

2500 Entered In Hat Parade

Approximately 2500 students have entered the Spring Week Mad Hatter's parade to take place at noon Monday and Tuesday, according to Baylee Friedman and Richard Crafton, co-chairmen of the contest.

Under the theme of movie titles, entrants will be judged in three different classifications — originality, artistic, and comic. Judges will consider each entrant, and approximately 50 finalists in each of the three categories will be chosen.

University TV Series to Start

The first in a series of educational television broadcasts about the University will be presented at 11:45 a.m. today over Harrisburg station WTPA.

Theodore Bair, sixth semester arts and letters major, will participate in the first telecast of the series, "Your University — the Story of Penn State." He will interview Louis H. Bell, director of public information, on the University's historical background, the meaning of the land grant idea, and the growth and development of the University. Slides of the campus will also be shown. Members of Speech 437, a class in speech and television, will go to Harrisburg to observe production techniques. The series will also serve as a public relations outlet for the University, Bell said.

MI Council Elects Larson President

Charles Larson, seventh semester ceramics engineering major, has been elected president of the Mineral Industries Student Council.

Other new officers are Roy Brunjes, sixth semester petroleum engineering major, vice president; and Edward Tocker, fifth semester ceramics engineering major, secretary-treasurer.

A picnic, sponsored by the Mineral Industries College and the Mineral Industries Club, has been planned for May 22 at Rayona Park. Students and faculty members of the Mineral Industries College have been invited. A picnic lunch and outdoor sports have been planned.

Tickets Are Available For Howard Comedy

Tickets for "They Knew What They Wanted," Sidney Howard's Pulitzer prize-winning comedy, are available at no charge in the Green Room second floor of Schwab Auditorium.

A thesis production of Gordon Greer, graduate student in dramatics, the show will be presented May 11-13 in the Little Theatre, basement of Old Main.

Judges, who will be stationed in front of Old Main, include Mary Filer, assistant professor of art education; Katherine Fisher, assistant professor of foods and nutrition; and M. C. Mateer, local merchant.

Each of the 62 groups who have entered contestants in the parade will receive cards with the names and registration number of the individual entrant. Every card must be handed to checkers stationed on the Mall during the parade in order to total group points, Crafton stated.

Registration checkers who will collect the cards will be empowered to reject any hat that does not show sufficient workmanship, whereupon the individual will receive no points for his group, he added.

Each entrant in the preliminary contest Monday noon will receive five points, and five additional points will be awarded to each finalist, who will compete in the final contest Tuesday noon.

Three first, second, and third prize winners will be named in the final contest. Fifty additional points and a $5 award will be given to each of the three first prize winners. The three second prize winners will receive 40 additional points, and 30 additional points will be awarded to the three third prize winners.

Points will be totaled by the members of the Mad Hatter's contest committee and allocated to the sponsoring groups as points toward the Spring Week trophy, Crafton added.

Participants in the preliminary parade Monday will assemble in front of the Main Engineering Building and proceed up the Mall to the Armory. They will turn right and go past the judges in front of Old Main. Final competition will be held in front of Old Main Tuesday noon.

Chess Team Loses

The University Chess Team, which won the Western and Central Intercollegiate Chess Championship April 25 by defeating Gettysburg College, lost at the State Intercollegiate finals at Swarthmore College.

Ugly Man Regulations Approved

The Senate committee on student affairs yesterday approved a recommendation submitted by Charles Gibbs, Ugly Man committee member, limiting campaigning for Ugly Man contestants.

Under the plan, actual campaigning will be limited to the hours between noon and 12:15 p.m., 12:45 and 1 p.m., and 5 to 5:30 p.m. No campaigning will be allowed after 5:30 p.m.

Campaigning will be permitted between classes. Contest judges will be present at the booth near the head of the Mall during the campaigning hours.

George Richards, Spring Week chairman, will meet with Harold W. Perkins and James W. Dean, assistants to the dean of men, this afternoon to discuss advertising policy for Spring Week activities.

Signs will be allowed in dormitories, but no demonstrations will be permitted in dorm areas. Candidates will also be permitted to distribute handbills.

Gibbs said he recommended the plan in order to eliminate unnecessary disturbances in connection with the campaigning. Some objections had been raised in past years that campaigning during Spring Week had interfered with study hours in the dorms.

Gibbs said the Ugly Man contest is not an official part of Spring Week activities. He said it is a nationwide project of Alpha Phi Omega, national service fraternity. However, the sponsor of the winning candidate receives activity points toward the Spring Week trophy.

In other action, the Senate committee granted a charter to the S Club, organization of varsity lettermen.

Penn State Club Elects Sherman President

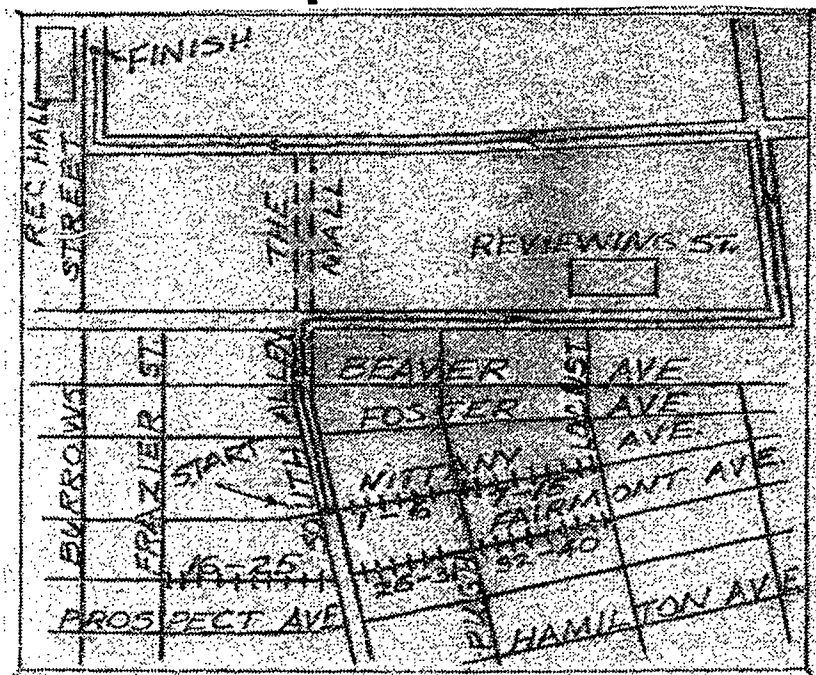

Penn State Club has elected Howard Sherman, sixth semester fuel technology major, president.

Other officers are James Simpson, vice president; Donald Musser, secretary; James Elliot, treasurer; Kent Kiehl, social chairman; Kenneth Carpenter, athletic chairman; Walter Iseman, publicity chairman; and DeArle Hoyman, parliamentarian.

'S' Club to Elect

Officers will be nominated and elected by the Penn State "S" Club at 7 tonight at Beta Theta Pi. Letter winners have been requested to attend.
