

Mackey Denounces State Sales Tax

By RON LEIK

The Pennsylvania sales tax, which Sen. George Leader, Democratic candidate for governor, has denounced in his campaign, is totally unnecessary, David R. Mackey, Burgess of State College, declared Monday night.

Mackey, speaking before the Young Democratic Club, attacked the Republican-sponsored Pennsylvania one per cent sales tax and asked support for the recently organized "Volunteers for Leader" movement. Leader is a York county poultry farmer.

gory, who produces the show. The tour wrote a new page in theatre annals and led to later drama reading tours such as "The Caine Mutiny Court Martial," also directed by Laughton and produced by Gregory.

Miss Moorehead taught English and public speaking after receiving her master's degree from the University of Wisconsin. With her savings she went to New York and the American Academy of Dramatic Arts and after stage success entered the radio field.

During a radio program she met Orson Welles, who signed her as a regular member of his radio show. When Welles made his first film, "Citizen Kane," he called her to Hollywood. Their second film, "The Magnificent Ambersons," brought her an Academy Award nomination and the New York Critics' Award for best actress of the year. In her latest release, "Magnificent Obsession," she played the best friend of Jane Wyman. In her latest film, "The Blue Veil," she will be starred again with Miss Wyman.

Other forum speakers this season will be Carlos Romulo, former United Nations General Assembly president, and James Hepburn, internationally known criminologist. Arrangements are being made for a bonus speaker.

name, and to rally support for the suggestion.

Two of its missions have been successful; the third will be tested within a month.

Although the University has taken no part in the campaign, President Milton S. Eisenhower wrote a letter to the Chamber of Commerce supporting the change.

The letter was published in a pamphlet and widely circulated throughout the Borough.

"It is unfortunate," President Eisenhower wrote, "that the name of Penn State—now emphasizing university—is in conflict with the name of the Borough, emphasizing college. This discrepancy has in recent months caused several difficulties . . ."

McLucas told the Daily Collegian yesterday that the members of the "Committee of 50" were selected by the executive committee, which in turn is composed of early supporters of a change of name.

University personnel on the committee are: John Henry Frizzell, formerly Chaplain and head of the department of speech; Nelson McGeary, political science professor; E. L. Keller, director of General Extension; Ross Lehman, assistant executive secretary of the Alumni Association.

Elton S. Carter, associate professor of speech; Elton Atwater, associate professor of political science; John M. Bobb, Engineering Library Librarian; David Dunham, professor emeritus of physics; Kinsey R. Smith, psychology professor.

A. H. Reede, economics professor, Marsch W. White, physics professor; Evan Johnson, mathematics professor; Mary Jane Wyland, director of the University Christian Association; Julia Kaulfuss, retired professor of civil engineering; Merton Purvis, mechanical engineering instructor.

R. P. Barthol, assistant professor of psychology; John W. Wilson, supervisor of the Employees Benefit Division at the University; Eliza Corbin, associate professor of home economics, and Edward Steidle, Dean emeritus of the Engineering and Architecture School.

Other townspeople on the committee are: R. Paul Campbell, lawyer and legal advisor to the committee; Mrs. S. C. Tanner, member of Borough Council; Eugene F. Lee, cashier of the People's National Bank; Milton J. Bergstein, manager of radio station WMAJ; O. W. Houts, proprietor of O. W. Houts and Son; Frank Clemson, proprietor of Clemson Motors.

Philip Freed, Glenn Musser, Mrs. D. E. Benner, James R. Palmer, all of Haller, Raymond and Brown; G. B. M. Stein; Ben Alexander, both optometrists; Russell Clark, member of the Borough Water Authority; Mary B. Rogers, secretary editor of the Centre Daily Times; Edward A. Basler, Jack Rath, both of Herbert R. Imbt Co., construction firm.

Jerome Weinstein, editor of the Centre Daily Times; Clay Musser, executive secretary of the American Philatelic Society; Paul Griggs, proprietor of Griggs Pharmacy; John H. Light, medical doctor; Eugene Fulmer, secretary of the State College Chamber of Commerce.

Mrs. W. C. Fernelius, Pat McLucas, Mrs. Grant Smith, Mrs. H. G. DeBoer, Esther Barthol, Mary Wilson, Mrs. Vernon Albers, Mrs. T. C. Benton, and Mrs. A. H. Reede, housewives; and Benton.

Executive committee members are: McLucas, Campbell, Tanner, Bergstein, Houts, Mrs. Fernelius, McGeary, Lee, Frizzell, and Clemson.

McLucas, in listing the names of the committee members, emphasized that their identifications with their employers did not signify that the firms were also behind the name change.

ACEI Members To Meet Tonight

The Association of Childhood Education International will hold its first meeting of the semester at 7 tonight in the Atherton Hall lounge.

The purpose of the association is to aid in the development and education of young children. Projects sponsored by the group include the Book Fair, Children's Fair, and Mitten Tree.

Riding Club to Meet At 7 Tonight in TUB

The Penn State Riding Club will hold its first meeting at 7 p.m. today in the Temporary Union Building. Earl A. Myers, instructor in agricultural engineering, will be the speaker.

The club, formed to create better horsemanship and to provide recreation, is open to all students regardless of their ability to ride.

Regular trail rides are sponsored by the club each Sunday.

Nittany Lion Rides Again?

Various reports of strange animals in the area spring up from year to year. They sprang again yesterday.

Reports of a strange animal started about a year ago when a lamb was slaughtered in Nittany Valley by some clawed animal. Then other residents of the area in southern Centre County reported seeing a black panther on the prowl.

For the past two weeks several families have been hearing strange wails and cries late in the evening. One evening the noise continued for about five minutes. Some of the residents have advanced theories that it might be a he-bear.
