FOR A BETTER PENN STATE

VOL. 55, No. 10

STATE COLLEGE, PA., WEDNESDAY MORNING, SEPTEMBER 29, 1954

FIVE CENTS

Council Will Elect State Party Head

State Party's permanent clique chairman will be elected by the party's Student Representative Council at 7 tonight in 105 Willard. The meeting was announced by John Lyon, acting clique chairman. Persons other than those on the Council who wish to attend tonight's meeting should contact Lyon. No one will be admitted to the election without permission, he said.

Board To Hold Joint Frosh Customs Today

Another Joint Customs Day will be held today, Ann Lederman and Hugh Cline, co-chairmen of the Freshman Customs Board, have announced.

A board meeting, scheduled for 7:00 tonight in the student government room, 204 Old Main, will try approximately 30 customs violators. The violations, for the most part, have been failure to wear dress customs and to carry freshman handbooks.

Any freshman who has lost his dink or handbook should report to the Student Union desk in Old Main where exception cards will be issued.

Cline has urged students to be courteous and friendly during customs. Hazing will not be permitted.

He believes both freshmen and upperclassmen should regard customs as fun and should develop the right attitude throughout the remainder of the program.

The success of joint customs days in contrast to the lack of spirit during the regular program has prompted the additional joint customs days.

The official end of customs has been set for noon Saturday. However, freshmen will be required to wear their dress customs to the first two home football games and will not be admitted without them.

Moore Selected 'Athlete of Week'

Lenny Moore, junior halfback sensation on the Nittany Lion football team, gained the Daily Collegian's 'Athlete of the Week' award with his fine display of ball-carrying in leading the Lions to a 14-12 conquest of highly-ranked Illinois Saturday.

Moore, a product of Reading, was a unanimous choice in the initial poll conducted by the Collegian's sports writers.

The six foot, 180-pound griddler averaged 7.3 yards on 17 carries, good for 124 yards.

Moore's brilliant ball-totting overshadowed that of J. C. Caroline, the Illini's All-American record-smashing sensation, and was one of the major factors in Penn State's amazing win.

An 'athlete' will be chosen by the Collegian each week throughout the remainder of the athletic year.

The election of a clique chairman tonight will end a 10-day period in which the party has had five heads.

John Fink, last year's clique chairman, announced his resignation Sept. 20, and appointed John McMeekin, fifth semester accounting major, temporary chairman.

Appointment Illegal

McMeekin announced Sept. 22 that because of constitutional provisions, his appointment was illegal, and John Lyon, party vice-clique chairman, assumed the chairmanship.

Rae DelleDonne, seventh semester home economics major, was elected chairman by the representative council at a special meeting that night. However, the All-University elections committee Sunday declared Miss DelleDonne's election void, and Lyon resumed his post as acting chairman.

The committee ruled that the party had complied with the "letter of the law" in that a quorum was present for the meeting. But, the committee ruling continued, the party had violated the "spirit of the law" in calling the special meeting.

Spirit Violated

Ernest Famous, committee chairman, said the spirit was violated because the meeting was called less than four hours before it was to be held.

Tonight's election will be held under last semester's elections code. According to the new code, adopted by All-University Cabinet Thursday night, the chairman is to be elected at an open meeting of the entire clique.

Because there is no official list of last semester's clique membership available, the elections committee decided to have the council elect the clique officers.

Method Prevents Attendance
This method of election would prevent Lion Party members or students not affiliated with a party from attending, or students who had lost last semester's State Party registration cards could be barred, the committee ruled.

The representative council consists of the clique vice chairman, secretary, treasurer, secretariat, co-chairmen of eight committees, the chairmen and secretary of each class clique, a representative from each college, a fraternity representative, a sorority representative, independent men's and women's representatives, and the chairman of the advisory committee.

Enrollment Total May Reach 21,000

Demand for enrollment at the University may reach 21,000 by 1970 and of this number 18,500 will wish to enroll on the main campus.

