

Hayman to Play At Senior Ball

Dancing at the Senior Ball will be to the music of Richard Hayman and his orchestra. The semi-formal dance will be held from 9 a.m. to 1 a.m. Friday at Recreation Hall. Tickets priced at $4, will go on sale the day of the dance.

Hayman, a slim, bespectacled New Englander, brought back the harmonica craze to the country with his popular record of "Ruby." His record was the first popular record featuring a harmonica to become a hit. Harmonicists were not officially recognized as musicians until five years ago.

Hayman started his career fifteen years ago and after a long time of hard work, he is becoming established as a big name. He describes himself as a person whose art is in his mouth. He has always taken his playing seriously and believes the harmonica can produce tones of which no other instrument is capable.

Hayman wrote a piece for the harmonica entitled "No Strings Attached" which was recorded by Arthur Fiedler and the Boston Pops Orchestra.

Along with his popularity on the harmonica, Hayman was recently appointed head of the artists and repertoire for Mercury Record's eastern office and is in charge of handling the recording sessions of other great artists.

Dorm Housing Exchange Plan Is Unchanged

No major change in the dormitory-fraternity exchange system is planned for next year. O. Edward Pollock, assistant dean of men for fraternity affairs, has announced.

A possible change in the system was being discussed earlier by Pollock, Otto H. Mueller, director of housing, and Samuel K. Hostetter, University comptroller. Only minor changes will be made in the program, Pollock said.

Pollock said that one alteration might move the deadline for exchanges from the Monday on which classes start at the beginning of a semester to the Friday of the same week.

Under the system now in effect, fraternities may pledge eligible men living in the dormitories and have them live in the house provided that they can replace the pledge with another student. The replacement does not occupy the former student's room, however. He is placed at the bottom of the list for room preference, and occupies the room which his priority indicates.

Saturday Finals

Cited As Necessary

Ray V. Watkins, University scheduling officer, has announced scheduling final examinations on Saturday, May 29, was necessary because of the short time available before grades of graduating seniors are due in the recorder's office.

Senior grades are to be reported at 1 p.m. Wednesday, June 2. Without scheduling exams on Saturday afternoon, there would only be five possible exam periods before the June 2 deadline, he said. The scheduling of Saturday finals has been a long established policy, he added.

Prexy Will Receive Achievement Award

President Milton S. Eisenhower will leave today for Philadelphia, where he will be presented an award from the National Junior Achievers tomorrow.

The National Junior Achievers is a group which organizes and supervises miniature businesses for high school juniors and seniors.

The students plan their own business from drawing up the charter to the handling of funds.

Language Prof Will Present Piano Concert

Elio Gianturco, associate professor of romance languages, will give the second in a series of five piano concerts at 8 p.m. tomorrow at the Hillel Foundation.

In this series, Gianturco will trace the development of the Italian repertoire of compositions for keyboard instruments from the Renaissance to our own day.

Gianturco is well-known as a pianist, musicologist, and music critic. He has done a series of broadcasts over WMAJ explaining the aesthetic messages of classical Italian musicians. In his first concert of the series last week, Gianturco played pieces by major organists and lutenists of the 16th century Renaissance.

In tomorrow's concert, Gianturco will include such outstanding musical individualities of the Baroque Period, 17th century, as Frescobaldi, Rossi, and Pasquini.

Tickets for the concert are $2, and may be purchased at the door.

Riding Team Places Second

A Penn State Riding Club team, composed of Patricia Gilbert, Edwin Brodnax, Nancy Wild, and Gail Smith, placed second in the modified Olympic Event at the horse show this weekend at Penn Hall Junior College.

The team placed in the following events: knock down and out, Miss Gilbert, first; Brodnax, third; Gail Smith, fourth; pairs of hacks, Miss Wild and Miss Smith, first; hunt teams, Edward Campbell, Miss Smith, Miss Wild, fourth.

Travel Is Theme Of Froth Issue

The "Summer Travel Issue" of Froth will go on sale today at the Corner Room, the Pollock Road Mall, and West Dorm areas.

Nancy Hensel is Froth Girl of the Month. This is the first issue put out by the new staff, headed by editor Carl McGrew.

Included in this month's issue are the "Froth Summer Guide" by Betty Koster and "Puerto Rican Holiday" by Mark Wallace.

Mark Seeks Help In Traffic Problem

Students are requested to refrain from temporary parking during the rush hours at noon and 5 p.m. on Pollock road in order to avoid congestion of traffic, Capt. Philip A. Mark of the Campus Patrol, has announced.

Stops should be as short as possible, if necessary, and should not take place opposite parked cars, Mark said.

If parking areas adjoin buildings, arrangements should be made to pick up passengers there instead of on Pollock road, he added.

Pre-Medical Honorary

Jane Metz, sixth semester pre-medical major, has been elected president of Gamma Pi Epsilon, women's pre-medical honorary society. Other officers elected are Doris Thiessen, vice president; Irene Jessick, secretary; Muriel Moldawer, treasurer; and Lynn Markle, scholarship chairman.

Beware the Octopus

AN OCTOPUS representing "Beneath the Twelve Mile Reef" is worn by nine freshman women in the finals of the Mad Hatter contest at noon yesterday in front of Old Main. The hat was one of 36 entered in the comic category under the theme movie titles. The women did not place in the finals.

Seniors May Give Chapel Furnishings

By ANN LEH

(Second of a series of articles discussing the five proposals for the 1954 class gift.)

The architects drawing plans for the all-faith meditation chapel seemed to be most concerned about their project when they offered not one, but two ideas as to how the class of 1954 could spend its class gift fund.

The first suggestion, furnishings for the chapel chancel, was discussed yesterday.

Their second proposal calls for the class to purchase furnishings for the body of the chapel.

Seniors may vote on one of the five suggestions for Senior Class Gift starting Monday and throughout the next week at the Student Union desk in Old Main.

Wooden pews to fit in with the design of the chapel are the first item included under this proposal. In all probability, the pews would be marked with a metal plate bearing the name of the donor, as is done in most other churches, providing a lasting memento of the class of 1954.

Another item that would be provided for if this suggestion were adopted by the senior class would be the carpeting for the chapel. This would not only include the carpeting to run the length of the main aisle but also other accessory carpeting that will be needed in the main part of the chapel.

Other furnishings for the interior of the chapel are also included under this proposal. These would be such things as wall decorations and would be marked as the gift of the class.

The probable cost for these furnishings is about equal to the class gift fund, $10,000. This is also the estimated cost of the proposal for furnishings for the chapel chancel.

The remaining three proposals—a bandstand and public address system for the new Student Union Building, paintings for the new Student Union Building, and a donation toward the establishment of a museum for the University or for the state—will be discussed in succeeding articles.

No Chapel Design Changes Known

Wilmer E. Kenworthy, director of student affairs, said Monday the administration has made no commitments on either Georgian or contemporary design for the All-Faith Chapel to be built in Hort Woods.

He said the plans for the chapel will come up before the executive committee of the Board of Trustees at its regular monthly meeting Friday. Kenworthy added the committee will have final say in the matter.
