tion would have been forced upon Rae DelleDonne the following day . . . by the adoption of the proposed election code by . . . cabinet."

"4. It was impossible for any opposition to be elected since Rae DelleDonne, a candidate for State Party Clique Chairman, had control of who was notified and time of notification of the election."

"The doubtfulness of the legality of the election because of the lack of a quorum, and the holding of the meeting to avoid the proposed imminent election code, makes it impossible for anyone who believes in democratic legal processes to accept such a meeting."

Lutter further asked the elections committee to "forbid the purported officers of the State Party from any political activity such as clique meetings, campaigning . . . until a final decision of the legality of the elections of (Wednesday) is determined."

"I further request that the . . . elections committee have a hearing of these charges at . . . earliest convenience," Lutter said.

"In my humble opinion," he continued, "elections of this type, irrespective in which organization they are held are a disgrace to the University—a detriment to student government and, if permitted, an incentive to weak students to participate in further mal-practices."

Famous said last night witnesses will be invited to attend the special meeting of the election committee. Other persons who are "directly concerned," he said, would also be allowed to attend the meeting, but it won't be

The program will be arranged at the close of the membership drive. Last year's program included St. Paul's Cathedral Choir of London; Leonard Rose, cellist; the Stuttgart Chamber Orchestra; Rudolf Firkusny, pianist; and Jennie Tourel, mezzo-soprano.

Members may renew by contacting any of the following faculty captains for the drive:

Agriculture, Robert W. Stone; business administration, Edward Dubois; chemistry and physics, Henry L. Yeagley; education, Palmer C. Weaver; engineering, A. Harris Forbes; home economics, Jane A. Bovie; the liberal arts, Richard C. Maloney; mineral industries, John D. Ridge; physical education and athletics, Ernest B. McCoy.

Library, Ralph W. McComb; general extension, Thomas Hammonds; administration, Sara E. Case; Army, Maj. Herbert A. Johnson; Navy, Cdr. Robert Etnire; Air Force, Maj. Robert A. Joyce; retirees, Leland S. Rhodes; and town, Mrs. C. C. Hess.

Captains will meet at 3 p.m. tomorrow in the Home Economics center. A meeting for volunteer workers will be held Oct. 4.

open to the general public.

If the committee decides Wednesday's election was illegal, John Lyon, who was vice clique chairman before the election, would probably assume the chairmanship since John Fink, former clique chairman, resigned on Monday.

All-University Cabinet, after approving the proposed permanent election code Thursday night, ruled that it would go into effect yesterday morning so that new clique chairmen would not have to be elected.

Daylight Time Ends Sunday; Back to EST

By TOM SMITH
Tomorrow marks the end of daylight saving time and the return to Eastern Standard time. This news will be welcomed by those who bemoaned the loss of an hour's sleep last April, and who have been unable to make it up throughout a busy summer and a hectic first week on campus.

The additional hour of slumber will be rewarding to the few students, who, having retired early on Saturday night, arise bright of eye and clear of head to satisfy their healthy appetites with a hearty breakfast.

Of course the extra hour will make no difference to the average sleeping Penn Stater. In the past he has shown a decided preference for sleep, rather than breakfast, on Sunday mornings.

Daylight Saving Time usually lasts from 2 a.m. on the last Sunday in April, until 2 a.m. the last Sunday in September. The reason for affixing these dates, according to the United States Weather Bureau, was to take advantage of the increased daylight hours during the summer.

The reason why Sunday was chosen is a little obscure. There are those who claim that the reason for picking Sunday, of all the days in the week, was because most people do not work on Sundays, thus it would not interfere with their daily sleeping habits.

However, this need not concern us. Just remember to set your alarm for 2 a.m. Sunday. When it goes off (presuming you are in bed at this time) just reach out and set the hands back one hour. Then go back to sleep, happy in the thought of an extra hour of rack time. Pleasant dreams.

HEc Cafeteria to Open

The newly decorated Home Economics cafeteria and tea room will open for the fall semester at 5:30 p.m. Tuesday.

Thereafter, cafeteria service will be available Monday through Friday from 11:50 a.m. to 12:30 p.m. and 5:30 to 6:30 p.m.

Judging Team Places Fifth

Penn State's dairy cattle judging team took fifth place out of 13 teams this week, in the first competition of the season. The competition was held at the Eastern States Exposition at Springfield, Mass.

Gilbert H. Porter, graduate student in dairy husbandry, is the new coach for the team.

Cornell won the meet with Maryland, Ohio State, and Massachusetts leading Penn State.

John Harris, seventh semester agricultural education major, placed eighth. Other team members were Jacob Guffey, seventh semester dairy husbandry, and Walter Wurster, sixth semester dairy husbandry. Darwin Braund, fifth semester dairy husbandry, was alternate.

The team inspected dairy cattle breeding establishments in Pennsylvania, New York, New Jersey, and Connecticut. A team will participate in the national intercollegiate judging contests of the annual Dairy Congress in Waterloo, Iowa.

Parties--

bers must officially register with the elections committee, and that each member must attend at least two clique meetings before the final nomination meeting. In addition, the clique chairman must be elected at an open meeting of the entire clique.

The clique must submit candidates for all offices involved in particular elections. A copy of its constitution must be filed with cabinet to receive official recognition.

Campaign violations include electioneering at a polling place, buying votes with either money or promises, and falsely listing candidates' activities for campaign purposes. Penalties of not less than 100 votes for campaign violations will be levied by the elections committee.

Violations on the part of any one clique candidate will result in penalties upon every other candidate of that clique.

Van Zandt to Address Young Republicans

Congressman James Van Zandt will address the Young Republicans Club on Oct. 7 in 202 Willard, Robert M. Kurtz, president, has announced.

Plans were made to attend Region 1 Young Republicans Convention Oct. 1 to 2 in Pottstown at the group's meeting.

Several club members made a report on the State Young Republicans Convention Aug. 27-28 in Harrisburg.
