

Senator Morse Will Be Award Established Forum Speaker Friday In Graduate's Name

By PADDY BEAHAN

Sen. Wayne Morse, Independent from Oregon, will speak on "Needed: A Realignment of Political Parties" at the last program of the Community Forum at 8 p.m. Friday in Schwab Auditorium. A few hundred single reserved seats are available for $1.50 each at the Student Union Desk in Old Main. Tickets will be sold until 8 p.m. Friday.

Senator Morse, a former Republican who broke with the party in the last Presidential campaign and now calls himself independent, is the key man in the control of the Senate. Counting him as a Republican (he still sits on the Republican side) the Republicans have the same number of senators as the Democrats—48. Without him the Republicans theoretically are in a minority. Of course, sometimes some of the Southern Democrats vote with the Republican senators.

AIM Proposals Get Approval Of WD Council

West Dorm Council Monday night approved four proposed amendments to the Association of Independent Men's constitution. The proposed amendments had previously been approved by the Board of Governors.

The council approved compensation to executive officers of AIM as follows: chairman, $100; secretary and treasurer, $50 each; vice president, $25.

Also approved was an amendment giving dormitory area presidents who are represented on the Board of Governors shared executive authority with a chairman, vice chairman, secretary, and treasurer.

Five standing committees hoped to be adopted to the AIM constitution are National Independent Student Association, Publicity, Social, Projects, and Elections.

The fourth proposed amendment sets up a Judicial Board of Review consisting of a chairman and eight appointed members. This will be an addition to the constitutional legislature.

The four proposed amendments have passed two AIM Board of Governors readings and will be adopted to the constitution when approved by three-fourths of the four councils represented on the Board—Nittany, West Dorm, Pollock, and Town Council.

The television set in the West Dorm has been fixed. The council voted to have president Stanley Juris recommend to the Board of Governors that AIM pay for further West Dorm TV expenses.

Action to rewrite the West Dorm Constitution was postponed until the summer.

Trustees Make 2 Appointments

Two appointments to the faculty approved by the University Board of Trustees, were announced today by President Milton S. Eisenhower.

They are Samuel M. Woolsey, assistant professor at the University of Texas, as associate professor of accounting, effective September 1, and Tormod Forland, assistant professor at the Institute of Silicate Science in Trondheim, Norway, as visiting professor of ceramics, effective July 1.

Forland was a research assistant in ceramics at the University from September 1, 1948 to October 31, 1949.

The Trustees also extended from November 1 to June 30, 1955, the appointment of Ranon B. Banerji, visiting professor of engineering research, who was a research training scholar with the ministry of education, government of India, prior to his appointment at the University last November.

Trumbore Elected Head of Honorary

Conrad Trumbore, graduate student in chemistry, has been elected president of Phi Lambda Upsilon, chemistry honorary fraternity.

Other officers are Edward Holst, research assistant in chemistry, first vice president; Roy Uenishi, graduate student in chemistry, second vice president; Harry Lawroski, research assistant in petroleum refining, secretary; William Luyben, sixth semester chemical engineering major, assistant secretary; Carleton Rowe, graduate student in chemistry, treasurer; and Thomas Work, assistant professor of chemistry, counselor.

Senator Morse, though he campaigned for Stevenson and the Democrats in the last election, has continued to vote independent of either party. Last year he spoke continuously for 22 hours and 26 minutes to set a new individual filibuster record. He explained he was one of a "band of liberals" who wanted to "focus public attention" on the Tideland oil giveaway.

Senator Morse was born in Wisconsin in 1900. He received his master's degree in economics from the University of Wisconsin in 1923. While teaching public speaking at the University of Minnesota he studied law and in 1928 went to Columbia on a graduate law fellowship. In 1929 he became an assistant professor of law at the University of Oregon Law School and two years later, at the age of 31, he was dean of the school.

Elected Senator in 1944

In 1944 he was elected to his first six-year term as Senator from Oregon, defeating a conservative Democrat who later joined the Republican party. Senator Morse was re-elected in 1950 for a term ending January, 1957. He formerly resigned from the Republican party Oct. 18, 1952. He claimed, "Liberalism in the Republican Party is dead. In 1954 I will campaign for the Democrats." He was allowed to keep his old seat on the Republican side of the Chamber but he was not given a seat on any Senate committee. He is the first Senator in 82 years to be involuntarily without a seat on some committee.

To Leave After Speech

Morse will travel by train and will arrive in State College in time for dinner. He will leave soon after the speech so there will be no coffee hour after the forum, Kent Forster, program chairman, said yesterday.

R. Wallace Brewster, professor of political science, will introduce Senator Morse.

3 Fraternities Have Unusual House Guests

Fraternities have been accused of having "animals" for members. They have been teased about not being able to distinguish the pledges from the house dogs.

But now it seems there are three houses that really do have animals.

Sigma Alpha Epsilon has a horned owl which was caught out near Whipple Dam. It has been named "Dynamite" by its owners, Henry Cox and James Culbertson. "Dynamite" now resides in the back yard (it lived for awhile in the coal bin) where it is fed on English Sparrows which the owners shoot with a pellet gun.

Ludwig Bube of Sigma Phi Epsilon was on his way to his eight o'clock class last Wednesday when he saw an animal which he at first took to be a chipmunk. It turned out to be an albino squirrel, which he was able to catch.

"Walter" is now caged in Bube's room where it is fed on nuts, water, bread and greens. Bube plans to take "Walter" home with him but if by some mishap "Walter" should pass away the Zoology department plans to mount him as albino squirrels are very rare.

Of more common animals are the baby chicks which James Smith, Sigma Phi Epsilon, and Richard McFeely, Phi Gamma Delta, have in their rooms.

