

Gridders Seek 2d Win at Syracuse

Schwartzwalder fielded the heaviest line in the east last year and veteran returnees to the forward wall give it almost as much weight today. With seven lettermen and one newcomer in the fold, it should average about 200 pounds. Engle's front line measures 220.

The Orange, however, will have the edge in backfield weight. Schwartzwalder's quartet will tip the scales at 185 pounds per man while the Lions backfield weighs in at slightly under 180 pounds.

Heading Schwartzwalder's unbalanced T formation offense is hard running Ray Perkins. Perkins moved to right half from end this year and spearheaded the Orange offense against Villanova last week. Halfback Sam Alexander, fullback Bill Wetzel, and quarterback Mickey Rich round out the backfield.

The Orange forward wall will line up with Pete Schwert (210) and Tom Richardson (192) at the ends, Paul Kernaklian (210) and Jerry Cashman (210) at the tackles. Cal Smith (188) and Mike Skop (185) will man the guard posts and Paul Slick (195) will be at center.

Engle's line, largely responsible for the Lions' overwhelming victory at Illinois, will line up with Jesse Arnelle and Jim Garrity at ends, Rosey Grier and Otto Kneidinger at the tackles, Earl Shumaker and Pete Petroff at guard, and Frank Reich at center.

Quarterback Don Bailey, halfbacks Lenny Moore and Ron Younker, and fullback Bill Straub make up his backfield.

About 20,000 fans are expected to be on hand for the game, 32nd in a series which has been interrupted for only one year since 1922. The Lions hold a 14-12 edge and five games have ended in ties.

derdogs at Beaver Field but moved swiftly into a 14-0 lead in the first half and held it until the closing minutes when Dan DeFalco blocked a punt and fell on it in the endzone, giving the Lions a 20-14 win.

The last time Penn State beat the Orange in Syracuse was in 1948 when Bob Higgins' great club whipped them 34-7. The next time the Lions went to Archibald Stadium (1950) Schwartzwalder's team dropped them, 27-7. Then in 1952 the Nittanians were on their way to an Orange Bowl bid and the Lambert trophy. The Orange stunned them 25-7 and ended up by getting both the Bowl bid and the trophy.

In the eighth the Tribe showed signs of real life when Bill Glynn's pinch double and a wild throw by shortstop Al Dark gave them another run. After Gomez walked Bobby Avila on a 3-1 pitch, Durocher marched to the box.

Wilhelm had been throwing briefly in the bullpen and needed no extra call for duty. Facing the heart of the Indians' power, he made Larry Doby ground out to first-base and fanned the dangerous Wertz with his specialty.

Riding a 6-2 lead, Wilhelm mowed the Indians down in order in the ninth, striking out Hank Majeski and getting Dave Philley and pinch hitter Dave Pope on hard grounders to second baseman Davey Williams.

Mike Garcia, the Big Bear of the Cleveland staff simply didn't have enough to offset his wildness, an error by George Strickland and his own fielding boner.

Al Lopez paraded Art Houtteman, Ray Narleski and Don Mossi to the hill in vain attempt to stem the tide. Actually the dam-

Frosh Soccermen Open Season Today

The freshmen soccer team will receive its first taste of competition under the Penn State banner this afternoon, when it travels to Lock Haven to oppose the Lock Haven State Teachers eleven. Game time is slated for 3 p.m.

According to frosh mentor Paul Burdan, the contest is the first away-scheduled encounter for the yearlings, since the late forties.

"We have a fine group of boys," said Burdan, "however, the starting lineup will not be decided until gametime."

Burdan and his assistant, Jack Carrier, have a "weeding-out" problem confronting them. At present, there are two and three men vying for each position, with no slot definitely decided.

The frosh eleven received a serious jolt, Wednesday afternoon, when Terry Reber, promising center-forward, fractured his right arm in a scrimmage. Reber had scored 25 goals in his senior year in high school and gave every evidence of developing into a standout player.

As far as the forward line is concerned, Burdan mentioned several boys as showing promise. However, with such a large turnout, everyone is still in the running.

