Names of two prospective candidates for the presidency of the Association of Independent Men have been received, Richard Rigling, AIM elections committee chairman, reported yesterday. They are James McDowell, sixth semester mechanical engineering major and Robert Dennis, sixth semester arts and letters major.

Speaking Competition Set for May

The annual John Henry Frizzell Extempore Speaking Contest, sponsored by the Department of Speech, will be held during May, according to Clayton H. Schug, associate professor of speech and contest chairman.

Registration for the contest will take place at 7 p.m. Monday in 124 Sparks. Eliminations will be held at 7 p.m. May 6 in rooms to be assigned and finals at 7 p.m. May 17 in 121 Sparks.

To be eligible for participation in the contest, each entrant must register in person at the meeting Monday night, Schug stated. Contestants may select topics from lists to be provided at the meeting or may submit topics of their own choice, subject to approval of the committee.

Debate squad members may not use debate topics or other forensic contest topics in either the eliminations or the finals, according to contest rules. All undergraduates, except previous prize winners of the contest, are eligible to compete.

First place winner will be awarded the Pennsylvania State University prize of $50. Second place winner will receive the Forensic Council prize of $25. Both winners will be awarded the John Henry Frizzell award of merit in extempore speaking.

The contest has been conducted annually for nearly 75 years and is probably the oldest college speaking contest of its kind in the country, according to Schug. Since the retirement of Frizzell, first head of the Department of Speech, in 1946, it has been held officially in his honor.

Nittany Council Amendments Given Reading

Nittany Council Monday night unanimously approved first reading amendments to the council's constitution. The amendments, which were read by William Johnson, second semester chemistry major, will be referred to the dorms before final approval is passed at the council's next meeting.

According to a new amendment, "Officers shall be chosen by plurality vote to serve for one year or until their successors are chosen." Any Nittany dorm resident can be elected to a council office.

Other amendments eliminated a few recreation sub-committees and added some social sub-committees.

Robert Dennis, sixth semester arts and letters major, candidate for Association of Independent Men presidency, addressing the council said that closer cooperation between students and resident dorm councilors would strengthen AIM. To increase the social program money must be sent down to the dorm level, Dennis said.

Caps, Gowns Deadline Is Today for 2 Colleges

Today is the last day for graduating seniors in liberal arts and business administration to order caps and gowns at the Athletic Store. A $5 deposit is required when ordering caps and gowns.

Graduating seniors in home economics and mineral industries may place orders tomorrow through Saturday. Invitations and announcements may be ordered according to the same schedule at the Student Union desk in Old Main.

Coed Dining Infeasible, Says Reeve

Miss Pulma C. Reeve, food supervisor in the West Dorm area, told the West Dorm Council Monday night that permanent coed dining is not feasible.

Miss Reeve explained that male students get approximately 5 per cent more food than women students, because of their larger appetites. Women have the difference made up in the form of extra service, such as waiters.

Miss Reeve said there is a good possibility for coed dining at weekend breakfasts, but daily coed dining is infeasible, because there would be a need for hostesses in the dining halls.

When asked about decentralized dining, Miss Reeve said the idea was good, but students who wished to change dining halls during the year would make it impossible.

Miss Reeve said she was unaware that students were not allowed to bring milk purchased outside the dining hall into the dining halls.

The West Dorm Council banquet will be held at 6:30 p.m. May 5 at the Eutaw House.

Stanley Juras presented a five point proposal to clarify requirements for West Dorm Council presidency. The proposal, which was passed unanimously, requires the president to be an independent with a 1.0 All-University average and a West Dorm resident for the following year. Three other points mentioned in the proposal are voting by secret ballot, and limiting the time of nomination and acceptance speeches to two and three minutes, respectively.

Food Service has asked that students do not exchange meal tickets to eat in different dining halls during coed dining.

Stanley Juras was appointed chairman of the constitutional revision committee. Richard Rigling and David Edwards were named to serve on the committee.

8-Week Students To Pick Rooms

Coeds who will be eight-week students this fall and wish rooms may draw numbers today in the Dean of Women's office, according to Mrs. Cordelia L. Hibbs, assistant to the dean of women in charge of housing.

Numbers may be drawn from 8 a.m. until noon and from 1:30 to 5 p.m.

Roommates may use the smaller of the two numbers drawn, but a student must have a number to choose a room. Mrs. Hibbs said.

Rigling said no nominations had been received for vice president, secretary, or treasurer.

The names received so far are not official nominations, however. The AIM elections committee had asked that anyone who expected to be nominated from the floor of the AIM Board of Governors submit his name to the Student Union desk, so his All-University average could be checked in the Dean of Men's office. To be eligible for office, a candidate must have at least a 1.0 All-University average.

Nominations from Floor
Official nominations will be made from the floor of the Board of Governors at the elections to be held at 7:30 tonight in 103 Willard.

Anyone who wishes to be nominated, who did not submit his name to the Student Union desk, should bring a copy of his transcript to tonight's meeting, Rigling said.

Any independent man is eligible for office providing he has at least a 1.0 All-University average. However, a nominee for AIM president must be a fifth or sixth semester student at the time of his nomination.