McFeely got "Smedley" fresh from the egg in his poultry husbandry class two weeks ago.

PS Club in N.Y. Plans Beach Party

The newly-organized Penn State Club of New York City will have a beach party Sunday, July 11, at Jones Beach State Park, Long Island.

The party has been arranged to welcome the class of 1954 to New York City and to give them an opportunity to meet friends from Penn State. A committee from the classes of 1952 and 1953 has planned the event which is part of the club's plans to interest young alumni in the organization.

An award of a $150 first prize and $100 second prize has been established at the University by Summitville Tiles, Inc., Summitville, Ohio.

The award, approved by the University Board of Trustees, is in memory of Frederick Hirsch Johnson, graduate of the University, class of 1911 and founder of Summitville Tiles Inc., and Summitville Face Brick Co.

The award will be made annually to the winners of an architectural design contest, incorporating the use of quarry tile or floor brick. The specific problem will be chosen and assigned by the head of the Department of Architecture.

The trustees also approved new designations for departments and divisions in the College of Mineral Industries.

The changes, which became effective Saturday, were made to achieve greater consistency in the organizational structure of the University.

Formerly, the basic administrative units in the College of Mineral Industries were known as divisions. In other colleges the corresponding units are known as departments. The Mineral Industries College used the term department to designate administrative units, which are known elsewhere as divisions.

The action changed the titles of departments to divisions, with the title of the department head changed to division chairman. The titles of divisions were changed to departments, with the title of the former division chief changed to department head.

Departments changed to divisions are earth sciences, mineral engineering, and mineral technology.

Divisions changed to departments are those of geology, mineralogy, geophysics and geochemistry, meteorology, geography, mineral economics, mining, mineral preparation, petroleum and natural gas, fuel technology, metallurgy, and ceramics.

The name of the State College Creamery has also been changed to the University Creamery.

The trustees also accepted the resignation of Margaret E. Riegel, associate professor of home economics education. The retirement will become effective June 30.

Also accepted was the resignation of Henry N. Reist, professor of agricultural extension. Reist will retire July 1 with emeritus rank. He has been on the staff for 39 years.

Joe S. Taylor, professor of dairy husbandry extension, was also approved to succeed Robert H. Olmstead as head of the Dairy Husbandry Extension department. Olmstead will retire June 30 as professor emeritus of dairy husbandry extension.

Kirschner Wins Speech Contest; Snyder Is 2d

Richard Kirschner, eight semester arts and letters major, won the John Henry Frizzell Extempore Speaking Contest Monday evening in 121 Sparks.

Robert Snyder, fourth semester business administration major, was second. Kirschner received the $50 Pennsylvania State University prize and Snyder was awarded the $25 Forensic Council prize. Both winners received John Henry Frizzell awards of merit in extempore speaking.

Kirschner's topic "The Challenge Facing Our Universities" called upon the universities to resist commercialism and rise above the low political and moral mores of the times.

Snyder's talk on "Full of Sound and Fury" advocated the election of forceful men to public office.

Other finalists were Barbara Horn, Renna Cramer, and Locinda Manarin. Margaret Troutman was selected as one of the finalists but was unable to compete because of illness.

Dean and Mrs. John Henry Frizzell attended the contest. Dean Frizzell, retired head of the Department of Speech, also spoke to the audience.

Judges Select 6 Cheerleaders

Six new freshman cheerleaders were selected last night and Bruce Coble was named head cheerleader, according to Samuel Wagner, retiring head cheerleader.

Judges Harold R. Gilbert, assistant athletic director, Eugene Wettstone, gymnastic coach, Ernest B. McCoy, director of athletics, and Wagner selected Kaye Buterbaugh, Elizabeth Morrill, Marilyn Seltzer, Jack Dimler, Frederick Page, and Samuel Wolcott as freshman members of the cheerleading squad.

The new cheerleaders, selected from a large group of candidates, had practiced for 12 days over a three-week period.

WDFM Staff Meeting

Alumni Association Costs Seniors $2

Graduating seniors may join the University Alumni Association on a special membership rate of $2 for the first year. The rate will continue until after Commencement Day when the usual rate of $3 will apply.

The campaign for membership among the graduating class officially begins today. Approximately 1600 letters have been sent to members of the graduating class informing them of the work of the Alumni Association and the advantages of being a paid member. A group of fraternity men will contact seniors in fraternities. Sororities and other groups will also be contacted during the next few weeks before Commencement.

Commencement marks the beginning not the end of University ties, Ridge Riley, '32, executive secretary, pointed out in the letters to the seniors. And he emphasized the Alumni Association serves as the connecting link between the alumnus and the University.

Every graduate of the University is considered a member of the Alumni Association but for certain services members are paid and unpaid.

Paid members receive a subscription to the Penn State Alumni News, a magazine issued seven times a year; the football letter, a behind-the-scenes description of each game; the Penn Stater, a quarterly newspaper; and first priority, after season ticket holders, on reserved football tickets.

The association sponsors 63 active alumni clubs in most counties of the state, in large cities of the country, and in Puerto Rico. The association provides programs of speakers and films for these clubs, which, Riley pointed out, are particularly helpful to younger alumni in helping them to become acquainted in new communities.

Activities of the association made possible through its 11,000 paid members include sponsorship of class reunions and the alumni institute, Homecoming weekend, and the Alumni Fund. In addition, the Alumni office maintains the only complete mailing list of University alumni, now numbering almost 45,000. These files are also used by the departments and colleges of the University as well as by fraternities and sororities.

For this reason Riley urged the graduating seniors to send the association new addresses and announcements of marriages and births whether they join the organization or not.
