

Lion Gridders Bow To Alert TCU, 20-7

Soccermen Blank Colgate for 4th, 6-0

By ROY WILLIAMS

Penn State's undefeated soccer team ran its victory string to four straight Saturday afternoon when it scored its first shutout victory of the season, snapping Colgate's three-game win streak, 6-0.

The Lions rallied in the final period by scoring three goals to pad their lead after the New Yorkers' defensive strength fizzled under the pressure of Penn State's crushing offensive game.

Captain Jack Pinezich led the scoring with three goals, with Dick Packer, center forward, backing him up with two tallies. Dick Matacia also scored.

Pinezich Scores Two

Colgate's pressing attack was sporadic, with Penn State capitalizing on breaks in the opponents' defense. In the first period Pinezich scored twice to give the Lions a 2-0 lead.

Pinezich's first score came at 4:24 when Joe Mijares passed to Packer. The classy junior purposely let the ball slip through his legs only to be picked up by Pinezich who rifled it past goalie Tom Glenn who was caught flat-footed.

After Colgate's Lou Ehrhard missed a penalty kick, Penn State's front line continued to penetrate the New Yorker's defense in an attempt to score. The Lions' opened their second scoring drive on a midfield pass play initiated by Matacia.

Matacia Assists

Matacia picked up a pass on the fifty and shot it to Pinezich cutting down the left sideline. At 16:22 Pinezich moved to within 15 yards of Colgate's net to cut loose with a high shot that Colgate's 6-2 goalie couldn't stop.

Colgate—in the waning seconds of the first period—was being beaten to the ball as the Lions again threatened to score. Colgate made 11 saves in the first stanza compared to three by Lion goalie George Geczy.

Lion Defense Shines

In the second period—when neither team scored—Penn State's defensive play put on one of its most dazzling displays of the season. Fullbacks Galen Robbins and Paul Dierks continually handcuffed Colgate's scoring drives with sharp boots and timely head shots.

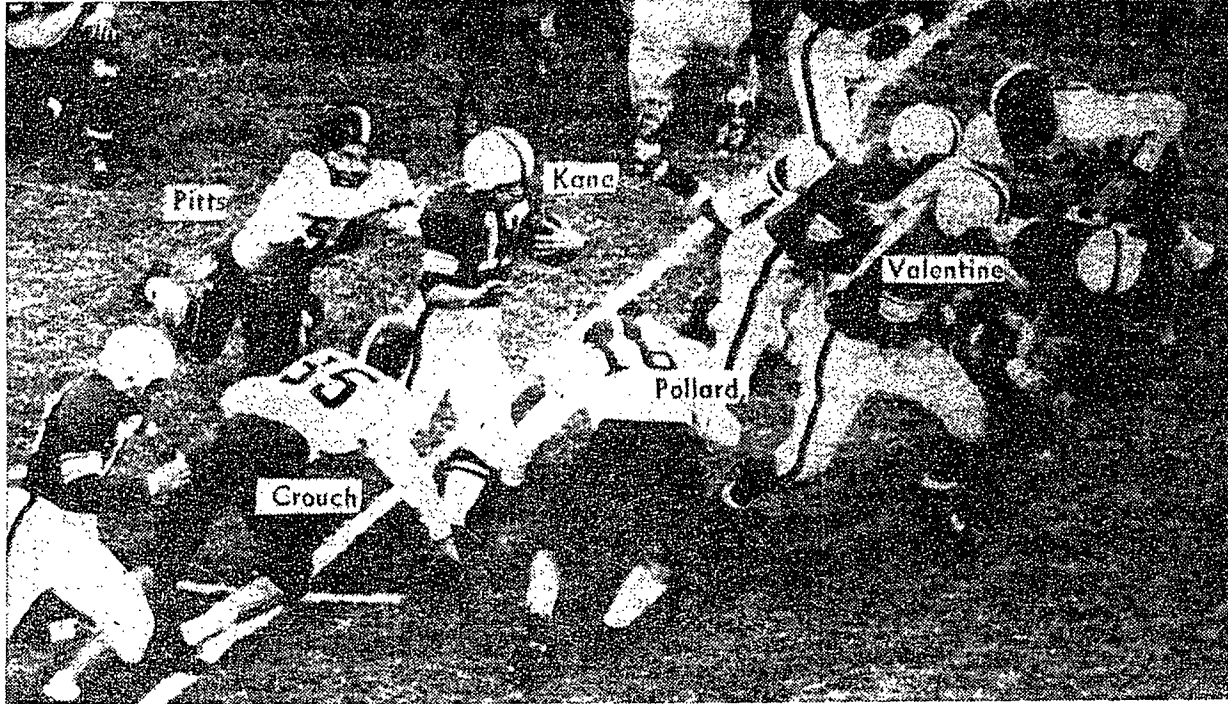

The Lions added another tally in the third period by Packer on a pass from senior Chuck Snyder. Snyder put the ball in play on an out-of-bounds kick in the corner, and goalie Glenn of Colgate moved out of the net in an attempt to snag the kick. Packer, however, picked up Snyder's kick and nailed the ball into the net for the Lions' third goal.

After a stunning display of defensive prowess in the third quarter, the Lions came back with an equally impressive demonstration of scoring power in the final period.

The first score came at 0:57 when Packer and Pinezich rushed the Raiders' goal on a two-on-one play. Each jockeyed for position while playing the ball downfield with Packer finally sending a pass to Pinezich who scored from five yards.

