Mark Shaw, instructor in agriculture, will discuss the work of the American Friends Committee in China at the supper meeting of the Young Friends at 6 p.m. Sunday at the State College Friends Meeting House, 318 S. Atherton street.

Campus Issues Are Discussed By Coed Group

Campus issues affecting women were discussed at the Women's Student Government Association retreat held last week in the Grange recreation room.

The retreat was divided into a morning period, during which the women conferred in their individual groups on the issues, and an afternoon period, when the entire association met en masse to hear the suggestions which the morning groups had drawn up.

Chairmen of the group discussion were Nancy Van Tries, Bermuda shorts; Joyce Shusman and Barbara Stock, WSGA regulations and judiciary appointments; Martha Michener, counseling of freshman women; Barbara Hendel and Lyn Fidman, changes in the constitution; Patricia Dickinson and Kay Kingsley, implementation of WSGA laws.

President Patricia Ellis presented the groups' suggestions in the afternoon. These suggestions will be brought up in turn before WSGA Senate within the next few weeks.

Pearl O. Weston, dean of women, attended the retreat and participated in discussion of the issue.

Journ Group To Host Editor

Theta Sigma Phi, women's professional journalism fraternity, will hold a luncheon in honor of Laura Lou Brookman, managing editor of the Ladies Home Journal, at noon today at the Allencrest Tea Room.

Miss Brookman will speak tonight to students and faculty advisors attending the Pennsylvania Scholastic Press Association Convention. Approximately 800 students are expected for the two-day convention.

There will be a tea for the high school press faculty advisors from 3 to 4 p.m. today in McElwain lounge. The tea is being sponsored by Theta Sigma Phi.

Drum Major Has Rough Job

By DOTTIE BENNETT

Did you ever think it might be exciting to lead the Blue Band down the field before a game? It may look easy, but according to George Black, this year's drum major, it's really a rough job. In fact, when George and the band are at one end of the field ready to start, the field "looks like a hundred miles instead of a hundred yards."

Half time activities, such as the Halloween routine which will be presented at the Penn game tomorrow and will be seen over a national television hookup, are difficult to learn. Usually the band practices for 15 to 20 hours on each routine, which lasts approximately six and one-half minutes on the field. This would seem to be a lot of work, but George finds it very interesting.

Well Qualified

George, a sixth semester music education major, is well-qualified to act as drum major for the band. In 1950, his education at Penn State was interrupted by the Army, and while there he was drum major and instructor at band training school. He was director and drum major of the eighth infantry division band, at Fort Jackson, S.C., and drum major of the 129th Army band at Camp Stewart, Ga.

Upon returning to the University last year, George took ROTC and was training officer and leader of the ROTC band. He thought this might be good experience, but when he became cadet colonel he lost his job with the band.

Medal Winner

He also received the Air Force Association medal, and became a member of the Arnold Air Society, which is the Air Force honorary society. Membership is based on scholastic average.

George has a few other activities too. As president of Phi Mu Alpha, music fraternity, he was the group's delegate to the national convention in Cincinnati last year. He has been manager of the Blue Band, and is now its president. He is also in the trombone section of the Concert Blue Band.

Students who attend Chapel have probably seen him acting as Chapel usher, a position he has held for three years. George likes this work for two reasons. The first, "it gets me up and makes sure I go to Chapel," and the second, there are so many interesting speakers, "I might miss something if I didn't get there."

George is married to Marilyn "Willy" Williams, who was graduated from the University in 1952, and is now a graduate assistant in the recreation department. He says it was because Willy had never seen him lead a band that he went back to being drum major this year.

Also a Salesman

As if his activities and classes didn't keep him busy, George is also a sales representative for Allegheny Airlines, work which he finds interesting because of the people he meets.

Last summer he was on the staff of a girls camp in New Hampshire, where Willy was in charge of the training program. On parents day, Vaughn Monroe came to visit his two daughters, who attended the camp, and when he heard George playing the piano, asked for a trombone. George let Monroe borrow his, and they had their own jam session playing popular music.

After he is graduated, George, who is concentrating on instrumental music, hopes to go back to New Hampshire "close to the woods and the elements and teach a little music education to some of those Easterners up there." Both he and Willy are enthusiastic about New Hampshire, where Willy was a member of the staff of the University of New Hampshire in the recreation department last year.

Sports Day Set For Tomorrow

Four college teams which are members of the northern section of the Central Pennsylvania Field Hockey Association will meet at Holmes Field tomorrow morning for the University's College Field Hockey Sports Day sponsored by the Women's Recreation Association.

The hockey games will begin at 9 a.m. and continue until noon. At 2 p.m. two all-college teams, chosen by a selector's committee from Harrisburg, will be matched against each other.

In November the members of these teams will go to Harrisburg to try out for the Central Pennsylvania Field Hockey Sports Day.

The White Hall pool will be open for swimming following the games, and facilities of White Hall will be available for bowling, table tennis, badminton, and volleyball.

Newman Club Begins Membership Drive

The Newman Club is holding its annual membership drive. The cost for a years membership is $2.

Students who are not contacted by a member of the club may join at 308 Old Main.

Membership in the club entitles a student to attend communion breakfasts, social functions, and open houses held for Newman Club members.

Social Gazette

Center Stage, "Bell, Book, and Candle," 8 tonight, Temporary Union Building.

Football, Penn State vs. Penn, 2 p.m., Franklin Field, Philadelphia.

Chapel, Harold K. Shilling, dean of the Graduate School, speaker, 10:55 a.m., Sunday, Schwab Auditorium.

75 Students Attend United Nations Tea

Approximately 75 students attended the United Nations Day tea at Wesley Foundation of the Methodist Church Sunday.

Forty-eight foreign students representing 24 countries were present. Members of student church groups explained their organizations and activities.

Henry L. Yeagley, associate professor of physics, gave a short address welcoming the foreign students. He expressed his interest in foreign students and said he hoped they could learn more of American ways and customs.

Tutor Lists Available

Lists of authorized tutors are available at the Dean of Men's office, 109 Old Main. Persons interested in serving as tutors may sign up in the dean's office, James W. Dean, assistant to the dean of men in charge of independent affairs, said.

GOP Campaign Plans Outlined

Benjamin Sinclair, Young Republican county chairman, last night outlined the final stages of the campaign to Penn State members in 202 Willard. He also stated that all campaign work has been working smoothly.

David Eber, fifth semester student, was appointed hospitality chairman.

A party will be held in Republican headquarters at the State College Hotel following the closing of the polls Nov. 2. Members may pay a one dollar donation by Monday to attend. Donations will be received at headquarters.

June Koziar, club secretary, reminded members to attend scheduled hours at headquarters.

Following a short discussion of possible speakers for future meetings, Robert Kurtz, club president, adjourned the meeting. The next meeting will be held Nov. 6.

WSGA, WRA Frosh Elected

Katherine Dickson, first semester arts and letters major, was elected as freshman senator in the final elections of the Women's Student Government Association yesterday.

In the Women's Recreation Association elections Barbara Drum, first semester physical education major, and Marie Harvey, first semester economics major, were chosen freshman representatives. Other finalists were Joanne Bedenk and Elizabeth Savidge.

The three other WSGA finalists in the elections were Carol Brady, Patricia Lehr, and Stephanie Sills. WSGA will appoint a second freshman senator later in the semester.

Preliminary elections were held Tuesday.

'Breeze' Day Changed

The Ag Hill Breeze will now be distributed every Monday instead of Thursday, when it has appeared previously, according to Manley Case, editor.
