

Smoot Reports Before Cabinet

Robert Smoot, former National Student Association coordinator, gave a progress report on the recommendation and resolutions of the encampment committee on student leadership before All-University Cabinet Thursday night.

One of the major proposals carried out, Smoot said, was the re-naming and reorganization of the Cabinet Projects Council, now known as the Cabinet Secretariat.

5500 Expected For Summer Class Sessions

Approximately 5500 students are expected to enroll in summer sessions, John E. Miller, administrative assistant to the director of summer sessions, announced yesterday.

Miller said that advance registration for inter-session is 600, for main session 1000, and for post-session 150.

He explained that more than one-third of the students who expect to attend summer sessions generally do not register in advance.

Inter-session will run from June 8 to 25, main session from June 28 to August 7, and post-session from August 9 to 27.

Students interested in enrolling for summer session may do so at the time of registration for each of the sessions. Advance registration is not necessary.

Reservations for the series tickets to the Summer Artists Series, to be presented during the main session, may be made in advance by writing to Summer Artists Series, 104 Burrows. They may also be obtained in advance during inter-session in 104 Burrows. The charge is $2.50.

Archaeologists Plan Meeting

The Society for Pennsylvania Archaeology will hold its annual meeting at the University today.

A business meeting will be held at 1 p.m. in 26 Mineral Science and will be followed by a general meeting at 2:30 p.m. William J. Mayer-Oakes and Don W. Dragoon, both of the Carnegie Museum, Pittsburgh, will speak.

John Witthoff, State anthropologist, will also speak on "Susquehannock Prehistory as Traced by Pottery," and Frederick R. Matson, professor of archaeology, will speak on "Collecting Charcoal for Radiocarbon Dating."

Charles F. Wray of the New York Society of Amateur Archaeology will speak at a dinner at 6:30 p.m. at the Allencrest Tea Room. His topic will be "Seneca History and Archaeology."

The afternoon and the dinner meetings will be open to the public.

Physical Education

The Men's Physical Education department has requested that all locks and baskets be turned in by June 11, or deposits will be forfeited.

Methodist To Speak At Chapel

G. Bromley Oxnam, bishop of the Methodist Church, Washington area, will discuss "The Mission of the Church" at Chapel at 10:55 a.m. tomorrow in Schwab Auditorium.

Chapel Choir will sing as introit, "Deck Thyself, My Soil, with Gladness," and as anthem, the choir will sing the aria, "Lord God of Abraham," with Raymond H. Brown, assistant professor of music, as soloist; and "Cast Thy Burden Upon the Lord," all by Mendelssohn.

George E. Ceiga, organist, will play as prelude "Alle Menschen Mussen Sterben" (Bach); as offertory, "To An American Soldier," (Bandenman Thompson), and as postlude, "Dedicate" (Bonnet).

Bishop Oxnam, a native of Sonora, Calif., is a graduate of the University of Southern California and Boston University.

Ordained in 1916, he has served as pastor of the Poplar Church in California and was founder, pastor, and director of the Church of All Nations in Los Angeles from 1916 to 1927. Elected bishop in 1936, Oxnam has served in the Omaha area, Boston area, and New York area, before going to the Washington area. This area includes the District of Columbia, Delaware, and parts of Maryland, Pennsylvania, and West Virginia, in 1952.

Bishop Oxnam has also served on the faculty of the University of Southern California and Boston University School of Theology and from 1928 to 1936 was president of DePauw University at Greencastle, Ind.

Bishop Oxnam has also held important positions on various committees of the Church and has served on numerous special government missions. He is the author of many books on religious subjects, the latest of which, "I Protest," was published this year.

Under the secretariat's new charter, the duties of the group are to make studies, administer projects for cabinet, and carry out other such projects as cabinet may assign to it.

Smoot said that one recommendation of the committee, that the executive secretary of secretariat be appointed from students who have worked with secretariat at least one semester, was not carried out. The All-University vice president now serves as the executive secretary of secretariat.

Extension and expansion of the NSA on campus were other committee recommendations carried out, Smoot said. One NSA proposal called for increasing the number of delegates to the NSA regional and national conventions. Smoot said that six delegates were sent to the regional convention and five students will attend the national convention in August at Iowa State College.

