Sinclair's Amendment Given Second Reading

By DON SHOEMAKER

All-University Cabinet last night approved the second reading of an amendment by Benjamin Sinclair, president of the Board of Dramatics and Forensics, which would establish a set procedure for substitutions on cabinet.

The second reading of an amendment by Richard Favro, president of the Business Administration student council, which deals with the approval of committee chairmen and compensated positions, was postponed until the next cabinet meeting.

The reading of Favro's amendment was postponed when he amended his original motion so as to change its meaning. The amendment must now be read at the next two meetings of cabinet. If Favro had not changed his amendment, last night's reading would have been the second. An amendment must be read at two cabinet meetings and voted upon at a third.

Chair Rules

Sinclair's amendment was altered also in an amendment offered by John Speer, All-University vice president, but the chair ruled that the change did not alter the essential meaning of the amendment, and an additional reading was unnecessary. Thomas Kidd, cabinet parliamentarian, was in the chair while Speer presented his amendment. All-University president Jesse Arnelle is with the football team, enroute to Fort Worth, Texas.

Sinclair's amendment as altered by Speer, now reads that the vice president of an organization shall replace the president in case he is unable to attend a cabinet meeting and that the hierarchy as established by the constitution of the organization shall determine further succession.

Cabinet Vacancies

Speer's amendment states that in case of a vacancy in the All-University offices, the chairman of Tribunal or Judicial in that order shall sit on cabinet. Sinclair's original amendment stated that the chairs should be left vacant.

The amendment will be voted on at the next meeting of cabinet.

Speer made the amendment because he said he felt the All-University positions were important enough that they should be filled. He said he thought that the Tribunal chairman and the Judicial chairman were logical choices to fill the positions, since they are already ex-officio members of cabinet.

Favro Changes

Favro changed his amendment to read that all appointments for committee chairmen and compensated positions be revealed to cabinet members the Tuesday before the appointments are brought up at cabinet for approval.

Favro's original amendment required that committee chairmen and all compensated positions be approved at two successive cabinet meetings.

Favro said he felt the two meeting waiting period in his original amendment was not necessary. He said his purpose in making the original amendment was not to question the power of the president to make appointments, but only to give cabinet members a chance to become acquainted with the appointees.

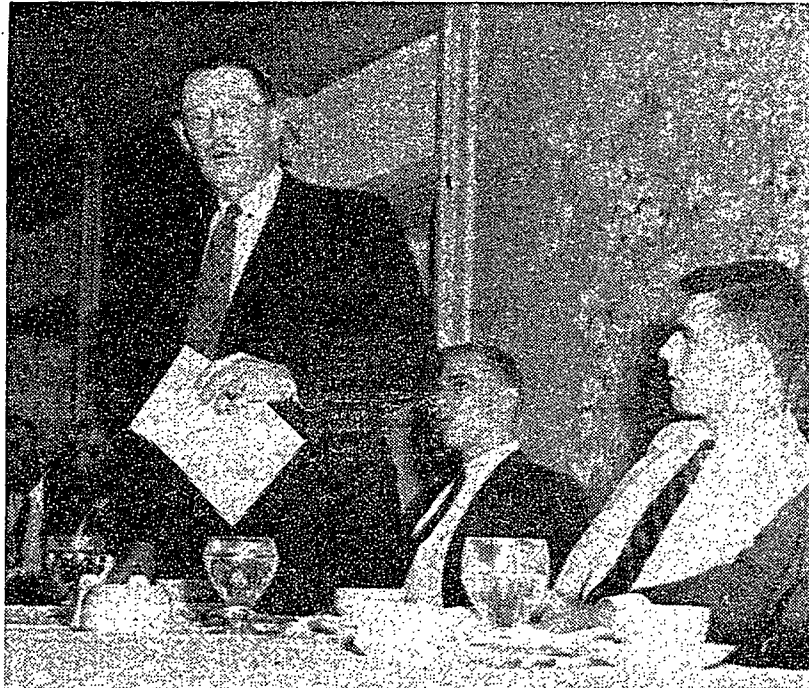

Junior Prom Queen Entry Deadline Set

The deadline for entering the Junior Prom queen contest is Tuesday.

Photographs, either 5 by 7 or 8 by 10 inches, may be turned in to the Student Union desk in Old Main.

On the back of photographs should be written the entrant's name, address, telephone number, and sponsor.

Workshop Banquet

FRED TURNER, dean of students at the University of Illinois, was speaker at the Interfraternity Council Workshop banquet at the Nittany Lion Inn last night. He distinguished between the rights and privileges of fraternities at the banquet which marked the close of the workshop. At the right is Richard Seng, Phi Delta Theta, who was master of ceremonies. Behind Turner is John Carpenter, IFC president, who presented the Sigma Chi scholarship trophy to Sigma Phi Alpha, for showing the most scholastic improvement during the spring semester.