Nominees for other offices must have at least two semesters to remain in school at the time of their nomination.

Election by Majority Vote
Election will be by a majority of the voting members of the Board of Governors. Balloting will be by secret presidential ballot. A defeated candidate for an office may be renominated to a lower office. Rigling will chair the elections meeting.

Court Levies $31 In Student Fines

Traffic Court last night levied $31 in fines against student traffic violators. Twenty-four dollars was collected by the court, while $7 is to be paid to the Dean of Men's office within 48 hours.

Of the 18 students scheduled for hearings, two did not appear. Three students received general recommendations to see the dean of men. One student received a recommendation to the dean of men that his car be sent home. There were no suspended fines.

Debaters to Leave For Eastern Tourney

Four members of the women's debate team will leave this morning for the Eastern Forensics Association annual "Sweepstakes" Tournament at the United States Merchant Marine Academy, King's Point, Long Island.

They are Agnes Porter, eighth semester arts and letters major, and Nancy Silverman, fourth semester education major, who will debate affirmatively; and Claire Krieger, fourth semester business administration major, and Ann Leh, fourth semester journalism major, who will support the negative.

The debaters will be accompanied by the team coach, Clayton H. Schug, associate professor of public speaking. Schug was recently elected vice president of the Eastern Forensics Association.

Teams from 38 eastern colleges and universities will debate 12 rounds on the national intercollegiate debate topic for this year, "Resolved: that the United States should adopt a policy of free trade."

In addition to the debates, extempore and public speaking contests will be held. Miss Porter and Miss Leh will compete in the extempore contest, and Miss Silverman and Miss Krieger will take part in the public speaking event.

The tournament is conducted on a "sweepstakes" basis, with the points teams accumulate in the speaking contests and in the debates totaled to determine the tournament winner.

Last year the women's team tied for the tournament championship with Dartmouth College.

The team played host to nine members of the Juniata College debate team Monday night. Two practice rounds of debate on the national intercollegiate topic were held. Following the debates, the Penn State team entertained the Juniata debaters at the Corner Room.

PLAYERS' MUSICAL REVUE
Tickets at Student Union

A plan to honor outstanding freshman men has been adopted as the sophomore class project for this year, Hugh Kline, sophomore class president has announced.

The following committee of sophomores has been organized to select these men: Rudolph Lutler, chairman, Janet McKee, James Parmiter, Bernard Baymiller, and Charlotte Fink. Each committee member will ask about six campus organizations to recommend outstanding freshmen. Their reports will be compiled and judged by a point system.

Requirements
The freshmen will be judged on extra-curricular activities, scholastic average, and participation in sports. The number honored will depend upon the number of men who fulfill the committee's requirements.

The first committee meeting was held last night. The members received lists of the organizations to contact as the first step in the project. Another meeting will be held this weekend to determine the groups progress. It will probably be three or four weeks before the committee has completed its list of outstanding freshman men.

First Recognition
Although Cwens honors freshman women, this is the first group to recognize outstanding freshman men. The sophomore committee recommended that the men who are honored should receive extra points towards joining a hat society in their junior year.

After this initial step, the group will establish a certain standard of points for campus activities and offices held in these groups.

"We would like to have this project continued in the future by sophomore classes or by a committee set up by cabinet," Lutler said. He originated the idea of honoring freshman men. "There is a real need for citing outstanding freshman men on this campus," he said.

700 Get X-rays During First Day Of Free Service

Approximately 700 students, faculty, and staff members received free chest X-rays yesterday in the first day of X-raying by the mobile unit of the State Bureau of Tuberculosis Control.

The X-ray unit will continue to operate today and tomorrow in front of the University Hospital. The unit will be open from 9 a.m. to 1 p.m. and from 2 p.m. to 6 p.m.

According to Herbert R. Glenn, director of the University Health Service, medical surveys show that tuberculosis among teachers is high compared to the rest of the population.

Everyone should have a chest X-ray taken once a year, Glenn said. X-ray plates also indicate early cancer and heart disease.

Sally Lessig, sixth semester education major, was elected president of the education student council last night.

Carol Durbin, fourth semester education major, was elected vice president, and Susanna Wescott, sixth semester education major, secretary-treasurer.

The council decided to change the name of the big-little-sister, big-little-brother program to the Pre-College Contact Program. Any student in the education college who is not student teaching during the first eight weeks of next fall and is interested in the freshman counselling program may contact Diane Edelman, 169 Atherton.

Nomination blanks for the outstanding senior in the education college can be obtained at the Student Union desk in Old Main and in 109 Burrows until May 6. Any student or faculty member in the education college may nominate an outstanding senior.

Nominations should be based on the senior's scholastic showing, extra-curricular activities, professional promise, and personal qualities.

The recipient of the award will receive an engraved cup and have his or her name on the accumulative plaque in the entrance hall of Burrows.

The outstanding senior will be chosen on May 11 at a meeting between the old and new council members at Beta Theta Pi. The business meeting will begin at 6:30 p.m. and a social meeting will follow. The outstanding senior will be chosen by the old council members.
