

45 Groups to Sponsor Spring Carnival Booths

Forty-five groups will have booths in the Spring Week Carnival to be held from 6 to 11 p.m. tomorrow and Thursday, according to Richard Grossman, Carnival co-chairman.

In addition to the booths in the Carnival, which will be situated at the Windcrest area at the corner of Shortlidge and College avenues, there will be concessions and rides. Candy floss and popcorn stands will be dispersed evenly on the Carnival site, as will the rides, including a ferris wheel, comet, merry-go-round, and barrel of love.

Groups may begin setting up booths, which will comprise three long midways, at noon today, Grossman stated. Booths will be marked off on the Carnival site. Booths must be cleared by midnight Thursday, and if they are not, groups will have part of their deposits taken at the discretion of the Spring Week committee, he added.

Twenty-five to 30 checkers will review Carnival shows and will warn groups to change their show if they are not approved. A second warning will result in the closing of the show, Grossman said.

Groups and their shows are "This Man for Hire," Phi Gamma Delta, Pi Beta Phi; "The Flimsy Report," Lambda Chi Alpha, Alpha Chi Omega; "Minstrel Show," Delta Sigma Phi, Gamma Phi Beta; "Moulin Rouge," Phi Kappa Tau, Women's Building; "3D-TV," Beaver House, Phiotes; "Dr. Yesnik's Report on Frat Clubs," Pi Kappa Alpha, Thompson; "Phi Psi Folies," Phi Kappa Psi, freshman women.

Ugliest Man To Be Chosen At Noon Today

The Ugly Man contest winner will be chosen at noon today by the judges from the seven finalists. The judges were previously scheduled to choose the winner yesterday, but they were unable to meet.

The seven finalists are Charles Obertance, James Dunlap, Ronald Lynch, Ralph Laudenslayer, Kenneth White, Donald Malinak, and Robert DiJoseph. The finalists were selected on the amount of money collected for the Campus Chest, but the winner will be picked on the amount of effort put forth in the contest.

The amounts of money ugly men collected reported on Saturday were unofficial. Alan Pomeroy, contest chairman, explained. He said each finalist collected at least $100 when the final count had been made.

Pomeroy also announced that approximately $1100 would be turned over to the Campus Chest after the contest expenses are paid. This is $400 over last year's total.

3 Ag Groups Elect Officers

Three agriculture groups, the Rod and Coccus Club, bacteriology society; the student affiliate of the American Society of Agricultural Engineers; and the Poultry Club recently elected officers.

The newly elected president of Rod and Coccus is Ronald Sinclair. Other officers are Daniel Watanabe, vice president; Christine Donchez, secretary-treasurer; Judith Corfield, junior Agriculture Student Council representative; Beverly Patterson, senior council representative; and Ida Mae Stotler, publicity agent.

The Agricultural engineering group elected John Body, president; John Robinson, vice president; Theodore Shriver, secretary-treasurer; George Ridge, scribe; Daniel Van Duyn, Agriculture Student Council representative; and Glendyn Dietz, Engineering Student Council representative. Ralph Patterson, associate professor of agricultural engineering, was elected faculty adviser.

The Poultry Club elected John Hershey, president; Kenneth Lanan, vice president; Aaron Denlinger, secretary; and Charles Thurson, treasurer.

Housemother To Be Hired By Fraternity

In reaction to the new chaperoned dating code which will go into effect Sept. 1, Phi Sigma Delta fraternity has voted to employ a housemother, Harvey Reiseman, president of the fraternity, said yesterday.

The group feels that a housemother is the best feasible plan under the rules which were designated under the new code, Reiseman said.

Under the new code, fraternities must have full-time housemothers, part-time housemothers, or chaperones anytime coeds are in the house.

Plans are being made by the Dean of Men's office, for compiling a list of full-time housemothers, part-time housemothers and chaperones from which the fraternities may choose.

Advertisements have been placed in the Centre Daily Times asking for any women over 45 years of age who are interested for full-time or part-time employment as housemothers to apply at the Dean of Men's office.

Engineer Goes On Sale Today

The May issue of the Penn State Engineer will be on sale at the Student Union desk in Old Main and outside the Corner Room, today through Friday.

An editorial, "Contemporary Design," by Joyce Cox, second semester architecture major, deals with the All-Faith Chapel architectural design issue.

Other articles are "Committees and Questionnaires" by Eric A. Walker, dean of the College of Engineering and Architecture; "Sanitary Engineering as a Profession" by Frank L. Flood, partner in the Metcalf and Eddy Engineering Co., Boston, Mass.; and "Appliance Protection" by Helen Charvat, sixth semester electrical engineering major.

Engineer Girl of the Month is Judith Grant, a second semester applied arts major.

Handbook Ad Staff

The Student Handbook advertising staff will meet at 7:30 tonight in 104 Willard. New accounts will be assigned. Students interested in joining the staff may attend.

"ARABIAN FANTASY," the Chi Phi-Sigma Sigma Sigma entrant, parades past the judge's stand in last night's annual Spring Week parade. This group won first place in the artistic division of the parade, which heralds the opening of the gala Spring Week festivities. Close behind was the combined Gamma Phi Beta-Delta Sigma Phi entrant, which placed second in this division. The judges for last night's parade included many outstanding townspeople.

137 Will Compete In Hatters Finals

One hundred thirty-seven finalists selected from 2500 entrants in the Mad Hatter's parade yesterday will compete in the finals to be held at noon today in front of Old Main, according to Nancy Schofield, contest committee member.

Fifty-four finalists were chosen to compete in the originality classification under the theme of movie titles. In the artistic class, 46 contestants will enter the finals and 36 finalists will vie for first place in the comic category. Miss Schofield said.

Judges who chose the finalists yesterday and will select the winners today include Mary Filer, assistant professor of art education; Katherine Fisher, assistant professor of foods and nutrition; and M. C. Mateer, local merchant.

Each entrant in the preliminary contest yesterday received five points, and five additional points were awarded to each finalist for his sponsored toward the Spring Week trophy. The contest committee will compile points of each group tonight, Miss Schofield explained.

Three first, second, and third prize winners will be named in the final contest today. An award of $5 and 50 additional points will be given to each of the three first prize winners. The three second prize winners will be awarded 40 additional points, and 30 points will be given to the three third prize winners.