Those who will attend the national convention are Janice Holm, new NSA coordinator; Robert Dennis, president of the Association of Independent Men; Loaj Joan Packard, president of Leonides; Patricia Ellis, president of Women's Student Government Association; and Smoot.

Hugh Cline, sophomore class president, gave the final report on the sophomore class project committee. The committee earlier this week released the names of ten outstanding freshman men who had contributed most through activities to the University this year.

C of C Sends WDFM Case To Committee

Eugene Fulmer, secretary of the State College area Chamber of Commerce, said yesterday the petition concerning alleged television interference in the borough from campus radio station WDFM, has been referred to the civic affairs committee.

He declined further comment on the matter, except "we are still working to find a solution to the problem."

"We still wish to cooperate with all parties concerned," he said.

The petition, signed by 40 State College and area residents, was submitted to the Chamber of Commerce last March. It asked the Chamber of Commerce to investigate the situation to see what could be done to restore good reception.

The petition said that since the station went on the air last September, town residents had encountered "all sorts of distortion of the picture, an overlapping of voices and noises, and at times complete fading" on the Johnstown channel.

There Goes Apathy . . .

HIGH INTEREST in the Lion's Paw controversy was evident at All-University Cabinet's meeting Thursday night when students and members of the administration jammed the meeting room, took all available seats, and sat on windowsills and the floor to watch the two-and-a-half hour debate. Onlookers are, left to right, back row, George Bairey, Margaret McClain, George Donovan, director of associated student activities; Duane Holm, Forrest Crawford; front row, David Scott, Carl Saperstein, and Stanley Juras. Dean of Women Pearl O. Weston is in the background.

23 Class Reunions to Be Held For 1500 Alumni, June 10-12

As the 1600 graduating seniors move out, about 1500 alumni will move in for the Alumni Institute and 23 class reunions June 10 to 12.

The Institute was described by Ross Lehman, assistant executive alumni secretary, as a form of adult education designed to stimulate alumni along cultural lines and give them the feel of present day education facilities at the University.

On the program are movies of the Penn State sports season, campus tours, an alumni golf tournament, panel discussion by faculty and administration members, two lecture sessions of eight groups each, a parade, and a square dance.

Classes from 1899 to 1949 which hold five-year reunions, will hold reunion dinners and informal parties during the three-day period. An all-class banquet will be held June 12 at Recreation Hall, followed by a parade and the closing session of the institute during which President Milton S. Eisenhower will report on the "State of the University."

The class of 1909 Memorial Plaque to Gen. James A. Beaver, will be dedicated at the Beaver Field entrance. Five Distinguished Alumni awards will be presented to Arthur S. Shoffstall, Class of 1900, Jesse B. Warringer '05, William B. Wallis, '11, Robert W. Ostermayer, '17, and Paul Weir '18.

Alumni and their families will be housed in the West Dorm area.

MUST VIRTUE BE ITS OWN REWARD?

Once there was a Junior who devoted most of his time and energies to Social Pursuits, with correspondingly little emphasis on the Curriculum in the Catalog. Consequently, while he was Right Up There socially, academically he was close to the Point of No Return.

Topping it off was an Irate Ultimatum from the Male Parent, warning that his next acquisition had better be either a List of Passing Grades or a Social Security Card. All Our Boy could foresee was a lifetime at Hard Labor, unless Something Drastic happened.

So he made it happen. Invested heavily in benzedrine and black coffee and lined up three super-skull Tutors. Night and day he Sweated It Out—and wound up with Remarkably Respectable Grades. First thing he did, naturally, was to consult his Trusty Telegrammar. (What—you haven't got a Telegrammar? Just drop a line to Room 1727, Western Union, 60 Hudson St., New York City and get a copy of this bright and breezy little guide, for free.) On its advice, he called Western Union and flashed the Joyous Tidings homeward by Telegram.

The Reaction came an hour later. A Telegraphic Money Order for $500, plus a message that read: "Delighted at your confounding the Prophets, including myself. Hope you will join me on two-month European trip, expenses paid, starting June 20th." Signed, POP.
