

West Virginia Pops Lion Bubble, 19-14

By DICK McDOWELL

A team of fired-up Mountaineer sharpshooters came out of the West Virginia Hills Saturday, took careful aim, and scored a direct hit on that big Penn State football bubble that had been expanding rapidly for three weeks.

A record 32,221 homecoming fans saw the Mountaineers come from behind with two fourth quarter touchdowns to stun the Lions, 19-14, snapping a six-game winning streak that began last season after the same West Virginia team beat them, 20-19.

Basically, the Nittanians were beaten by the same weapons they had used so effectively against Illinois, Syracuse, and Virginia—a big, strong line and the split-T optional series.

Seven Play 60 Minutes
Six of Coach Art Lewis' starting linemen and his quarterback, Freddie Wyant, played the entire 60 minutes Saturday and it was these seven who meant the difference.

Wyant, operating the West Virginia offense for the third year, scored twice, and initiated the third touchdown on the option play.

And he had lots of working room behind a protective 210-pound line that opened holes offensively and rushed Lion Quarterback Don Bailey everytime he attempted to pass.

Had Won Two
The Mountaineers, with two previous wins on their 1954 record, had command of the game in every phase but the second quarter when the Lions exploded for two touchdowns after falling behind, 6-0 in the first frame.

By dividing the game into halves, however, you get a much clearer picture. The Mountaineers completely dominated play in the second half. They were an inspired team, coming from behind in a burst of power that bettered coach Rip Engle's Lions both on the ground and in the air.

The Lions were able to move the ball past the 50-yard line only once during the second half of the contest. That was on a pass play late in the fourth quarter that fizzled on a fumble—one of four that hurt the Nittanians in crucial moments throughout the entire game.

In fact, only five plays were run from scrimmage in West Virginia territory during the third and fourth periods.

Athletics to Stay In Philadelphia

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 18 (AP)—The Philadelphia Athletics, starting a new era under syndicate control after 54 years of rule by the Connie Mack family, played a waiting game tonight, with little to do but accept congratulations.

The old owners asked the American League for approval of the new owners and until the league acts, there's nothing for both sides to do but sit back—and iron out a thousand and one details.

Among the felicitations were telephone calls from Arnold Johnson, the Chicago businessman, who sought to buy the franchise and transfer it to Kansas City.

"I've talked with Roy and Earle Mack and extended my best wishes," Johnson said. "But," he continued, "I'm still puzzled about the whole thing."

His state of mind was understandable. Until late yesterday, the 47-year-old Chicagoan appeared a shoo-in to be the next owner of the club. He had offered close to $3,375,000 to take over the franchise, its debts and assets and to move it to Kansas City. He had received American League approval last Tuesday to buy the club.

Then in four days a syndicate was formed and it accomplished something that had not been done in four months. It bought 91-year-old Connie Mack's 302 shares for $604,000. Earle Mack, retiring general manager and executive vice president, was paid $450,000 for his 163 shares. Roy Mack was paid $200,000 and reinvested $250,000 in the new organization. He also received a one-year contract as an executive with the club at $25,000 a year.

Roy said today he had sent a telegram to American League president Will Harridge, asking for league approval of the new owners.

In Chicago, Will Harridge, president of the American League, said: "The American League will have no statement until final papers have been drawn for the purchase of the Philadelphia Athletics' stock."

Committee Rejects Elections in Cliques

The elections for class clique officers in the State and Lion parties Sunday night were declared illegal by the elections committee in conjunction with the party clique chairmen.

The elections were protested by Richard Favro, president of the Business Student Council.

Favro said he disputed the election because he saw ballots being reproduced in the Lion Party meeting and extra ballots being made.

State Party elections were also declared illegal after votes were turned in written on the back of examinations.

Gordon Pogal, Lion Party clique chairman, said he thought the stuffing of the ballot boxes was "rotten to the core."

The ballots distributed by the cliques were not uniform in size and the rooms in which the elections were held were overflowing. Approximately 450 students attended the State Party meeting and about 550 were at the Lion Party meeting.

The lack of uniformity in the size of the ballots and the crowded conditions made it very easy to duplicate the ballot.

Donald Switzer, a member of elections committee, concurred with Favro in stating there were discrepancies in the balloting. He said he saw students duplicating ballots at the State Party meeting.

The elections committee met last night and decided that next week's ballots will be printed on a uniform ball and numbered.

Students will be admitted to the meeting Sunday only if they bring their matriculation cards and have already signed the clique membership lists.

Ballots will be distributed at the entrance. The ballots for the class clique officers will be printed and the names of the candidates will appear on it. Nominations have been closed for these positions.

The ballots for the freshman and sophomore class candidates will be numbered and blank because nominations are still open.

In the voting for the class candidates a plurality vote for the first round will be used. The two candidates receiving the most amount of votes will then be voted on again and the candidate receiving the majority on the second ballot will receive the nomination.

Pogal and Rae DelleDonne, State Party clique chairman, also agreed last night that the candidates for sophomore class vice-chairman must be an independent.

