Emerson Society To Protest UCA

The Emerson Society, student group of the Unitarian faith, will protest the reorganization of the Penn State Christian Association and decide upon a course of action at 6:15 p.m. tomorrow in 304 Old Main.

The meeting is open to the public.

According to Oscar Haac, adviser of the Emerson Society, the Unitarians will be excluded from the new University Christian Association.

Haac said the Unitarians are not eligible under the requirements for membership set down in the working papers of the new group. The requirements read that any group included in the definition of Protestant as set down by the National Council of Churches is eligible. The Unitarians are not included under this definition.

Although Haac said Christian Scientists and Friends would also be excluded, Warren Smith, clerk of the State College Friends Meeting said Thursday representatives of the Friends will meet with the PSCA committee to work out any differences that may exist.

The Christian Science organization is not at present a member of PSCA and, according to the rules of its church, is not permitted to affiliate with any campus organization.

John Tomlinson, publicity director of the Emerson Society, cited the statement of orientation in the new group's working papers as being the basis of exclusion of many "liberal-protestants" and the Emerson Society in particular.

The orientation statement begins "Believing that God incarnate in Jesus the Christ..." Tomlinson said many "liberal-protestants" object to the belief that God is not incarnate in every man.

Final approval of the working papers of the University Christian Association has been delayed until more definite financial and personnel details can be worked out.

Conflict Schedule

The conflict schedule for spring semester examinations will be published Tuesday in the Daily Collegian.

Students taking conflict examinations will be notified by instructors. Only students whose names appear on the instructors' lists will be permitted to take the conflict examinations.

Spring Concert Of Orchestra Is Tomorrow

The University Symphony Orchestra, conducted by Theodore K. Karhan, associate professor of music and music education, will present its annual spring concert at 3 p.m. tomorrow in Schwab Auditorium.

The program will open with Ernani Wolf-Ferrari's Overture to "The Secret of Suzanne." Their second number will be "Symphony No. 6 in C" (Franz Schubert).

Fred Orkiseski and Robert Jones will be trumpet soloists for "Concerto in C for Two Trumpets and String Orchestra" (Antonio Vivaldi).

The White Peacock from "Roman Sketches" by Charles T. Griffes will present the best known of four sketches done by this American impressionistic composer.

Two Polovetsian Dances from "Prince Igor" (Alexander Borodin) will conclude the program. "Stranger in Paradise," the currently popular hit song, was taken from this opera by Borodin.

The concert will be open to the public.

LaVies Due Next Week

Copies of the 1954 LaVies are expected to arrive early next week, George A. Donovan, director of associated student activities, reported yesterday. As soon as they arrive a delivery schedule will be released. They will be distributed according to colleges.

Handbook Edit Staff

The editorial staff for the Student Handbook will meet at 7 p.m. Monday in 111 Carnegie.

Assignments will be made at this meeting, George Bairey, editor, has announced.

Trustee Executives

MEMBERS OF THE executive committee of the Board of Trustees held their regular meeting last night in the Old Main Board Room. Possible topics for consideration were approval of the architect's sketch for the All-Faith chapel, action on a recommendation concerning faculty traffic violations, and approval of architect's plans for the building of four home-management units. Members of the committee are, left to right, President Milton S. Eisenhower, Judge James Milholland, president of the Board of Trustees, Howard J. Lamade, George H. Deike, Edgar C. Weichel, Kenzie S. Bagshaw, and George Slocum.

Eighteen Apply For Positions On AIM Board

Approximately 18 application forms for next year's Association of Independent Men Judicial Board of Review were picked up by students yesterday at the Student Union desk in Old Main, George A. Donovan, director of associated student activities, reported.

Independent men with at least a 1.0 All-University average are eligible to apply for the board's eight positions. Final selection will be made after personal interviews with the applicants by a special AIM Board of Governor's committee.

Deadline for returning the forms is Friday. The forms may be returned to Robert Dennis, AIM president; Donald Weidner, Town Council president; Richard Steindel, Nittany Council president; or George Copella, Pollock Council president.

The board hears disciplinary cases involving independent men. Its decisions are subject to approval of the Dean of Men's office.

According to Dennis, this is the first time independents, without previous experience in student politics, have been able to apply for seats on the board.

Henderson Installed In H Ec Association

Grace M. Henderson, dean of the College of Home Economics, has been installed as president of the Pennsylvania Home Economics Association. She served as president-elect during the past year.

Juniors who will be student teaching the first eight weeks of the fall semester should have their pictures taken for the 1955 LaVie Monday through Saturday at the Penn State Photo Shop.

Women have been requested to wear navy blue or black sweaters.

Army Announces Draft Quota Rise

The Army raised its draft quota by 5000 men yesterday, the Associated Press reported. The new quota calls for the induction of 23,000 men in July.

Inductions since January have been running at the steady rate of 18,000 a month, but the Defense department has announced it will need more men after July 1, when a large number of draftees will be completing their two years of service.