Joe Mijares passed for his second scoring assist four minutes later on a pass to Packer who scored the Lions' fifth goal on a head shot from three yards.

In the final minutes, Matacia scored from three yards on another scoring pass by Joe Mijares, outside left. Mijares did not score, but figured in three of the Lions' four assisted goals.

HALFBACK Billy Kane is about to be tackled here after gaining eight yards on the "dive" play in the third quarter against Texas Christian Saturday. TCU fullback Harold Pollard and end John Crouch made the tackle. Penn State's Sam Valentine leads the play.

The Lions held the ball for six minutes in the opening quarter, driving 50 yards to the TCU 30 before stalling. Moore was running well, and Bailey clicked on two consecutive passes to Jim Garrity, who incidentally, led Lion receivers with four receptions for 48 yards. Scattered Penn State fans got set for a happy afternoon. But the Penn State attack stalled when two Bailey passes missed by inches and the Frogs took over.

They moved the ball into Penn State territory but fell short of needed yardage on the 47 and were forced to punt. Moore racked up 19 yards from the 14 to the 33 on the first play from scrimmage, but fumbled the ball after a dancing 12-yard carry on the next play.

The Frogs' Buddy Dike—a very fine fullback Saturday—recovered on the 46. Eight plays later quarterback Ron Clinkscale scored from the two after Dike and halfback Ray Taylor had set up the score with off tackle slants into the State line. Harold Pollard added the extra point, and TCU led, 7-0.

It took the Frogs just one minute and 12 seconds to get their second touchdown. And it was a stunning blow to the Lions. After Moore carried the kickoff to the 28, Kane reeled off eight yards to the 36. On the next play Bailey was called for intentionally grounding on the 14 and a five yard penalty was slapped on the Lions. Moore lost four on a pitch out and State was back on its own five in a punting situation.

Jim Hochberg came in to do the booting from the endzone. The pass from center was bad and Hochberg scooped it up and tried to get the kick away. But tackle Ray Hill was on him and blocked the punt. Don Cooper covered the loose pigskin in the endzone for the touchdown. Pollard missed the PAT, but TCU held a big 13-0 bulge.

Before the half ended the Lions again drove deep into Frog territory, this time advancing to the 23 before being halted. Then midway through the third period the Lions "second" team got up a head of steam and marched 78 yards from the 18 to the TCU four where it ran out of gas.

Buddy Rowell and Kane tore up big chunks on the ground and Hoffman connected with Jack Sherry twice in the series that registered six first downs. It was Penn State's finest offensive drive of the afternoon but it failed.

The Lions got as close as the four and had two chances to make it. Had they scored here it could have been a different ball game in the end. But Bobby Allen, replacing Ron Younker who injured his shoulder on the preceding play, lost six on third down, and Hoffman misfired for the first time on a pass play on fourth down.

Late in the fourth period the Lions found themselves deep in their own territory and by this time were desperate for a touchdown. Bailey hit Garrity with a pass that carried from the 22 to the 38. He missed on the next try and his third attempt sailed right to Frog center Hugh Pitts who returned to the 25.

Now the Frogs added insult to injury. TCU hadn't completed a pass up to this point but Chuck Curtis pitched for two in a row and the second hit end Johnny Crouch for the touchdown. Pollard made his placement good, raising the total to 20-0.

With only three minutes remaining, Frank Della Penna took the ensuing kickoff on the Lion 21 and returned 14 to the 35. Hoffman passed to Sherry for 14 and then Kane got nine on a pitch. Moore added 13 more on the option, and made a diving catch of Hoffman's pass on the next play for the TD. After sputtering for 59 minutes State had moved 65 yards for a touchdown in just four plays. Garrity added the extra point but it was all over, 20-7.

2 Grid Foes Score Wins

As the college football grind passes the half-way point it appears that several Eastern teams have done an about face and have begun to "come on." Two such teams are Pittsburgh and Holy Cross, who last Saturday gave ample warning to Penn State's Lions, whom they will meet in the near future.

Winless Holy Cross fashioned a mild upset when they nipped Boston University, 14-13. The hitherto undefeated Terriers entered the game leading in the race for the Lambert Trophy. Sophomore Dale Hohl's two extra-point boots provided the winning margin.

Meanwhile, Pittsburgh, behind the smart quarterbacking of sophomore Corny Salvaterra, knocked off a respected Northwestern eleven, 14-7. A one-yard plunge by Salvaterra with 39 seconds remaining in the game was the winning marker. The Panther's first touchdown scored by Henry Ford from one yard out was set up when the flashy quarterback from Wilkes-Barre ran 17 yards to the one after changing his mind on a pass play.

Penn State faces Holy Cross at home Nov. 6 and meets Pitt at Pittsburgh Nov. 20.

Pennsylvania and Rutgers, the Lions' other opponents, suffered wide-margin defeats. Navy walloped the hapless Quakers, 52-6, and Lehigh ran up its biggest margin over Rutgers since 1942 when it blasted the Scarlet, 33-13. The loss was Rutgers' fifth in a row.

Gridders Play Basketball

Three of Penn State's football ends—Jesse Arnette, Jack Sherry and Bob Rohland—will turn to basketball immediately after the grid season. All three played on the cage team that last year went to the NCAA semi-finals.