This has been customary in the past but is not stipulated in the elections code.

Lion Party Nominates 8 Candidates

Five men were nominated for sophomore class president and three for freshman class president at the Lion Party meeting Sunday.

The nominations were made after the discrepancies in the voting for clique officers was discovered. Attendance at that time had dwindled from about 500 to approximately 75.

The nominees for sophomore class president are Robert Gellman, John Kirsh, Augustus Mercurio, Adolph Seidensticker, and Samuel Wolcott.

The freshman nominees for president are John Robb, Robert Shannon, and George Wills. Martha Fleming and Anna Hoffman were nominated for sophomore class secretary-treasurer.

These nominations are not final. The final nominations and election of freshman and sophomore candidates will be made Sunday.

There were no nominations for freshman class vice-president and secretary-treasurer and sophomore class vice-president.

Eight of Sunday's elections for

Auto Accident Injures Four

Four University students were injured in an accident near Pine Grove Mills Sunday afternoon. The car, driven by Charles F. DiRocco, third semester student in the Division of Intermediate Registration, failed to make a curve and hit a bridge. Damage to the car was $1500.

DiRocco, James B. Dino, first semester business administration major, and Raymond Hamaker, fifth semester electrical engineering major, were admitted to Centre County Hospital at Bellefonte.

The fourth student, Norman R. Kinsman, a petroleum engineering freshman, was treated for bruises of the left leg at Pollock Dorm Four where the four men live.

DiRocco was hospitalized by a dislocated left hip, a possible fracture of the skull and jaw, multiple lacerations of the head and shock.

Fractures of the left leg, and right knee, and cuts of the face were incurred by Dino, while Hamaker received a fracture of the left leg and multiple cuts.

The hospital reported the conditions of the three as satisfactory.

West Virginia Movies To Be Shown Tonight

Movies of Saturday's Penn State-West Virginia football game will be shown at 7:30 tonight in Schwab Auditorium.

Assistant Coach Sever Toretti will narrate the film, which will be sponsored by the College of Physical Education and Athletics and by Androcles Hat Society.

State Party Nominates 17 For Offices

Seventeen candidates for freshman and sophomore class officers were nominated by State Party at its meeting Sunday night.

The nominations were made with only a fraction of the original crowd still present.

When the meeting was called to order, over 400 students were jammed into 10 Sparks. However, by the time nominations for the class offices were made, no more than 100 remained.

Sophomore class nominees included president: Joseph Enyedy and Thomas Law; vice president: John Heinze; and secretary-treasurer: Suzanne Scholl, Jane Wickizer, Kaye Butlerbaugh and Jo Anne Fulton.

There was some question over the legality of Heinze's nomination, however, no decision was reached. Rae DelleDonne, State Party clique chairman, questioned whether he was independent or fraternity. When it was determined he was a fraternity man, Miss DelleDonne called the nomination out of order.

She said that by past precedent, it had been established that the president of the sophomore class should be a fraternity man and the vice president independent.

The person who nominated Heinze appealed the decision to Ernest Famous, chairman of the elections committee, on grounds that the elections code contained no specific provision. While Famous was being summoned, Richard Favro, business council president, interrupted the meeting to

IFC Workshops To Meet Tonight

Interfraternity Council workshops will begin at 5:45 tonight with exchange dinners in fraternity houses followed by workshop meetings, John McMeekin, workshop publicity chairman, has announced.

The workshops will be held at the fraternity houses of group discussion leaders, McMeekin said. House officers should attend the meeting which corresponds to their office, he stated.

Wednesday evening has been left open for further discussion if so desired by the groups, McMeekin said.

The workshop banquet will be held at 5:45 p.m. Thursday in the Nittany Lion Inn, Robert McMillan, banquet chairman, said. Speaker at the banquet will be Dr. Fred Turner, dean of students at the University of Illinois. Brief reports will be given by discussion leaders. Two representatives from each fraternity house are to attend.

Fraternities are asked to pay the cost of the banquet, $5 for each house, to Allan Schneirov, IFC treasurer, McMillan said.

The workshop meetings, leaders and location are: president's group, Earl Seely, chairman, at Tau Kappa Epsilon; rushing chairmen, Vernon Sones, chairman, at Acacia; social chairmen, Joseph Barnet, chairman, at Phi Delta Theta.

Scholastic chairmen, Robert Cubinson, chairman, at Sigma Pi; public relations chairmen, Carl Sapterstein, chairman, at Sigma Alpha Mu; treasurers, William Reed, chairman, at Theta Chi.

Alumni relations chairmen, Thomas Brasher, chairman, at Phi Kappa Sigma; pledge masters, Alec Beliasov, chairman, at Phi Kappa Psi; and house managers, Jack Beiler, chairman, at Alpha Tau Omega.

A workshop booklet, containing the reports and recommendations of each group, will be compiled when the discussions are completed. The booklets will be distributed to each fraternity house.
