

UBA Will Use TUB in Spring

The Used Book Agency will be located in the Temporary Union Building for the Spring semester as the Hetzel Union Building will not be opened in time to receive books, Paul Hood, UBA manager, has announced.

The Book Exchange Store, however, will be located in the HUB which is expected to open the first day of the spring semester, Hood said. Used books will be taken at the TUB during finals in January.

WD Council Approves First Reading of Bill

The West Dorm Council Monday night approved the first reading of a proposed amendment to their constitution.

The amendment states that "the council shall meet not less than twice a month upon the evening designated by the council during the regular school semester. Special meetings may be called by the Student Government Adviser, the Council president, the request of one-third of the Council, or the request of one-half of the Executive Committee."

To amend the constitution the proposal must be read and approved by two-thirds of the Council members in two successive meetings, then be read and approved by two-thirds of the individual dormitory units.

Council President Stanley Juras reminded members that nominees for representatives-at-large posts on the Association of Independent Men's Board of Governors must submit their applications by Nov. 1. Each applicant is required to obtain 50 signatures for his name to appear on the election ballot on Nov. 9.

Hamilton Hall unit seven was granted permission to use the small lounge in Hamilton from 7 to 10 p.m. Thursday. George Guthrie, associate professor of psychology, will speak on the Kinsey Report at the meeting, and will answer questions concerning the report.

Expenditures totaling $111.31 as of Oct. 7 were reported.

SDX Initiates Seven Members

Seven Pennsylvania newspapermen were initiated as professional members of Sigma Delta Chi, men's national professional journalism fraternity at an initiation banquet held Sunday afternoon at the State College Hotel.

New members are E. P. Boyle, president and publisher of the Derrick and Blizzard, Oil City; S. D. Calking, president and publisher of the Beaver Valley Times, Beaver; Ben Coll, managing editor of the Greensburg Tribune; Paul Eyerly, Jr., managing editor of the Bloomsburg Press; Harry Pore, Jr., co-publisher and editor of the Monessen Independent; and Eugene Simon, president and publisher of the Valley Daily News, Tarentum.

Michael Moyle, third semester journalism major, was awarded the Sigma Delta Chi scholarship of $30 for outstanding freshman work in journalism.

Schupplattlers to Dance At Phys Ed Mixer

A Physical Education mixer for faculty and students will be held 7:30 tonight in White Hall.

Harold B. White, assistant professor of physical education, will be in charge of the entertainment. The Schupplattlers, a dancing group, will entertain.

Games and refreshments will be provided.

The increase in the number of books returned, Hood said, was mainly due to the many changes of editions and texts by departments. This mainly occurred, he said, in the Commerce and Liberal Arts courses.

Approximately 2600 books were handled this semester by the UBA. Hood estimated that about 2200 of these books were returned. Last spring, the UBA returned only 800 books.

The increase in the number of books returned, Hood said, was mainly due to the many changes of editions and texts by departments. This mainly occurred, he said, in the Commerce and Liberal Arts courses.

November 8 is the deadline for students to pick up their money or unsold books at the TUB. After this date, the books will become the property of the UBA. Students can collect their money on Wednesday or Saturday mornings with the exception of Penn weekend.

Approximately 180 books are unaccounted for this semester. The students to whom the missing books belong will receive their money on the presentation of their receipts. The 20 cents handling charge that each student pays when he buys or sells a book pays for the missing books, Hood said.

Hood said that the UBA was planning to make certain improvements in their system for the spring semester. These included a consultation table where UBA employees will advise students on the prices that they should ask for their books, and posting book lists on the wall instead of having them on tables where they could possibly be misplaced.

Next semester students who give books to the UBA that are not going to be used by the departments will be charged the 20 cents handling charge, Hood said.

The Book Exchange Store will be open for the entire semester in the TUB.

Democrat Senator To Speak Tonight

State Sen. John R. Miller, a Republican incumbent who is campaigning for Democratic gubernatorial candidate George Leader, will speak at 8 tonight in the State College High School auditorium.

He will explain his reasons for switching parties. Following his talk, an informal coffee hour will be held at the high school.

The Young Democrats Club will hold a business meeting at 7 tonight in 217 Willard. The members will then attend Miller's speech en masse.

Livestock Judging Team Places Tenth in Show

The University livestock judging team tied with Iowa State College for tenth place and the wool-judging team placed fifth in the intercollegiate contests this week at the American Royal Livestock Show in Kansas City, Mo.

Students who attended the meet are Joanne Bygate, John Coble, William Kelly, George Huber, Jesse Darlington, Harrington Case, Kenneth McGuire, Thomas Armstrong, and John Tait.

Kelly was second high individual scorer in judging commercial fleeces. He also tied for fourth place in over-all individual scoring.

Area Shows Business Progress

An economic survey conducted by the University's Bureau of Business Research has indicated that the State College area is continually progressing.

Roger B. Saylor, associate professor of business statistics, lists some of the following reasons for State College's prosperity.

It has been determined that the University's more than 11,000 students spend an average of $3.4 million each year in State College stores.

The survey in comparison with a 1950 survey indicates that students are spending $400,000 a year more. The difference in student enrollment between the four years is approximately 500.

According to the report other factors which have entered into the prosperity of State College are average local income higher than that of any surrounding areas; fewer unemployed people; a steady increase in population; University sponsored conventions, conferences and meetings that attracted more than 36,000 people to State College in 1953 (this figure does not include the estimated 40,000 people who attended the University's athletic contests), and construction and utility consumption far above any neighboring areas.

All these factors, the report said, make the State College area less susceptible to economic setbacks than any of its neighbors in Central Pennsylvania.

Haarlander Expected To Leave Hospital

Marilyn Haarlander, seventh semester Spanish major, who fell down a flight of stairs Monday in Engineering D, is expected to leave the University hospital tomorrow. X-Rays revealed Miss Haarlander suffered a bruised hip.

LA Student Council Votes on Proposals

The Liberal Arts Student Council voted on two proposed amendments and one recommendation to the All-University Constitution which will go to All-University Cabinet tomorrow night.

The council voted in favor of an amendment by Richard Favro, president of the Business Administration Student Council, which would require that appointments of committee chairmen and persons receiving compensation in any form be released to cabinet members the Tuesday preceding the meeting at which appointments will be made.

Council voted against an amendment by Benjamin Sinclair, chairman of the Board of Dramatics and Forensics, and a recommendation by the Education Student Council which will be brought formally before All-University Cabinet tomorrow night.

Sinclair's amendment would require that the vice president of all constituted organizations replace the president on cabinet if the president is unable to attend cabinet meetings.

There being no such provision in an organization's constitution, the seating would follow the hierarchy set forth in the organization's constitution.

The recommendation of the Education Student Council proposes that members of the senior class and graduate students be allowed to register first in alphabetical order. The remaining classes either would register as one group alphabetically or break down into three groups which would each register in alphabetical order.

Beri Euwema, dean of the Liberal Arts college, offered his personal help and that of the LA faculty on all of the projects and problems of the council.

He requested that a study group, made up of council members, help the LA faculty find a way to better introduce the nature, objectives and extent of the LA curriculum to freshman students.