Pentagon officials said the increase had nothing to do with the situation in Indochina.

LA Council to Meet

Recently elected members of the Liberal Arts Student Council will meet at 8 p.m. Monday in 105 Willard.

Tickets Net $7418 Profit; Set Record

By BEV DICKINSON

Chi Phi and Sigma Sigma Sigma were awarded the 1954 Spring Week trophies at the intermission of the Senior Ball last night in Recreation Hall for compiling the largest number of points in Spring Week events.

The two organizations topped the 45 other participating groups by jointly totaling 3997.5 points. Alpha Sigma Phi and Delta Tau Delta ran a close second with 3796.5 points, and runners-up in third place were Kappa Delta Rho and Thompson who totaled 3439 points. A total of 3325 points were received by fourth place Lambda Chi Alpha and Alpha Chi Omega, while Theta Kappa Phi and Theta Phi Alpha placed fifth with 2327 points.

An all-time record for money from ticket sales at the two-night Carnival was set when a gross profit of $7418.87 was collected, according to George Richards, Spring Week chairman. A total of approximately 75,000 ten-cent tickets were sold to a crowd of nearly 10,000 at the carnival Wednesday and Thursday nights.

Money remaining after Spring Week expenses are paid will go to the All-University Student Scholarship Fund, Richards stated. Last year $5900 was taken in from ticket sales at the Carnival.

The winners who sponsored the "Arabian Fantasy" show, received 45 points in the Ugly Man contest, 100 in the Miss Penn State contest, 500 in the Spring Week parade, 320 in the Mad Hatter's contest, 125 in the He-Man contest, and 2907.5 carnival points. The group was second in the number of tickets collected at the carnival.

Alpha Sigma Phi and Delta Tau Delta received 250 and 275 points for sponsoring the winners of the Miss Penn State and He-Man contests respectively. They totaled 25 points in the Ugly Man contest, 100 in the parade, 380 in the Mad Hatter's contest, and 2766.5 in the carnival.

Kappa Delta Rho and Thompson collected the greatest number of carnival tickets totaling 3104 (Continued on page eight)

Administration Mum On Challenge Meet

WASHINGTON, May 14 (AP)—The Eisenhower administration today clamped a secrecy lid on a now-famous meeting which helped prepare the way for the Army's challenge to Senator Joseph R. McCarthy (R-Wis).

The "don't talk" edict brought swift protests from Democrats on the McCarthy-Army Investigations subcommittee. They demanded that top federal officials—up to but not including President Eisenhower—be called, if necessary, to find out whether the Army's actions were masterminded at the highest level of government.

The meeting in question was held Jan. 21 and was attended by Sherman Adams, the President's top assistant; and Attorney General Herbert Brownell.

Army Counselor John G. Adams testified Wednesday that Sherman Adams advised him at this meeting, held in Brownell's office, to keep a written record of the Army's troubles with McCarthy's office over Pvt. G. David Schine. Later publication of this record led to the present blazing row.

Today Democrats on the subcommittee pressed for more details of the meeting, and down over the televised hearings came the administration's secrecy lid.

Joseph N. Welch, counsel to the Army officials, said Adams had been instructed to say no more about the meeting. These instructions, he said, came from the acting head of the Defense Department, Robert Anderson. Welch added that he understood Anderson was transmitting them for somebody else.

That pointed to the White House, and the White House Assistant Press Secretary Murray Snyder, when asked if the order originated there, would say only: "I have no information to give out."

Marshall Islanders Protest Bomb Tests

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y., May 14 (AP)—Representatives of the people of the Marshall Islands in the Pacific have appealed to the United Nations for an immediate end to experiments with hydrogen bombs in their area.

They reported the inhabitants of two atolls in the island group—

Rongelab and Uterik—are suffering from a lowering of the blood count, burns, nausea, and are losing hair from their heads since the recent U.S. hydrogen explosion tests—symptoms of persons who have been radioactivity victims.

Henry Cabot Lodge Jr., U.S. delegate, said in a statement that the U.S. government "is very sorry indeed" for the ill effects suffered by the Marshallese people. Lodge said 236 citizens in the affected area were given the same prompt and thorough treatment accorded U.S. personnel in the test group. He said he was informed there is no medical reason to expect permanent after-effects to their general health due to the falling of radioactive materials. Lodge called attention to the American announcement yesterday that the 1954 series of tests has been completed.

Lodge also assured the Marshallese people that safety measures would be taken and compensation would be made for damages.

The appeal was contained in a petition to the United Nations dated April 20. It was signed by members of a Marshallese Congress "holdover committee."

The committee said if experiments with lethal weapons were absolutely necessary for the well-being of all people of this world and cannot be stopped or changed to other areas, it suggested:

1. All possible precautionary measures be taken before such weapons are exploded.
2. All people living in the Marshall Island area be instructed in safety measures.
