

Lion Booters Seek 5th Win

without the services of six lettermen of the team that posted a 8-1-1 record last fall. But Army is always a powerhouse in soccer, and this year it has Captain Scotty Adams, Ira Black, Chuck Heinze, Wally Summers, and Bob Allen to back up its reputation.

Adams was on the second team of All-Americans last fall. Also backing up Palone's optimistic view for a good season is Joe Cannon, goalie, on the varsity after a year of seasoning with the junior varsity. Heinze, Summers, and Allen played for the Cadet's plebe squad last year.

Army will be out to extend its win streak and duplicate the win scored last year when it snapped the Lions' nine-game victory streak and served the Nittany squad the first of its two losses.

Harriers --

proved to the point where Werner now ranks him as the No. 2 or 3 harrier on the squad.

Moorhead, who was a sophomore sensation last year, has lived up to past performances. He has finished first in two of the Lions' regular season encounters. The only time he slipped from the top berth was at Ithaca, N.Y., when he came in second against Cornell. In Saturday's race against some of Penn State's top harriers of the past, Moorhead placed second behind Olympian Curt Stone.

Austin has done well in practice sessions, but has never been able to quite hit his stride in meet competition.

Don Woodrow, Don Mowry, Paul Roberts, and Dick Mohler—the four sophomores—round out the Nittany team.

ALL-TIME PENN STATE HARRIER LINEUP

Although all-America, all-State, all-City, and other all-All teams depress me more than they impress me, I couldn't resist the urge to come up with just one more such squad. This team, selected by Penn State cross-country Coach Chick Werner, is made up of the finest Nittany harriers the Lion mentor has tutored in his 22 years at the helm. Werner's squad is more valid than other "all" teams because he has had direct contact with each of the runners and is recognized as an expert in the hill-and-dale sport.

HORACE ASHENFELTER

The No. 1 position was awarded to Horace Ashenfelter, a harrier of many nicknames and twice as many records. "Nip's" meteoric rise to fame came when he copped the 3000-meter steeplechase race in the 1952 Olympic Games. Ash lived up to his title of "Fearless Fosdick" when he upset Russian aces Vladimir Kazantsev and Mikhail Saltykov to win the Gold Medal. During his junior year at Penn State Ash won the IC4A two-mile title, ran a 4:17 mile indoors, and set a record of 25:03.2 for the Nittany five-mile hill-and-dale layout that has stood for five seasons.

GERRY KARVER

Werner, in referring to Gerry Karver as a stylist, said that "he just flowed". Karver won regional, district, and all-State honors during his high school days in Boyertown as a cross-country runner and miler. At one time he held six Pennsylvania Interscholastic Athletic Association titles simultaneously. The former Nittany great spent several campaigns serving on the Lions' four-mile relay team. Together with Curt Stone, Bill Shuman, and Horace Ashenfelter the quartet copped the Penn Relay title four times in five years.

CURT STONE

Besppectacled Curt Stone came through with his finest effort when the pressure was really on. The two-time Olympian—1948 and 1952—is one of the two Nittany harriers who have won IC4A cross-country titles. Going into the last mile of the 1946 championship race at Van Cortlandt Park, N.Y., Stone trailed Rhode Island's Bob Black by about 25 yards. Stone closed the gap as the two runners headed for the stadium and the finish line. With less than a quarter of a mile left, Stone took the lead and won by almost 100 yards. In 1952 Stone set new American records in the 5000 and 10,000-meter runs.

BILL SMITH

Although "Wild" Bill Smith had his career marred by an automobile accident in 1938, he still earned his spot on the list of Nittany greats. The 5'7" harrier came to Werner one day with a plan for breaking the Penn State cross-country record. Smith planned to run the first two miles of the local five-mile course in approximately nine minutes and then sprint the rest of the way. Incredible as his scheme was, it worked. Smith covered the first two miles in 9:42 and set a new course record of 25:24.

BILL ASHENFELTER

Rounding out the top five harriers under Werner's regime is another Olympian—Bill Ashenfelter. Although hidden in the shadow of brother Horace, Bill has come up with his share of fine performances. He was on the 1952 Olympic team at Helsinki, Finland, and is regarded as one of the finest distance runners in the nation.

AND OTHERS

After picking his top five runners, Werner was in a quandry over what to do with some of the outstanding harriers who were left over. It was hard to forget about the deeds of such stars as Norm Gordon, Pete Olexy, Herm Goffberg, and Red Hollen.

College smokers from coast to coast prefer Luckies to any other brand. Luckies lead, and by a wide margin, according to the latest, biggest college survey. Once again, the No. 1 reason: Luckies taste better. They taste better because Lucky Strike is the cigarette of fine tobacco... and "It's Toasted" to taste better. "It's Toasted"—the famous Lucky Strike process—tones up Luckies' light, mild, good-tasting tobacco to make it taste even better. This explains the Droodle below, which is: Eskimo seminar enjoying Luckies in badly built classroom. Like all real cool people, Eskimos know Luckies taste better. So, get the better-tasting cigarette... Lucky Strike.
