

Revised IFC Code Now in Operation

The Interfraternity Council dating code, which was amended last April to include new chaperoned dating and drinking, is in effect this semester. The code went into effect Sept. 1.

The new policy provides for revision of Senate Regulations W-4 and W-5 (prohibiting serving of alcoholic beverages at University functions), substitution of a chaperoned fraternity dating code for the unchaperoned code previously in effect, and granting of special privileges to "dry" fraternities and those employing housemothers.

The new drinking code prohibits the use or possession of alcoholic beverages on University property, and holds student organizations responsible for good conduct and observance of the law under all University-related off-campus situations. The rule also holds the student organizations responsible for the good conduct of all persons at the University-related functions and for conformance to the laws of the borough, commonwealth and nation.

It also stipulates that the social activities of any group reported to have violated either of the rulings set forth may be suspended immediately when information regarded as sufficient by the Senate committee on student affairs is referred to the appropriate student judicial body for study.

Rules for Women

According to the new regulations, women guests may be entertained in fraternity houses under the following conditions.

1. Fraternities which have and enforce rules prohibiting the use of alcoholic beverages in the house at all times may have women guests unchaperoned from 5 to 8 p.m. Monday through Friday and from noon to 8 p.m. on Saturday and Sunday. Other fraternities may attain these privileges by petitioning for and obtaining approval in "dry" classification.

2. If chaperons are present, women guests may be entertained without registering the events with the dean of men and dean of women from 5 to 8 p.m. Monday through Friday, noon to 8 p.m. Saturday, and until 1 p.m. Sunday.

Who May Chaperone

Proper chaperonage is defined as two couples, three adults, or a part-time housemother. Chaperones must be from the following: Alumni of the chapter of at least ten years' standing, members of the faculty or the staff of the University, fraternity advisers, parents of the chapter members, and an "Approved Dean's List" to include those people not in the other categories.

3. Women guests may remain until 1 a.m. on Friday and Saturday evenings if the intention to have such guests under the proper chaperonage is registered with the dean of men and dean of women.

4. If full-time resident housemothers are employed and present, women guests may be entertained from noon to 8 p.m. Monday through Thursday, noon to dormitory closing hours Friday and Saturday, and noon to 10 p.m. Sunday.

Special Weekends

Later amendments to the new code provided that fraternities may obtain permission from the dean of men and the dean of women to entertain women on Friday afternoons of weekends when there are registered events. Another addition states that when two couples are chaperones, one of the couples must be from an approved classification. The first couple may invite a second couple who does not necessarily meet the qualifications.

Approval of both part and full-time housemothers must be granted by the fraternity adviser and by the dean of men before they are employed by the fraternity. They must be employed on at least a semester basis, and must be approved at the beginning of each academic year.

Trustees Formulate University Policy

The formulation of University policy is the main duty of the University Board of Trustees, which meets twice each year, in January and June.

The trustees consider University policy concerning development and maintenance of the physical plant and the management of the University in accordance with the University charter and the laws of the commonwealth of Pennsylvania.

Thespian Tryouts To Begin Sunday

Tryouts for the first Thespian production of the year, "Funny Side Up," will be held 7 p.m. Sunday and Monday in 410 Old Main, Frank Cressman, tryout director, said yesterday.

Personnel needs include actors, dancers, singers, Cressman said. In addition, volunteers are needed for crew work. Interested students may sign up in 410 Old Main.

Because first semester women may not receive the required extra late permissions, they will not be eligible for Thespian work until next semester.

"Funny Side Up," written by students Mike Rosenfeld, Philip Wein, and Louis Fryman, will be presented Oct. 14-16 in Schwab Auditorium. The comedy deals with college life.

The new code makes undergraduate officers of student organizations primarily responsible for the good conduct of members and guests at all functions, both on and off campus. Individuals or organizations whose conduct is found to be prejudicial to the good name of the University will be subject to disciplinary action, the code states, and such action may include the suspension or expulsion of individuals or the suspension or revocation of the charters of organizations.

Chapel Choir Is Composed Of 90 Students

Another Story on Page One

The Chapel Choir is composed of about 90 students who participate each week in the Sunday morning Chapel service and who also present two concerts.

Choir members are selected on the basis of auditions. The group practices from 7 to 9 p.m. each Thursday evening and on Sunday afternoons when it is preparing for a concert.

Choir is equivalent to a laboratory course, in that members receive one credit each semester for participation.

Last year's choir had approximately 106 members, but this year's group will probably be cut down to 80 or 90 members, according to Mrs. Taylor.

Besides taking part in the Sunday morning Chapel services the choir presents annually a midnight candlelight service before Christmas, a special Palm Sunday program, and a spring concert in collaboration with the University Symphony Orchestra.

The choir elects its own officers. Officers for this year are Richard Hurlbrink, president; Alexander Zerban, first vice-president; Mary Kelly, second vice-president; Joan McKinley and Elizabeth Horton, secretaries; Robert Harding, treasurer; Fay Holden, historian; Gerald Hodge, librarian; and A ner Carlstrom, Frank Woods, and Frank Podleiszek, assistant librarians.

Penn State Room Gets Old Pictures

Edmund Waring, Warriors Mark RD, grandson of William C. Waring, early pioneer at the University, has loaned several pictures and other items to the Penn State Room in the Pattee Library.

Included were pictures of the class of 1909, taken in its freshman year, and several flag scraps between freshmen and sophomores. He also loaned a piece of the pole on which the class of '09 raised the flag during the 1905-06 school year and a piece of the long rope thrown into the struggle by the sophomores.

Waring is also an uncle of band-leader Fred Waring, a member of the Board of Trustees.

THE BROWSE

Welcome Freshmen! Greetings and all that sort . . . You are the first class of Freshmen to enter The Pennsylvania State University. You may be the last to enter The Pennsylvania State University at State College, Pennsylvania—but we have our doubts that the name of the community will be changed—November's election will tell.

Have you found your way around? You have not completely done so unless you have discovered THE COLLEGE BOOK STORE. Where is THE COLLEGE BOOK STORE? 129 West Beaver Avenue. Where is that? Walk up the hill on Allen Street, turn right on Beaver Avenue, go half a block, and the bright spot on Beaver Avenue is THE COLLEGE BOOK STORE and the door is open until 9:30 every evening.

What is so wonderful about THE COLLEGE BOOK STORE? For fifteen years students at Penn State have been welcomed by us—not as just another store—but a place where you are welcomed to browse, chat with us, and allow us to become your friends. You can have fun here, looking over our books, cards, and stuff. What makes the place so interesting is the fact that you never can tell what you may find. So come in and keep coming in—we try to change our stock all the time to give you hours of browsing pleasure.

The big news this week is that a member of the English Composition faculty—S. Leonard Rubinstein has just published a novel. This is really exciting news for Penn State. The book is called THE BATTLE DONE. It is excellent and we recommend it to you without any reservation. It would be smart for those of you who will be having Mr. Rubinstein in class to rush down and buy a copy and ask him to inscribe and autograph it for you. We know this would make him feel real good.

Another of our departments is THE STAMP SELLER. Here in the downstairs store you will find everything for your collections—thousands of stamps and all the supplies you need. Your host here is Mr. Lyne S. S. Hoffman, another member of the English Composition faculty, who loves nothing better than to chat stamps with anyone who will lend him an ear.

What would you like to have us write about in THE BROWSE? Come in to tell us. See you next week.
