tions. Helen Sidman, Senate parliamentarian, and a representa-tive from Freshman Council and the House of Representatives will also serve on the committee.

Miss Sidman pointed out that there are "at least 21 provisions" of the present constitution which should possibly be changed.

The question of revising the constitution arose when Senate Adam's Other Ribconstitution arose when Senate discussed whether or not a representative from the Daily Collegian should be allowed an exofficio seat on Senate According to the present Constitution, the Daily Collegian is entitled to such Collegian is entitled to such Collegian up campus politics. a post, but it has not made use of it in recent years.

It was the consensus of Senate that while there may have been a need and reasons for such a seat when the constitution was passed, there is no need for a Collegian seat today.

Collegian seat today.

In addition, it was pointed out that under the present constitution, the president of Panhellenic Council has an ex-officio seat on Senate but in the past several years, this post has been filled by the Panhel vice president.

Before a motion to amend the constitution was made, Miss Sidman pointed out that Senate might set an unwise precedent by amending it at that time. She then recommended the detailed study. Miss Sidman pointed out that a three-fourths vote of Senate was all that was needed to amend the constitution.

The problem of whether or not the present Bermuda shorts ruling was being followed was discussed but action was delayed until next
