

Borough Name Change To Be Decided Tuesday

Although Tuesday will be a mighty important day, to would-be office holders throughout the country, it will also be of the greatest importance to all State College residents.

For that is the day when borough voters will decide whether State College will retain its name or lose it in favor of Mt. Nittany.

Two groups of town residents are busy campaigning for their choices. One group, headed by a "Committee of 50" favors the change to Mt. Nittany because of the confusion existing between State College and the University.

One of the most recent examples the group cites in favor of the change is the mix-up encountered by the McCloskey triplets several weeks ago when they appeared on the Herb Shriner television show. On the other hand many voters have opposed any name change because of a sentimental attachment for State College.

It is felt by these people that the change would greatly trouble town businessmen who have built their business around the name of State College.

A third objection voiced by voters opposed to Mt. Nittany was that they should have more than two names to choose from on the ballot.

President Milton S. Eisenhower, in a letter to Herbert R. Imbt of the State College Chamber of Commerce explaining the attitude of the University, endorsed a name change because of conflict between the University and "the name of the Borough, emphasizing college."

A recent poll by the Daily Collegian indicated that although more borough residents were in favor of State College retaining its name, the number of voters in favor of a change but not Mt. Nittany, and the undecided voters will undoubtedly decide the issue.

Parties Must -

Lessig Questions Constitution
Article IV of the Lion Party constitution was questioned by Sally Lessig, president of the Education Student Council.

The article states that Lion Party officers be elected by the steering committee of the party. This is in violation of the elections code which states the party clique officers must be elected by the entire body of the clique.

Smith then asked if Pogal could call a clique meeting to have this provision of his constitution changed to conform with the elections code.

Pogal Cites Difficulties
Pogal said it would be difficult to do this before the freshman and sophomore class elections, Nov. 11. He said he did not think he would get proper representation at such a meeting.

The only meetings students will turn out for are those at which candidates are nominated. Pogal said he promised to follow the elections code to the letter in this election and change the Lion Party constitution at the first opportunity next spring.

PSPA Group To Convene At University

Over 800 high school students and their high school newspaper advisers are expected to attend the 23d annual convention of the Pennsylvania School Press Association today and tomorrow at the University.

The convention is sponsored by the Department of Journalism and State College High School. Principal speakers will be Laura Lou Brookman, managing editor of Ladies' Home Journal, and Luther Huston, Washington correspondent for the New York Times.

Other guests who will take part in the program are Bart Richards, city editor of the New Castle News, and Ben Euwema, dean of the College of Liberal Arts.

Registration will begin at 10 a.m. today in the Temporary Union Building. The convention will open with a general session at 1 p.m. in Schwab Auditorium. The convention will end at 12:15 p.m. tomorrow.

A dance for the campus visitors will be held from 9:30 to 11 p.m. Friday, with music by Lynn Christy and his orchestra.

Miss Brookham will speak on "Magazine Work as a Career" at a general assembly from 8 to 9:15 tonight in Schwab Auditorium. Huston will speak on "So You Want to be a Washington Correspondent" at 11 a.m. tomorrow in Schwab.

State Gives --

(Continued from page two) leaders of student government, so that all sections of the student body will be equally represented.

In explaining the final plank, Miss DelleDonne said that in the past four fraternities have had a very large portion of appointive positions. She said she felt that appointments should be distributed more widely among the fraternities, including small as well as large houses, and among independents as well.

Cabinet OK -

He said he understood that Speer is the chairman of a committee to revamp the constitution, and he suggested that the method of succession be left to that committee.

Speer replied that the committee was not as yet official.

Simes Makes Point
During debate on the issue, Dean of Men Frank J. Simes, pointed out that according to Section 2, Article I, of the All-University Constitution, no provision was made for any substitutions on Cabinet. After Sinclair's amendment had been defeated, Richard Favro, president of the Business Administration Student Council rose to a point of order to question the legality of the three substitutions sitting on the cabinet at the time.

"You defeated an amendment which would have established a procedure for filling these vacancies. If we're going to stick with the constitution, let's do it all the way," he said.

Jesse Arnette, All-University president, ruled that the substitutions were legal on the basis of past precedent. Favro appealed the decision, but the appeal was lost.

Sinclair said he would present the amendment again at the next cabinet meeting.

Outing Club Plans Halloween Party

The Penn State Outing Club will hold a Halloween outing Sunday from 2 to 7 p.m. at the Forestry Cabin in Stone Valley.

The group will meet at 2 p.m. in back of Old Main. Supper will be furnished at the cabin.

The program will include Halloween games, folk, square and round dancing, and outdoor recreation.

One group of club members will help cut trees and clear a site for the proposed Adirondack shelter at Beaver Dam Sunday afternoon. The group will go to the Forestry cabin for supper with the rest of the club.

Grad Dean To Speak At Chapel

Harold K. Schilling, dean of the Graduate School, will speak on "On Relating Science to Religion" at Chapel services to 10:55 a.m. Sunday in Schwab Auditorium.

Schilling, a native of Allentown, received his M.A. from the University of Nebraska and his Ph.D. from the University of Iowa.

He served as professor of physics and as dean at Union College, Lincoln, Neb., prior to his appointment as assistant professor of physics at the University in 1941. He was named head of the Department of Physics in 1947 and dean of the Graduate School in 1950.

Schilling was a lecturer for the seminar on the teaching of the natural sciences in relation to religious concepts held at the University last summer.

The anthem, "Turn Back, O Man," (Bach) will be sung by the Chapel Choir, under the direction of Mrs. Willa C. Taylor, professor of music education.

George E. Ceiga, Chapel organist, will play "A Mighty Fortress Is Our God" (Bach), as prelude; "When in the Utmost Need" (Bach) as offertory; and "Fantasia con Imitazioni" (Bach), as postlude.

Botany Club Schedules Picnic at Greenwood

The Botany Club will hold a picnic at 1 p.m. tomorrow at Greenwood Forest. Students interested in attending are asked to sign the list on the bulletin board in the lobby of Buckhout Laboratory.

Transportation will be furnished by the Botany Club and cars will leave from the Osmond parking lot at 1 p.m.
