

Prexy to Address Press Conference

President Milton S. Eisenhower will be the main speaker tonight at the Pennsylvania Press Conference dinner.

The dinner in the Nittany Lion Inn climaxes the first day of a two-day conference for newspaper editors and publishers sponsored by the Pennsylvania Society of Newspaper Editors, the Pennsylvania Women's Press Association, the Pennsylvania Newspaper Publishers' Association and the Department of Journalism.

An after-dinner floor show of scenes from the Thespian production of "Bloomer Girl" will also be featured.

Banner Will Speak

The conference starts this noon with a luncheon at the Nittany Lion Inn. Franklin C. Banner, head of the Department of Journalism, and I. Z. Buckwater, general manager of Lancaster Newspapers Inc. and president of the Pennsylvania Newspaper Publishers' Association, will give welcoming speeches.

This afternoon's session will include a summary of the Seminar on Law Enforcement which was held Wednesday and yesterday on campus.

Saturday Discussions

Better newspaper writing, improvements in the editorial pages, sports coverage, and photographic journalism are some of the topics for discussion on Saturday.

The annual Pennsylvania Press Awards Dinner will end the activities Saturday night. Jerome Weinstein, editor of the Centre Daily Times and vice president of the Pennsylvania Society of Newspaper Editors, will preside. Awards will be given to the 1954 Better Writing Contest winners.

Miller to Speak

Paul Miller, executive vice president of Gannett Newspapers, Rochester, New York, will be the main speaker at the dinner.

Special activities for women attending the conference will include a tea given by Theta Sigma Phi, women's national journalism society, from 2:45 to 4:30 p.m. today in McElwain lounge; a talk by Christine F. Salmon, associate professor of housing and home art, on furniture planning; and a luncheon sponsored by the Pennsylvania Women's Press Association.

At the luncheon Hy Yaple, women's department editor of the Erie Dispatch, will talk on "A Woman on the War Front."

Harvest Ball Discontinued For One Year

The Agriculture Student Council has voted to discontinue the Harvest Ball for one year.

According to George Williams, council president, the dance had been financially unsuccessful for the past five years. Therefore, the council decided to discontinue the ball and conduct a study of the cost of similar dances held in the Hetzel Union Building next year.

The dance will be resumed in 1956 if the council feels it is financially feasible, Williams continued. The dance had been scheduled for December.

The council also voted in favor of the student insurance plan proposed by All-University Cabinet.

Council appointed the following chairmen: Daryl Heasley, Ag Hill party; John Tait, Howdy Night; Patrick Lantz, Ag Hill coffee hour; John Robinson, Agricultural Leadership Training Night; and James Flickenger, elections committee.

Two Students Caught In Traffic Speed Trap

Irving Rothstein, fourth semester business administration major, and William Bonatti, sixth semester pre-medical major, were caught in a speed trap Wednesday evening in downtown State College. Both were fined.

The speed trap was on S. Atherton street where the speed limit is 35 miles per hour.

Luncheon Club Speaker

Francis J. Sorauf, instructor in political science, will address the Faculty Luncheon Club noon Monday at the Hotel State College on the subject, "Is There a Return to Religion?"

Lion's Paw--

Kirschner said Lion's Paw has been a self-perpetuating organization, seeking to place its members on key committees, and in key positions on campus. He said out of 15 or 20 business managerships on campus, most of them have been held by members of one fraternity.

Persons named by Kirschner as members of Lion's Paw did not

AFROTC Convention

The Air Force Reserve Officers' Training Corps at the University was held from Monday to Wednesday, to Air Force ROTC instructors from nine other colleges and universities in Pennsylvania which offer Air Force ROTC. Purpose of the convention was to discuss the effectiveness of the first year of the new generalized Air Force curriculum.

confirm or refute Kirschner's charges. Kidd, cabinet parliamentarian, said discussion on Kirschner's statements, as personal privilege, must be personal, and off the floor of cabinet.

Political Parties--

For the first few days Morse brought in a folding chair and sat in the aisle. He was finally restored to his old seat in the front row on the Republican side. He was not, however, restored to his seat on the Senate subcommittee. He is the first senator in 82 years who, against his wishes, is serving on no committee.

Morse has held that a public official is obligated to lead and not follow and that he should base his vote on the merits of an issue, not his party's wishes.

Campus Woo Declared Taboo

Lovemaking on campus benches and in parked cars is "agin the law." And the campus patrol is strictly enforcing that "law" from here on in. The motto of the campus patrol in this matter, according to Captain Phillip A. Mark, is, "We don't care what you do. It's where you do it that concerns us."

Mark said a regulation of the Dean of Women's office to this effect has been on the books for 12 years, but has not been very strictly enforced. Lately, however, the patrol has received several complaints which cannot be ignored.

The patrol does not go looking for lovmakers, but if they continually run into them, something must be done, Mark said. The regulation states that the names of any couple found in dark places or in parked cars on campus must be reported to the patrol office. Up until the order for stricter enforcement, those couples had only been warned, Mark said.

A dance for graduate students will be sponsored by the Graduate Student Association from 9 to midnight tonight in the Waring Hall lounge, the former West Dorm lounge.
