STATE COLLEGE, PA., FRIDAY MORNING, SEPTEMBER 24, 1954

FIVE CENTS

Forum Lists 4 Speakers For '54-'55

Four speakers have been selected for the 1954-55 Community Forum, Mary Jane Wyland, program committee chairman, announced yesterday.

The speakers are Carlos Romulo, former president of the United Nations General Assembly; Agnes Moorehead, actress; Clifton Fadiman, writer and entertainer; and James Hepbron, internationally famous criminologist.

Miss Wyland announced that Fadiman would speak on Nov. 9 in Schwab Auditorium. Miss

The Community Forum executive council last night decided to add a bonus speaker to this year's program. The name of the fifth person will be announced as soon as final arrangements have been made.

Season tickets will go on sale early in October, Kent Forster, council president, announced. Season tickets, which cost $4.40, will reserve a seat but not a particular seat in Schwab. The number of individual tickets to be sold before each performance will be determined by the season tickets purchased.

Moorehead will come to the University Dec. 6; Romulo, Jan. 13, and Hepbron, Feb. 15.

The forum is an organization of students and townspeople who combine to bring nationally known speakers to State College. Last year's speakers were Charles Laughton, actor; Gen. James Van Fleet; Sen. Wayne Morse, only independent in the Senate; and Edwin D. Canham, editor of the Christian Science Monitor.

Fadiman, probably most popularly known as master of ceremonies for the "Information Please" radio program, has had a distinguished career as a writer, critic and radio and television entertainer.

After graduating with an A.B. degree from Columbia University in 1925, he lectured as a member of the People's Institute and then switched to the publishing field. He was editor of Simon and Schuster book publishing firm.

Elderly Alumnus Succumbs at 88

Jacob C. Barrett, one of the two oldest alumni of the University, died at his home in Youngstown, Ohio, on Sept. 13.

Barrett, who was 88 and a member of the class of 1885, visited the campus last year to attend class reunion.

Mrs. Helen Jackson Reber, formerly of State College, and now a resident of West Palm Beach, Fla., also a member of the class of 1885, and H. B. McDonnell of College Park, Md. were listed as two of the oldest living alumni by Ridge Riley, executive secretary of the Penn State Alumni Association.

Fluorine Added To Town Water

State College's water supply now contains a new ingredient, one that is supposed to help water consumers fight off tooth decay.

The first bag of sodium fluoride crystals was mixed into the main supply line in June, with a ratio of one part of the chemical to one million parts of water. The one to one million parts ratio was recommended by the State Department of Health.

State College water users use between 1,100,000 to 1,400,000 gallons of water daily.

Cabinet Ok's Election Code; Encampment Plans Passed

Hat Council To Appoint Counselors

All-University Cabinet last night passed a recommendation to make the Orientation Week committee a Hat Society Council appointed committee instead of a cabinet appointed committee.

The recommendation presented by Joseph Cutler, chairman of this year's Orientation Week committee, will set up a committee headed by a junior hat society member. Hat Society Council will be responsible to cabinet for the committee's work.

Cabinet also passed a recommendation that the committee be appointed as soon as possible so the chairman might be able to work out plans for the counseling program with the deans of men and women.

The recommendation as first introduced by Cutler specified a junior hatman as head of the committee. Cutler said it was felt that since the men's hat societies are new at freshman counseling it would be more advantageous to have a man as head of the committee. He said a man could work more closely with the dean of men in arranging a men's counseling program.

Cabinet felt, however, it would be better if the choice of chairman was not limited to a man since the women are more experienced in counseling.

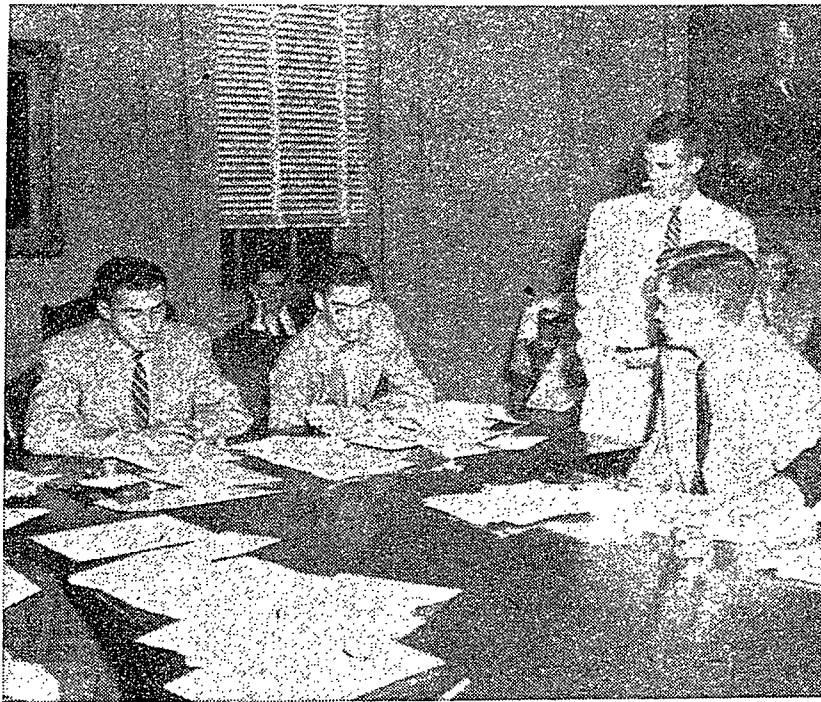

Robert Smoot made nine recommendations in presenting the encampment evaluation committee report. These included the schedule for next year's encampment.

