear in the first game of Saturday's doubleheader with West Virginia on the Beaver Field diamond to win 12-1.

However, in the second contest the Lions had trouble shifting gears and barely edged the Mountaineers 2-0.

The first game was highlighted by the fine pitching of Keith Vesling, ace Penn State hurler, and a ten-hit batting attack against four West Virginia moundsmen.

Nittany lefthander Dave Lucas and Mountie Carl Norman locked horns in a pitching duel in the nightcap which saw the West Virginian come within two outs of a no-hitter in the seventh inning battle.

Defensively the Lions sparked with four doubleplays and only one error afield.

Lions Score First

Penn State scored the first two runs of the 1954 campaign in the second inning of the opener. The Lions picked up only one hit, a single by Rex Bradley, in this frame, but made the most of a two-base error by Mountie third baseman Bill Franko, a stolen base by Bradley, and two passed balls by Bud Howard, West Virginia catcher.

Vesling held the Mounties hitless until Kaltenecker started the fourth with a single to right. Charlie McKown followed with another single, but Dick Rabbits rapped a high hopper to Kline at third. Kline stepped on third for the force on Kaltenecker and after Franko loaded the sacks with a single, shortstop Francis Bowman started a doubleplay, flipping to Russo at second who in turn threw to Kennedy at first.

Mounties Tally

West Virginia scored in the sixth on a walk to pinch-hitter John Baliker and singles by Kaltenecker and Rabbits. After that short spree the Mounties went hitless.

The only extra base blow of the day came in the Penn State half of the eighth when Bowman crashed a long drive to left center for a triple.

Both teams went scoreless in the second game until the Lions tallied once in the fifth without the benefit of a hit. Penn State combined an error by Kaltenecker, a fielder's choice play which placed Russo on the basepaths, a stolen base by Russo, and an error by first baseman Ed Tottens to score.

Lucas did a fine job of holding the hit-starved Mounties. He gave up just three singles and permitted only one runner, leftfielder Joe Catelli, to get as far as second. Lucas faced only two over the minimum of 21 men, and mowed down ten of the last 11 men to face him.

Angler Tips On Trout

(Continued from page six) senses the chances for a catch, Harvey said. The first cast must be the best. It's a good idea, if necessary and possible, to detour across the stream, come up to the spot where the trout is, and drop a short line on the surface above or near the fish.

The secret of taking the big ones with flies is fishing after dusk. Of course, some places close after dusk, but where they are open trout fishing is best at that time.

Harvey also listed a number of local areas where trout fishing is particularly good.

Penn's Creek, from the dam at the mouth of Penn's Cave, is well-stocked with mammoth trout, some eight to ten pounds. Waters in and around Spring Mills, have some of the nicest trout in this area. Fisherman's Paradise is well-known for its stock of big trout and there is lots of competition from other fishermen there.

Thompson Run, which starts at the duckpond in State College, probably has more trout for its size (perhaps one and one-half miles long) than any stream in the state.

For a stretch of about one or two miles below Milesburg, a place where several small streams join Bald Eagle Creek, there is good fishing for large trout. Poe Paddy Park is excellent.

Fulton Nets 5 Goals to Lead Scoring; Middies, Loyola Next

By EARL KOHNFELDER

Coach Nick Thiel's lacrosse team, fresh from a 12-7 verdict over Kenyon College at Beaver Field Saturday, will play two more games before heading home for the Easter holidays. The Midshipmen of Navy will be its first opponent tomorrow at Annapolis and Loyola of Baltimore will furnish the opposition Thursday in Baltimore.

At Fulton, Lion center at midfield, started the rout of Kenyon at the 2:45 mark with a 20-foot blast from out front. Before the day was over, Fulton had registered four more goals to lead the Nittany stickers to their opening win. Dick Klein, Lion attackman, tallied three times, with Jim Reed, crease-man on the attack, countering twice.

Tookie Cole, Kenyon's high scorer, collected three final period goals for the visitors, as did the Lords Fred Papsin. All six goals came against Lion reserves.

The Lions shot to a 3-0 first quarter lead. In addition to Fulton, sophomore midfielder Bob Hamel and Klein dented the scoring column. Klein's shot from the left on Hamel's rebound made it 2-0 at about the six minute mark. Moments later Hamel charged down the middle on a solo dash to complete the period's scoring.

Three more goals came in the second quarter, all by the Lions. Fulton took a pass from Ronnie Youtz and drove a hard shot into the upper left corner of the mesh to make it 4-0. A neat bit of faking down the left sideline by George Bicklehaupt and a pass to Fulton in the middle set up the next score. Bicklehaupt's perfect pass made things easy for Fulton on a close-in gift. On the following face-off, Andy Bergesen, second midfielder, captured the ball and shot it to Reed who made it 6-0, a lead which the Lions held at halftime.

Soon after the second half began, Fulton took a pass from behind the losers' cage, spun around and whipped a blazer past Lord goalie Rockie Nelson. Klein's second goal made it 8-0. After 42 minutes and 15 seconds of play Kenyon cracked the scoring ice. Dick Evans, Kenyon midfielder, tore down the middle for an unassisted tally. The quarter ended with the Lions in the lead, 8-1.

Thiel loaded the game with reserves in the final quarter. A lack of experienced players on the field showed quickly as Tookie Cole registered for the Lords with just 32 seconds gone. The Lions, however, retaliated with interest moments later. Fulton drove a left-handed shot past Nelson while falling to the ground and in four seconds time the Lions had scored again when Klein took a goal-mouth pass from Fulton on the face-off. Penn State upped the count to 11-2 when defensive star Jim Hay took the ball up the middle and flipped to Youtz who dumped an easy shot from in close on the right.

Papsin came back for the Lords to make it 11-3. Reed ended the scoring for the Lions and the score read 12-3. From there on it was strictly Kenyon as the entire Penn State team, except for goalie Don Bell, consisted of unseasoned players. Papsin, Cole, and Papsin again scored in that order, pushing the score to 12-6.

Thiel then yanked the remaining regular, Bell, and placed sophomore Jack Solomon in the nets. Solomon was quickly initiated as Cole completed the day's scoring to make the final count read 12-7.