These facts were released in the first of a series of long-range development studies which was summarized yesterday in a meeting of Senate, faculty advisory committee and the Council of Administration. The studies will be discussed later with additional Uni-

Homecoming Theme Suggestions Due Today

Suggestions for Homecoming theme may be submitted by fraternity men until 5 p.m. today at the Student Union desk in Old Main, Robert Kitchel, vice president of the Interfraternity Council, has announced.

The winning entry will be announced in the Oct. 6 edition of the IFC newsletter, Kitchel said. The person submitting the winning entry will receive a free ticket and corsage to the IFC-Panhellenic Ball in April.

Cast Selected For Thespians' 'Funny Side Up'

The cast for Thespian production, "Funny Side Up," to be presented Oct. 14-16 in Schwab Auditorium, has been named.

The dancers are Charlotte Fink, Delores Spathis, Lois Bacharach, John Valentine, Robert Ott, Virge Volpe, and Seymour Goldstein.

Members of the chorus are Bill Edgeworth, Jack Williams, John Schofield, Frank Phillip, Robert Bazilian, Raymond Mesnar, David Terrill, Harry Stack, Patricia Sherman, Carole Schmitzer, Georgia Eckroth, Dorothy DeMay, Barbara Patton, Grace de Martino, Barbara Stankey, and Faye Hinderger.

The show includes five skits, "Heaven Only Knows" with David Schofield, Jeanne Lippy, Patricia Mansfield, Joan Shadlinger, Larry Heller, and Albert Jordan; "We Love the Circus" with Phillip Beard, Donald Ziegler, Jim Ellis, Larry Huntsman, and Larry McCabe; "Court Martial" with Robert Martz, Jay Tolson, Arron Kaye, Charles Sciotto, Marilyn Harris, Charles Teyssier, James O'Mara, Sandra Booth, Fern Boroff, Judith Hartman, and Robert Hertz.

"So You Want to be a Housemother" with Marvin Jackson, Joan Campbell, Nancy Chalk, Ann De Furia, Marilyn Harris, and Donald Ginhart; and "Osmond Lab Confidential" with Shirley Mix and Sandra Booth.

Also included will be specialty acts by Alec Bellasov, Harriet Barlow, Michael McKay, and Phillip Wein.

versity and community groups. To what extent such a demand is actually met will depend on policies to be decided soon by University and by the availability of resources over a period of years.

"All long-time studies will be presented to the Board of Trustees who will make policy decisions on the future direction of the University," President Milton S. Eisenhower said yesterday.

Help with Recommendations
"The data are presented to the faculty in the hope that they will help formulate recommendations to the trustees," he added.

The studies, which were prepared under the direction of C. S. Wyand, executive assistant to the president, assume that the demand for enrollment will amount to 15 per cent of all students registered by Pennsylvania colleges and universities by 1970.

Total college enrollment within the state, the study reveals, more than quadrupled during the period from 1900 to 1950. Enrollment reached a total of 107,058 in 1950.

Enrollment Grows
Penn State attracted 1.4 per cent of Pennsylvania college students in 1900, 12.4 per cent in 1950, and two years later, 13.9 per cent.

"It is believed," the report says, "that the greatest relative increase in Penn State's enrollment by 1970 will, if resources permit, be in the Graduate School (an increase of 1400 students over the 1953-54 enrollment.)"

Based on the projection of present trends, total undergraduate enrollment will expand by 6800 students during the same period. This would mean 5700 more men and 2500 more women in the University's total student body by 1970.

Center Enrollment May Grow
The studies also show that resident enrollment at Penn State undergraduate centers, now totaling 1200, may increase greatly, depending on "University policies governing expansion and, to a lesser degree, upon prevailing economic conditions."

No definite estimate was made on summer session enrollment, which has decreased from a high of 10,000 students in 1943 to 5800 this past summer.

Grad Students To Hear Prexy At Convocation

President Milton S. Eisenhower will address approximately 1400 graduate students at the graduate convocation at 8 tonight in Schwab Auditorium.