As passed by cabinet the encampment will start Wednesday afternoon with a plenary session. In the evening there will be a hot dog roast. Thursday morning, afternoon, and evening, a workshop will be held.

The schedule for Thursday met some opposition. Many members argued against such a heavy workload in one day. A move to strike this recommendation failed by a vote of 12-11, with two abstentions.

Thomas Kidd, cabinet parliamentarian, pointed out that one of the reasons for the recommendation was the displeasure of University officials over the conduct at encampment during this year's free Thursday night.

HEATED DEBATE resulted from discussion on the method of selecting the clique chairman of the All-University political parties. Discussion was mostly around the provision of the encampment elections committee report that clique chairmen shall be elected by the entire clique.

Kick-Off Dance Is First Event Of Chest Drive

Music for this event will be provided by the Jack Jenkins' Orchestra.

Freshman women will not receive special hours for the dance. They may take their 1 o'clock for the dance and use the 11 o'clock for Saturday.

Ann Lederman and Joseph Cutler, co-chairmen for the dance, announced that tickets may be purchased at the Student Union desk in Old Main for 50 cents. Members of Mortar Board, senior women's hat society, will operate the refreshment stand at the dance.

Proceeds from the sale of tickets and the refreshment stand will be contributed to the Campus Chest.

Studious Student Skips to Study

Evidently she just wanted to get away from it all.

Nancy Plummer, a graduate student at Radcliff College, who had been missing since Wednesday, was found late Saturday night in a Boston garage.

Her first story to police was that she had been kidnapped. Then she said she had "blacked out" in a Boston department store.

But finally, the real story came out—Miss Plummer had withdrawn 14 books from the school library and taken a train to Portland, Me., for some quiet study in a hotel.

Full Cliques Will Elect Chairmen

BULLETIN

A permanent All-University Election Code, calling for popular election of party clique chairmen, and pre-registration for party membership, was passed last night by All-University Cabinet.

The code becomes effective today.

Cabinet ruled that present clique chairmen will hold their positions. New chairmen, it decided, will not have to be elected.

Under the code, parties will be chartered by Cabinet.

The method of political party All-University clique chairmen was under hot debate as All-University Cabinet adjourned for a short recess at 10:10 last night.

Discussion centered around Article 4, Paragraph 3 of the encampment elections committee report which reads:

The All-University clique chairman shall be elected by the entire clique.

Foremost of the opponents of this provision were Ernest Famous, chairman of the All-University Elections committee and Benjamin Sinclair, former Lion Party clique chairman and dramatics and forensic council representative on Cabinet.

In opening debate against the provision, Famous reminded the group that the provision had been approved by the encampment elections committee by a 5 to 4 vote, although it was subsequently approved unanimously by the entire encampment assemblage.

Famous further pointed out that during an elections committee meeting prior to cabinet last night, the provision had been defeated by a six to two vote, with one abstention.

Sinclair said cabinet would be "setting a dangerous precedent" if it attempted to rule on the se-

Dulles Calls on UN to Create Atomic Pool for World Peace

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y., Sept. 23 (AP)—Secretary of State John Foster Dulles today called for the creation by next year at least of an international agency for the peaceful use of atomic energy despite the refusal of Russia to cooperate.

In new and daring moves, Dulles also proposed to an intently listening U.N. Assembly that the U.N. convene next spring an international scientific conference to consider the whole vast subject.

In his important policy speech to the Assembly and in a letter formally stating the United States is raising this atomic issue as a new item in the Assembly, Dulles made it clear the United States will go ahead outside the U.N.

and in concert with those nations desiring to take part in the broad program. He indicated, however, the U.N. will be kept informed of developments.

He also made it clear that the Russians were welcome to come along if they wished but that at any rate the United States will not accept the familiar Russian "nyet" as a final block to the program first enunciated by President Eisenhower to the U.N. Assembly last Dec. 8.

Dulles disclosed that the Russians only yesterday, having heard he would deal with his subject in his talk today, had offered to resume conversations on the pool for peaceful uses of the atom. But, he said, they showed no sign of receding from the opposition expressed months ago.

Dulles recounted his talks with the Russians leading to their rejection of the President's plan and said:

"The United States remains ready to negotiate with the Soviet Union. But we shall no longer suspend our efforts to establish an international atomic agency.

"The United States is determined that President Eisenhower's proposal shall not languish until it dies. It will be nurtured and developed. We shall press on in close partnership with those nations which, inspired by the ideals of the United Nations Charter, can make this great new force a tool of the humanitarian and of the statesmen and not merely a fearsome addition to the arsenal of war."

The secretary will go to Washington tomorrow preparatory to going to Europe next week for further talks on the German problem.
