

Cabinet Will Get Honest Report

A progress report will be presented to All-University Cabinet tonight explaining action taken on recommendations from last year's student encampment concerning academic honesty at the University.

The report will be given to Robert Carruthers, student representative on the Senate sub-committee.

Recommendations from the fall encampment asked that a committee be set up to implement an honesty program, to be set up by the Senate and a sub-committee. It also asked that any individuals representative of the group be appointed to the same committee.

The group, including two faculty members, and two student representatives, recommended that two plans be followed to combat academic dishonesty.

The first suggested that a group headed by the individual college deans would handle first offenses. Second offenses, however, would be sent to the central disciplinary committee for action, and the case

Blue Dinks to Mark Freshman Customs

Approximately 2600 blue dinks will be seen on campus for the first two weeks of classes when freshman customs go into effect next September.

Both freshman men and women will wear blue dinks with the University seal, instead of the traditional green, as part of the dress customs. Frosh will also wear the 5 by 8-inch name cards. Freshman men will not be requested to wear black bow ties.

"Wearing of the blue" next fall is only one of a number of changes that have been made by Freshman Customs Board.

Freshmen will be allowed to date during the two-week custom period. In previous years freshmen were only allowed to date on Fridays and Saturdays after the first week of customs.

Dating will be permitted until 5:30 p.m. Sunday through Thursday and until 10 p.m. and 1 a.m. on Fridays and Saturdays.

Under the new dating code, which was passed by the Senate April 1, chaperons must be present in fraternities at all times women are in the house. Women must be out of houses by 8 p.m. Sunday nights. Approved dry houses may have limited unchaperoned dating during the week. This new code applies to all coeds.

Freshman customs will be enforced by all upperclassmen next fall instead of by hatmen and women. Hatmen and women will be on hand to prevent excessive enforcement by upperclassmen.

Customs regulations, established by the Freshman Customs Board, will be subject to review by the Senate committee on student affairs subcommittee on discipline.

The membership of customs board was changed last fall by the University Senate. The board is now composed of three sophomore men and three sophomore women with a junior man and woman acting as co-chairmen. This year's co-chairmen are Ann Lederman, fourth semester journalism major, and Hugh Cline, fourth semester arts and letters major.

Senate to Hear Course Change Suggestions

Several recommendations on courses of study will be presented to University Senate at its regular meeting June 3, by the Senate committee on courses of study.

The recommendations include changes in course numbers, descriptions, and prerequisites.

The committee on admissions will also recommend that a half unit of trigonometry be required for admission to curriculums which now require a half unit of trigonometry or other advanced mathematics for entrance.

The report also recommends that the University become a member of the College Entrance Examination Board, and that College Entrance Board Examinations be required for out-of state applicants.

The rules committee will recommend minor wording changes in Article I, Section I of the Senate constitution, which states who shall be members of Senate. The committee deemed the changes necessary because of administrative changes.

A report from the committee on committees is also on the agenda.

Reports of all standing committees, summarizing the year's activities, will also be presented in writing at the meeting.

The next meeting of Senate, following the June meeting, is scheduled for Sept. 23.

Used Book Agency To Receive Books

The Penn State Used Book Agency will be open Monday through June 4 to receive books to be sold at the beginning of the Fall semester, according to Paul Hood, manager of the UBA.

The Book Exchange will be open from 1 to 5 p.m. at the Temporary Union Building. Books will be stored at the TUB over the summer. The Book Exchange school supply store will be open until 4 p.m. May 28.

be given publicity in the faculty bulletins and the Daily Collegian. Carruthers said names would not necessarily be used, but publicity would show that action was being taken on a recognized problem.

The second recommendation explained that penalties would be of a type which would render remedial service to the University. This plan would include a service penalty on the violator such as soliciting 20 names for Campus Chest.

Another recommendation from the encampment group asked that immediate action be taken on development of an honesty policy by establishing proper teaching procedures and correct measures on a graduated scale against dishonest individuals.

Carruthers said Henry S. Brunner, chairman of the Senate committee on student affairs, headed the group which further studied the encampment recommendations. Richard Lemyre, former All-University president, Wilmer E. Kenworthy, director of student affairs, and Kingsley Smith, professor of psychology, also served on the committee.

The group in turn requested the subcommittee, of which Carruthers was a member, prepare penalties for each type of dishonesty incurred.

Carruthers pointed out that these recommendations have not been approved by the Senate; he explained his report to cabinet is merely a progress report with the final decision of the acceptance of the proposals resting with the Senate.

"This is a start on a very small scale," Carruthers said, "toward a possible program to combat lack of academic honesty. This is the first time anything has actually been set down on paper."

Carruthers explained the problem is a two-way situation with

$45 in Fines Levied By Traffic Court

Traffic Court levied $45 in fines last night. Of this total, $16 was collected. The remaining $29 will be paid by the violators to the dean of men.

The court referred six persons to the dean of men on a general recommendation for having incurred three or more offenses. One other person was sent to the dean of men with the recommendation that his car be sent home.

Traffic and parking regulation will be enforced by the dean of men up to and including the date of graduation.

Four Students Get Spanish Awards

Four students have been awarded the John W. White scholarships in Spanish.

Students selected for the awards are Barbara A. Lapsley, Aurelia Arre, juniors majoring in arts and letters; and Louise Caspary and William Rosenthal, sophomores majoring in arts and letters.

The awards, which amount to $50 each, are made in recognition of linguistic attainment, including conversation, literature, and grammar.

WDFM to Offer Musical Series

Campus Station WDFM will present the first in a series of musical broadcasts during examination week at 7:30 p.m. Monday. The series will conclude June 6.

The three-hour programs will open with an hour of popular music. After five minutes of campus news at 8:30 p.m., WDFM will present 55 minutes of semi-classical recordings, followed by a final hour of classical music. A minimum of talk will be interspersed between records in order to prevent distraction of studying listeners, according to Ted Bair, station manager.

Department heads of WDFM will return to campus September 14 for a series of meetings to discuss programming for the fall semester.

New candidates for WDFM will meet September 15 to receive a detailed description of station operations on each staff. They will then be assigned to staffs. Plans are now being made to present several radio dramas under the direction of Morton Slakoff, drama director, and to possibly extend the amount of time devoted to classical and semi-classical programs.

Case to Edit 'Breeze'

Manley Case, sixth semester animal husbandry major, has been appointed editor of the Ag Hill Breeze for the fall semester.

Other editors are John St. Pierre, managing editor; Elizabeth Webster, feature editor; Gene McKelvey, club editor; and Norman Wood, business manager.