The convocation is part of a graduate students' night which will also include election of representatives for the Graduate Student Council immediately following the convocation in White Hall. A mixer will be held for graduate students at 9 tonight in the White Hall gymnasium. Lynn Christy and his orchestra will play.

Other speakers at the convocation will be Harold K. Schilling, dean of the Graduate School; and Agnes Doody, student chairman of the convocation.

Others attending the convocation will be Ilene Fife, assistant professor of speech; Henry W. Knerr, assistant to the dean of the Graduate School; and the deans of the nine colleges.

Robert Berger, graduate student in the College of Chemistry and Physics, is program chairman.

Marketing Club to Hear Business Research Head

Earl P. Strong, newly appointed director of the Bureau of Business Research, will be guest speaker at an open meeting of the Marketing Club at 7:30 tonight in the living center of the Home Economics building.

Strong, who previously was affiliated with the National Statistical and Office Equipment Association, of Washington, D.C., is the author of several text books.

Grange to Meet Tonight

The Penn State Grange will hold its first meeting of the semester at 7 tonight in 100 Weaver. Members of the Grange and interested students may attend.

Anti-Name Change Residents to Meet

Borough residents who wish to retain the name of State College in the Nov. 2 election, will meet at 8 tonight in the State College High School Auditorium.

An advertisement in Friday's Centre Daily Times urged "all friends of 'State College'" to attend the meeting.

According to an article which appeared in Monday's Times, the name change controversy has split the borough's population into three groups.

Lined up on one side of the issue are those who feel the proposed name change to Mount Nittany is a logical step to boost the prestige of the University.

Necessary to End Confusion
This group also feels the change is necessary to end the confusion which they say exists outside the community because of the clash between State College and University.

On the other side are those who wish to retain the name State College. The proponents of the status quo argue the change is unnecessary because of sentimental reasons.

In the middle of the controversy are those who argue that a name change is in order, but feel that Mount Nittany is not the answer. This group has proposed other names, among them Centre Hills, Penn State, and Centre.

Will Vote Nov. 2
Borough residents will choose between Mount Nittany and State College in the Nov. 2 election. The name Mount Nittany was placed on the ballot this summer after 760 people signed a petition asking for the change.

If the change is voted, the new name will go into effect as soon as the proper papers are filed with county officials.

The name of the borough has been changed three times before to keep up with progress at the University. It has been known as Farmers' High School, the Agricultural College, and State College.

Communist Refugee Flees to U.S.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 28 (AP)—An escapee from behind the Iron Curtain, a top ranking Polish security officer, turned up in Washington today. He declared that resistance to Communist regimes is widespread throughout the Soviet satellite countries.

The official is Jozef Swiatlo, who was No. two man in Communist Poland's security program. The U.S. government had kept him secretly in Washington for eight months, and lifted the veil of secrecy only today. No one explained the delay.

The story, which had the elements of a spy thriller, brought into the open an account of the mysterious European disappearance five years ago of Noel and Hermann Field, American brothers, and Noel's wife, Herta.

Swiatlo, a stocky, ruddy faced man of 39, spoke with newsmen at a far-ranging press conference at which he said:

1. Active revolt against the Communists in Iron Curtain countries is a virtual impossibility now because "The Red army is everywhere." But the United States "should do everything it can to bolster the spirit of resistance."

2. "There is a great movement for resistance" against the Moscow-directed Red leaders in Poland. This resistance shows up "among all classes."

3. He "knows the great majority of Poles are convinced" that the Polish victims of the World War II Katyn massacre were "murdered by the Soviets" rather than the Germans.

The Foreign Operations Administration, obviously delighted to present a significant case of Communist defection, introduced Swiatlo to 200 newsmen late in the afternoon.

Much of the questioning was concentrated on the case of the Fields.

As if to punctuate the dramatic situation, the State Department made public the text of notes sent to the Iron Curtain countries of Poland and Hungary, demanding the release of the Fields.

The notes said Swiatlo had filled in the missing gaps in the cases of the Fields.

The Field brothers were accused of spying for the United States. They denied it. Swiatlo said today that he thought they were Communist sympathizers but didn't know if they were party members.