Turner Discusses Fraternities' Rights

By ROG BEIDLER

Fred Turner, dean of students at the University of Illinois, distinguished between the rights and privileges of fraternities in a speech at the Interfraternity Council Workshop banquet last night.

The banquet, held at the Nittany Lion Inn, marked the close of the IFC Workshops which started Tuesday with discussions in fraternity houses. Discussion group leaders presented brief reports of their workshops at the banquet.

The Sigma Chi scholarship trophy, presented to the fraternity which has shown the most scholastic improvement during the previous semester, was awarded to Fraternity open houses will be held for freshmen from 2 to 5 p.m. Sunday, John Russell, IFC rushing chairman, has announced.

Russell said freshmen should visit as many fraternity houses as possible, both on and off campus.

Sigma Phi Alpha. The trophy, held previously by Theta Delta Chi, was presented for scholastic improvement during the spring semester.

Turner, in his speech, outlined six areas in which fraternities have rights and privileges and distinguished between the rights and privileges in each area. Before stating the six areas, Turner said it was a privilege for all students to attend the University. He further said it was the students' responsibility to attend the University and to graduate from it. Failure to do this, he said, was a distinct failure on the students' part.

Turner said basically, fraternities exist at an educational institution only because they are permitted to by that institution. He

University May Study Plea Today

The University Council of Administration is expected to receive a recommendation this morning asking that classes be dismissed on Saturday, Oct. 30, to allow students to attend the football game between Penn State and the University of Pennsylvania in Philadelphia.

Action was initiated last night, when All-University Cabinet passed a motion calling for the half-holiday providing that classwork be made up at the discretion of instructors.

Action Not Final

It was emphasized by All-University Vice President John Speer, who introduced the motion, that the action of cabinet is merely a suggestion and it is in no way binding until positive action is taken by the Council of Administration. This group will represent the faculty and administration approval of the plan, he said.

In making the motion calling for the half-holiday to be granted for the Penn game, Speer said that student opinion, as he saw it favored the Penn weekend to the Pitt weekend on Nov. 20. He said this opinion was also held by All-University President Jesse Arnelle who was then on his way to the Texas Christian football game and could not attend cabinet.

Opposition Voiced

Arguments in favor of having the holiday on the Pitt weekend were voiced by Watson Leese, president of the Liberal Arts student council, and Richard Favro, president of the Business Administration student council. Leese said that he felt many people were staying home from the Penn game since it was being carried on television.

Favro explained that he felt the holiday should be for Pitt since the Panthers would be playing here next year. He also said it seemed there would be more enthusiasm for the Pitt game if Penn State were to go undefeated until then.

Class Make-Ups

The plan of having the classwork missed made up came in the form of an amendment proposed by Robert Dennis, president of the Association of Independent

AIM Board Warns Five Freshmen

By TED SERRILL

Five first semester men last night received judicial warnings from the Association of Independent Men's Judicial Board of Review for climbing out a second floor window of Hamilton Hall and slashing a window screen.

The first semester student climbed down from his window on the second floor of Hamilton Hall Oct. 13, and was forced to enter the room directly beneath him through a slashed screen. He received a board judicial warning and a recommendation to the Dean of Men's office for an informal consultation with James W. Dean, assistant to the dean of men in charge of independent affairs.

It was brought out in court hearings that the student was locked in his room by the other four men by the insertion of a pencil between his door and doorframe, preventing him from leaving his room. The four received board judicial warnings and a recommendation to the Dean of Men's office to pay for the damage incurred by slashing the screen.

The student, knowing that he was scheduled to meet with Pershing Rifles within ten minutes of his discovery of the jammed door, attempted to climb down to the window beneath his own, hoping to climb through it and leave the building.

After reaching the ledge of the first-floor window, which is a full story above ground, he found that the only way he could enter the room was to slash the screen.

He told court that the other four students had shouted through the door just before he climbed out that they were attempting to re-

Cabinet Seeks Students On Senate Committees

By NANCY FORTNA

All-University Cabinet last night accepted and sent on to the University Senate a recommendation that students serve, in advisory capacities, on Senate committees.

Thomas Kidd, parliamentarian and co-chairman with Janice Holm of the Student Encampment campus-community government committee, presented the report to cabinet. He said the recommendation was made so the student sitting in on the Senate committee would become a source of student opinion for the Senate committee.

Also, the student representative would have a ready explanation of the reasons Senate took a certain action, Kidd said.

The two exceptions to the student representation recommendation were the Senate committee on rules and the Senate committee on student affairs. There is already voting power for the student representative on the student affairs committee.

The report also recommended, that representation on the student affairs committee be changed to be comprised of three voting students—the All-University president, one man, and one woman. Either the man or the woman chosen would have to be a cabinet member.

Cline Questions Wording

Hugh Cline, sophomore class president, questioned the wording of the last part of the recommendation which states that the cabinet member selected for the responsibility of serving on the Senate committee on student affairs would chair cabinet's standing committee on student affairs.
