

Fight On State!

—Photo by Walker
SAMUEL WOLCOTT, left foreground, leads students in a cheer at last night's pep rally in front of Old Main. Harriet Barlow and Carole Schmitzer acted as co-mistresses of ceremonies at the rally, attended by about 2500 students who cheered the Lions for today's game with Virginia.

2500 Cheer Team At Pre-Game Rally

By MARY BOLICH

An estimated crowd of 2500 left the ears of the Virginia football team ringing with Penn State songs and cheers after the first home game pep rally in front of Old Main last night.

With the Penn State Blue Band and the cheerleaders leading the high-spirited students, Don Balthaser, co-captain of the Nittany Lion squad, gave the crowd more to cheer about when he said the team was "out to do a good job." "We've been given great courage to win," he said.

Jim Garrity, co-captain, and Chuck Sowers, guard, both thanked the students for their fine support. "We've got the best cheering section in the country," Sowers told the crowd.

The Penn State Nittany Lion, Alfred Klimke, was given a "mighty roar" by the students when he made his first appearance in the Lion suit last night.

The Blue Band, under direction of James Dunlop, introduced a new cheer for today's game which gets under way at 2 p.m. at Beaver Field.

Harriet Barlow, who portrayed a housemother for the Cavalier squad, quickly learned about the toughness of the Penn State eleven from Carol Schmitzer, who took the part of a Penn State male.

Members of Scrolls, senior women's hat society, and Skull and Bones senior men's hat society, began the pep rally movement at

Hort Show Theme To Feature 'Design'

The 41st annual Horticulture Show to be held by the Hort Club Oct. 16 and 17 in the Livestock Pavilion will have as its theme "Today's Garden Design" featuring contemporary gardening for today's architecture.

Previous shows have been dedicated to a member of the Horticulture department. This year, however, the show will honor Walter W. Trainer, supervisor of landscape construction and maintenance for the University. Trainer is a graduate of the University in horticulture.

L. D. Little, instructor of ornamental horticulture and Hort Club adviser, and members of the guiding committee have planned and organized the show. Members of the guiding committee are H. Edwin Angstadt, manager; Margaret Fleming, secretary; David Webber and David Griffith, procurement; George Unger and Willard Detwiler, Jr., publicity; Russell Neff and Joseph Nudge, advertisement; Margaret Fleming and Kathryn Simons, program editors.

Chairman of special committees are James Park and Gerald Rupert, landscape horticulture; James M. Krawski, horticulture; Glenn M. Gross, horticulture; William Selby and Douglas Bastian, ornamental horticulture; D. Gerald Edwards, pomology; Stephen Horlacher, plant breeding; and Margaret Fleming, refreshments.

The show will be open from 10 a.m. to 9 p.m. Oct. 16, and from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. Oct. 17. No admission will be charged. A free booklet of the show will be given to all visitors, and refreshments and potted plants will be on sale. Work on the show began before classes began. All flowers, vegetables, and several of the trees were planted especially for the show.

Plants Tell Story

Each plant must be at a certain stage of growth so that it may tell a particular story for the two days. Included in preparations were the transplanting of the plants into the pavilion.

Landscaping will include the complete front and back of a modern home which will be represented by a paneling of fiberglass.

Ag Experts From Asia Seek Advice

Three agriculture experts from two foreign countries recently conferred with University professors of the College of Agriculture.

Zwi Ben Adam, manager of the animal breeding farm for the Israeli Ministry of Agriculture in Acre, met with professors and scientists of the poultry husbandry department this week for ideas for establishing a new poultry research center for the Ministry of Agriculture in Israel.

Ben Adam also spent the last part of the week studying poultry pasture problems. At present he is attending the 17th annual Exposition of the Northeastern Poultry Producers Council, Inc., at Harrisburg.

Turkish professors Omer Taman and Veodet Erkun recently conferred with scientists of agronomy and animal nutrition on administration and research of forage crops.

Taman is a professor at the University of Ankara. Erkun is head of the Forage unit for the government of Turkey, at Ankara.

The two conferred last week-end with professors of the College of Agriculture and visited the United States Department of Agriculture Pasture Research Laboratory.

They left Tuesday for the University of Rhode Island.

Debate Squad Picks 9 Women

Nine women who tried out Wednesday for the women's varsity debate squad, have been picked for the squad by Clayton H. Schug, debate coach.

The new members of the team were chosen on the basis of a five-minute talk on the international intercollegiate debate topic for this year: "Resolved: That the U.S. should extend diplomatic recognition to the Communist government of China."

Only upperclass women who come out for debate must try out. Freshman women need only show interest.

Those chosen for the team, now numbering about 25, are Marjorie Babb, Maria DeToma, Faith Jackson, Barbara Kimble, Allison Munn, Betsy Sharpe, Norma Talario, Jean Yemm, and Rebecca Zahm.

Band to Feature Foster Selections

Routines based on songs of Stephen Foster will mark the first appearance of the Penn State Marching Blue Band at the Penn State-Virginia football game today.

James W. Dunlop, director of the band, explained that Foster's songs were chosen because of their southern character, in keeping with the visiting Virginia team. He also pointed out that today is the first day of Pennsylvania Week, and Foster was one of the most prominent composers in the Keystone state.

The band will march onto the field before the game for the "National Anthem" and will perform their routines at halftime.

