

Pennsylvania Called 'Hungry' Team

By DICK McDOWELL

Winless Pennsylvania, a team that has taken plenty of lumps this season, isn't going to be a pushover for Rip Engle's Lions Saturday at Franklin Field.

At least that's the way assistant coach J. T. White is looking at it. White drew the Penn scouting assignment and says the Quakers aren't as bad as their record indicates.

"They're hungry in Philadelphia," he said, "and they're going to beat somebody before the season is over. I sure hope it isn't us."

"This team isn't as bad as it may seem on paper," he said. "It's basically the same ball club that beat us last year. They just haven't had the breaks and have been unable to get moving."

'Never Stop Fighting'

"But they never stop fighting. They can be behind by 50 points and they'll never give up. I saw them within five points of George Washington after trailing 20-0 at the end of the first half. They lost it 32-27 but they put up a terrific second half fight," White said.

Coach Steve Sebo, who moved into Philadelphia from Michigan State, hasn't been able to find the winning combination yet with his "multiple" offense. The multiple system, a Biggie Munn trademark, works behind an unbalanced line, using the T, winged-T, and single wing formation.

Lineup Changes Reported

Sebo reported yesterday that he is benching two of his regulars Saturday in an effort to snap the Quakers out of the doldrums. Veteran halfback Walt Hynoski, who starred at left half last year, but who has failed to reach previous form this season, will be replaced, and right end John Lavin will also sit this one out.

Hynoski is a familiar name to fans who were around for Penn's 13-7 win against the Lions last year. The big senior, a triple-threat back, passed for both touchdowns against the Lions. However, he has fallen down this year in everything but his punting. He's fifth in the nation in that category.

Scott Returns

Hynoski will be replaced by Gary Scott, a regular last year, who ironically, was on the receiving end of both touchdown heaves. Scott had been sidelined with a dislocated shoulder.

Junior Bob Lebengood, a regular for part of last season, will move into Lavin's spot on the line.

Sebo's biggest offensive threat this season has been sophomore halfback Neil Hyland. The 180-pounder will shift to left halfback Saturday and Scott will run from the right half slot.

Callahan At Quarterback

The Penn backfield rounds out with quarterback Joe Callahan, another sophomore, and fullback Stan Chaplin. Both players weigh 183 pounds.

On the line, captain Jim Castle will team with Lebengood at the ends. Castle goes at 190 pounds. Howard Jackson (216) and Fred Dustin (219) will be at the tackles. Jon Gurskie (220) and Bob Kinlock (205) at the guards, and George Trautman (198) at center.

Seven members of Sebo's first team are lettermen and all seven saw action against the Lions last year.

Early attendance estimates put Saturday's crowd at 45,000, and an expected four million people will see the game on a nation-wide television hookup.

The Lions will be looking for their 14th win in the 43rd game of the series that began in 1890. This will be the third time that an Engle-coached team faced the Quakers. The Lions won the 1952 game under him, 13-7, and lost last year by the same score.

Moore Again Nation's No. 3 Ball-Carrier

Nittany Lion halfback Lenny Moore, continued to keep his name in top contention for post-season all-American honors this week, by ranking number three in rushing among the nation's leading ball-carriers.

He also jumped from the 19th place he held last week to 12th in total offense.

According to figures released by the National Collegiate Athletic Bureau, the Reading flash gained his third place position for the second straight week on five-game total of 574 yards in 84 carries for a 6.8 yard average.

Although his place in the rankings did not change, Moore actually gained ground on his two fore-runners, Arizona's Ike Luppino and Colorado's Bob Bayuk.

A week ago Moore was 142 yards behind Luppino and 103 short of Bayuk's mark. The latter has one more game to his credit than the Nittany standout.

To date, Moore has been the workhorse for Penn State. Only split quarterback Don Bailey has carried the ball more times. As a whole the Lions have run 310 plays this year, with Bailey carrying on 97 of them, compared to Moore's 84.

Colgate Coach Tabs Soccermen East's Best; Sees Army Losing

By ROY WILLIAMS

Despite the fact Coach Mark Randall had just seen his team shutout 6-0 and his three-game winning streak broken by Penn State's undefeated soccer squad, the congenial New Yorker coach had several interesting remarks about the Lions after last Saturday's game.

When asked if he thought Penn State's soccermen were the tops in the East, Randall thought for a minute and said, "Well, I haven't seen too much of the Eastern teams—but of those I've seen your team is definitely superior."

Randall was particularly high in his praise for Penn State's all-around depth and playing skills. But the Raider's coach did not pin-point his opinions on the Lions offensive and defensive game. When Randall was asked which he thought did the most damage to his team he said, "They both did. Penn State's defense was excellent and that offense was superb."

Sees Lions as Victors

Then Randall answered the $64 question. Did he think Penn State could beat Army—possibly the toughest team on the Lions' schedule this year? Randall came back with a quick and confident, "Yes."

"If comparative scores mean anything," Randall said, "which they sometimes do or don't, we defeated RPI (Rensselaer Polytechnic Institute), 1-0, in a double overtime. Army shutout RPI, 3-0."

"I consider RPI as being in the same class as Colgate. If this is true, then Army should have defeated RPI much easier than the score indicates if it (Army) has such a strong team."

Will Meet Saturday

The question of whether Army has the team that can tame the rampaging Lions again this year will be answered Saturday when the West Pointers visit Penn State.

Army, however, will have to defrost the torrid pace the Lions have been setting this year in nailing goals into their opponents' nets. In their last four wins the Lion soccermen have netted 34 goals—an average of better than eight goals a game.

The one weak link in the Lions' formula for a strong victory chain may be the defense. So far the opponents have netted four goals on the Lions.

Syracuse has been the only team to get two goals on the Lions this fall.

Basketball Candidates

Candidates for varsity and freshman basketball should report to Recreation Hall Monday. Freshmen will practice from 4 to 6 p.m. and the varsity will practice from 6:30 to 8:30 p.m.

The freshmen are to report to coach Don Swegan and the varsity to head coach John Egli to get their physical cards.

Pep Rally Set For 7:30 Tonight

A pep rally for the Penn State-Pennsylvania football game will be held at 7:30 tonight in front of Recreation Hall.

The rally is sponsored by Cwens, sophomore women's hat society, and Parmis Nous, senior men's hat society.

James Garrity, team co-captain, and several team members and coaches, will speak. The Blue Band will play for the rally.