The halfback slots were being converged upon by four men and the goal-tender job seems to be gradually working itself out, with Jerry Bruce and Jim Richardson handling the uprights.

Burdan stated that the frosh will also travel to Maryland to meet Frostberg State Teachers, Oct. 30.

Burdan is currently in his second year, as assistant coach to Ken Hosterman. Carrier is serving his first season. Both Burdan and Carrier are Springfield College grads.

Eight Soccer Games

Eight games, five of them on the home grounds, are booked for the 1954 Penn State soccer season. The Lions will play Bucknell, Syracuse, Colgate, Army, and Navy at home; Maryland, Temple and Pennsylvania on the road.

SATURDAY MORNING QUARTERBACK

Syracuse sportswriters, attending the weekly "Break Bread With Ben" meeting held at the Hotel Syracuse, had only words of praise for Penn State from Syracuse football coach Ben Schwartzwalder.

State College fans who sat in on the weekly Quarterback Club meeting here, got the same treatment from Rip Engle.

"Lenny Moore is the equal of any back in the country," said Mr. Schwartzwalder.

"Ray Perkins is as good as any back in the East," said Mr. Engle.

"Penn State's victory at Illinois was no fluke," said Mr. Schwartzwalder.

"Syracuse always plays their best game against us," said Mr. Engle.

And so it went.

These two coaches are guiding two good ball clubs. Engle's is the better we feel—man-for-man, three touchdowns better. But both respect the terrific difference mental condition can make in the annual battle between the two.

The Orange love to beat the Lions. And Penn State takes great pleasure in whipping Syracuse. But too often the Lions have regarded Schwartzwalder's team too lightly.

That was indicative two years ago when a powerhouse Penn State team, already victors over Penn, and Nebraska, and later Pitt, lost a stunning 25-7 game to an underdog Syracuse outfit. The Lions muddled everything they did that afternoon. Tony Rados made only 56 yards through the air. And Lion backs were stymied at the line of scrimmage (they made 45 yards) while the Orange offense went on a rampage.

The Lion victory last week at Illinois definitely was no fluke. But as Engle so aptly put it after the victory; "one swallow doesn't make a summer."

He has built a polished offense around seven good backs and rocking line that has strength and the depth to keep it fresh.

Now the big problem is to stem a mysterious tide that seems to surge in Syracuse every year about this time.

On paper Syracuse is a good ball club. The Orange ran away from a top-notch Villanova team last week, 27-6, for their first win of the season, and looked very impressive while doing it. Schwartzwalder lacked an experienced passer, but found that he didn't need passing to win. His backs are big and speedy. His line is above average in size and packs plenty of drive.

However, we feel, that the Lions, rated first in the Lambert Trophy ratings this week, will have too much for the Orange to match.

From end to end, including his two-platooning reserves, Engle has a line that might rank with the best before the season is finished.

Don Bailey, a question mark at quarterback before last week, proved himself a deceptive ball handler, sparkling runner, and a more than adequate passer. He made Engle's split T attack click against the Illini.

Lenny Moore, Bill Straub, Chuck Blockson, and Ron Younker established themselves last year, and looked just as good last week.

If statistics mean anything, the Lions will have to score at least two touchdowns to win. In 47 games under Schwartzwalder, the Orange has been shut out only once and has currently scored in 24 straight ball games. In fact during the last ten years, in only one instance, has the winning teams scored less than 20 points in this series.

Syracuse owned a 5-3-1 record last year but came within 14 points of an undefeated season. The Lions own six of those. The Orange want this game today and will be plenty tough. They meet Illinois next Saturday and would like nothing better than to travel to Champaign in possession of a victory over the team that beat the Illini.

But they're going to run into too much line and backfield speed today. It could be a close one, but we figure the Lions by at least two touchdowns.

Top Cage Attractions

Pennsylvania, Navy, West Virginia, Pitt, Rutgers, Colgate and Syracuse are numbered among the top-flight basketball teams which will oppose Penn State at State College during its centennial celebration in 1955.

Penn State and Southern California were opponents in the first New Year's Day football game to be played in the stadium which has since become famous as the Rose Bowl. Prior pairings were billed as East-West games.