Foreign Service Essay Contest Set

Students interested in international affairs may submit essays before Dec. 15 in the Foreign Service Journal prize essay contest.

The essays, to be written on "The Organization of American Representation Abroad," may win up to $1000 or a full fellowship at the School of Advanced International Studies of John Hopkins University.

Full details of the contest may be obtained by writing to the Foreign Service Journal contest committee, 1908 G street, N.W., Washington 6, D.C.

Cosmopolitan Club Tea

The Cosmopolitan Club will hold a get-acquainted tea at 3 p.m. tomorrow in the Home Economics living center. Over 70 new foreign students are on campus this semester.

Rev. Gay Will Address Chapel Services Sunday

The Rev. Richard R. Gay, director of religious activities and instructor of religious education at Ohio Wesleyan University, will speak at Chapel services at 10:55 a.m. tomorrow in Schwab Auditorium. His topic will be "What Difference Could This Make?"

A graduate of Ursinus College, the Rev. Gay received his bachelor of divinity degree from Drew Theological Seminary in religious education and counseling. He also did graduate work in the School of Theology at Temple University.

Awarded Fellowship

He was awarded the Dieffendorf Fellowship in Religion and Mental Health upon his graduation from Drew. As the first recipient of this award, Rev. Gay used the fellowship for a period of clinical training in psychiatric counseling at the state hospital in Norristown.

Richard R. Gay
Chapel Speaker

Before joining the Ohio Wesleyan faculty in 1950, the Rev. Gay was minister of education and associate pastor of the First Methodist Church of Pittsburgh. While there, he also served as Methodist Chaplain to students of the Pennsylvania College for Women, Carnegie Institute of Technology, and the University of Pittsburgh.

Completed Doctorate Studies
The Rev. Gay received his master of education degree from the University of Pittsburgh where he has continued his graduate studies in religious education and sociology. He has completed his residence requirements for the doctorate.

The Chapel Choir, under the direction of Mrs. Willa C. Taylor, professor of music education, will sing the anthem "He That Shall Endure to the End" from "Elijah" (Mendelssohn). George E. Ceiga, Chapel organist, will play "Sixth Sonata (Vater unser)" (Mendelssohn), as prelude; "Andantino" (Arcardet-Liszt), as offertory; and "Fugue in D Minor" (Mendelssohn), as postlude.

HEC Freshmen Will Nominate Representatives

Freshman nominations for the Home Economics Student Council will be held the week of Oct. 18. Elections will be held Oct. 26 and 27.

Sue Hill will be in charge of freshman elections and Dorothy Glading, Judith Koenig, and Suzanne Scholl will serve on the committee.

The council also discussed the "Who's Who Among Students in American Colleges and Universities" recently rejected by Dean of Men Frank J. Simes. The council is in favor of backing the publication.

The council voted in favor of a proposal for a screening committee to screen applications for All-University appointments, with the amendment that minor appointments be left to the committee chairmen. The proposal was discussed by All-University Cabinet Sept. 30.

Margaret Faris was appointed chairman for the Home Economics freshman-faculty tea, with Joan Fretz and Anna Saylor on the committee.

Miss Scholl was appointed student faculty board alternate and Richard Packer was appointed chairman of the Home Economics spring weekend.

Riding Club to Hold First Horse Show

The Penn State Riding Club will present its first "Little Horse Show" of the season at the University riding stables at 2 p.m. tomorrow. The riders are members of the club.

Four ribbons will be awarded in the intermediate and advanced jumping class; beginning, intermediate, and advanced horsemanship class; and the pleasure horse class.

Students interested in joining the club may do so on Sunday at the show or at the next meeting of the club. Students may attend the show.

Biz-Ad Staff to Meet

The staff of the Biz-Ad Bulletin, Business Administration Student Council publication, will meet at 7 p.m. Monday in 11 Sparks. Staff members and students interested in working on the publication may attend, Michael Doyle, editor, said.

Thespians Feature Professional Talent

By ALICE GRUBB

Thespians' original fall revue, "Funny Side Up," presents fine talent at Penn State in featuring Michael McKay, seventh semester meteorology major and Robert Little, seventh semester journalism major.

Little, better known as "The Wizard" or "the man with the magic hands," is professional in performing sleight-of-hand and card tricks. This summer he presented shows twice weekly with Fred Waring at Shawnee-on-the-Delaware.

Little got started on the road of magic at his home in Upper Darby where a neighbor, Paul Rosini, who ran a gambling syndicate between Chicago and New York in the roaring twenties, taught him the basic card and slight-of-hand tricks. Rosini is now lecturing on the evils of gambling.

Little was given the title "the man with the magic hands," for his tricks at last year's Spring Carnival. He entertains professionally at night clubs and at fraternity parties and social gatherings.

Little re-invests most of his earnings in equipment and advanced magic lessons. At present he is being tutored in New York by John Scarna, "The King of Cards," a leading card trick artist.

To further insure the success of his career, Little is majoring in advertising so he will be able to publicize and promote his own show.

McKay, a lieutenant in the Air Force, has already received an engineering degree from the University of Maryland and is studying meteorology at the University under sponsorship of the Air Force.

Although he lacks formal training, Little has more than made up for it with ability and experience. Working for three years

(Continued on page eight)