

Forty to Compete for He-Man Title

Forty contestants will compete for the title of He-Man in the preliminary contest to be held at 6:30 tonight on the golf course.

The preliminary competition will include a 100-yard dash, push-ups, and kicking a soccer ball. Each contestant will be awarded one point for each push-up and ten points for successfully kicking a soccer ball 15 feet into a 4 by 5 foot soccer goal. Time limit on the 100-yard dash is 14 seconds, and each contestant will receive ten points for each second less than 14 which he takes to cover the 100 yards.

Finals, which 15 contestants who total the greatest number of points in the preliminaries will enter, will be held at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday on Beaver Field. The time and date of the contest were changed due to the Armed Forces parade scheduled for 6:30 p.m. Tuesday.

Each entrant in the contest will receive 25 points for his sponsoring group toward the Spring Week trophy. The five finalists will be awarded 100 points, and a He-Man trophy and 150 points will be given to the winner. Costumes of the entrants must comply with the theme of the contest, Barbara Wallace, co-chairman, stated. No track shoes or professional equipment may be worn, she added.
