

Both Employee Unions To Appear at Hearing

Both local unions representing service employees at the University will appear before the grievance panel when it meets to hear grievances between the employees and the University on Dec. 16, 17, and 18. The sessions will be held here.

The panel met here Friday and Saturday to discuss proceedings for conducting the hearings. Since the split in union membership a month ago, there had been some question as to which of the unions would represent the employees.

Tribunal Applications Available

Application forms for two vacancies on Tribunal, created by the recent Tribunal reorganization, will be available beginning at noon tomorrow at the Student Union desk, Old Main.

Two fourth or fifth semester men are needed, one to serve as a regular member of Tribunal and one to serve as junior class alternate.

The new setup of Tribunal calls for four junior and four senior men to serve on the disciplinary board with an alternate for each class. Formerly Tribunal was composed of five senior men, three juniors, and one sophomore.

The revision approved by All-University Cabinet four weeks ago, was presented by Joyce Shusman, encampment judicial committee chairman, and amended by Ross Clark, Tribunal chairman.

The five seniors and three juniors now on Tribunal will retain their posts. The sophomore member did not return to the University this semester.

Questions on the applications include "Why do you feel you are qualified for this post?" and "How do you feel about discipline as a training and correction method in regard to misbehavior of students?"

Other information asked is how much time the applicant has available to serve on Tribunal and what previous experience he has had in judicial and other extracurricular activities. A 1.0 All-University average is required.

In addition to completing the questionnaires, each applicant will be interviewed.

The deadline for submitting applications will be noon, Nov. 13, at the Student Union desk.

Junior Prom Queen Voting to Continue

Juniors may vote for Junior Prom Queen until tomorrow at the Student Union desk in Old Main. All juniors may vote upon presentation of their matriculation cards.

The five finalists are Lois Cowden, Patricia Dickinson, Ruth Grigoletti, Ann Lederman, and Jean Yemm. The queen will be announced at the dance.

Tickets will go on sale Friday at the Student Union desk and will be sold at the door.

Bergman Is Hospitalized

Iona Bergman, third semester home economics major, injured in an automobile accident while on her way to the Penn State-Pennsylvania football game, is in the University hospital with a concussion. Miss Bergman was reported in good condition yesterday. She was shaken up when the car in which she was riding ran off the Swedesford road near Paoli Friday night.

The original request for the panel came from Local 67 American Federation of State, County, and Municipal Employees. However, a month ago, over 300 members of Local 67 voted to disaffiliate with that group and were chartered as Local 417 of the Building Service Employees International.

Opinions Differ
Kenneth Dixon, president of Local 417, contended that since most of the officers and members of Local 67 had transferred to Local 417, the new group should represent employees on the panel.

After conferences with both groups, the panel secured permission of both unions and the University to allow both groups to testify. The unions agreed to the plan on the basis that general grievances would be presented concurrently by spokesmen of both organizations and that grievances of individual employees would be presented by the group of the employees choice.

All parties also agreed not to issue press releases or other publicity concerning the panel proceedings while the hearing is pending. It was agreed that the panel, through its chairman should be the source of all releases.

The panel grouped the issues to be discussed and announced (Continued on page eight)

Snow to End After 6-Inch Fall in Area

The first snowfall of the season is scheduled to end early this morning after depositing approximately six inches of snow on Centre County since Monday night.

The State College area came out ahead in the amount of snow to fall on the state Monday night when the University Weather Station recorded a record three inches by 7 a.m. yesterday.

Most of the snow to fall Monday night and yesterday thawed due to the position of State College among its surrounding hills. By nightfall the temperature was low enough to keep the snow on the ground.

About three inches of snow is expected on the ground this morning following an all-night snowfall, a meteorology department spokesman said.

Today will be colder than yesterday with scattered snow flurries to replace the steady snowfall of the past day.

Weekend Run Set For 'Mr. Roberts'

Players will present Thomas Heggen's "Mr. Roberts" for the first time at a 9:45 p.m. late show tomorrow in Schwab Auditorium, with two other Junior weekend shows set for 8 p.m. Friday and Saturday.

Crew members have been busy painting the set, the deck of a battered supply ship, and have managed to give it that "Caine Mutiny" sloppy touch by painting the set camouflage green and rust orange.

Players are presenting the late show on Thursday so that no conflict will result with an 8 p.m. speech by Ralph Bunche in Schwab. Coeds will receive late permissions to attend tomorrow night's show, but must present their ticket stubs when they return in their dormitories.

Reversed Seats
Tickets for the reserved seat show are available at the Student Union desk in Old Main for sixty cents for tomorrow night's show, and one dollar for Friday and Saturday nights.

John Lambing, first semester business administration major, will make his campus theatrical debut as Mr. Roberts. Clifford Crosbie, fifth semester arts and letters major, will play Doc; James Broad, seventh semester arts and letters major, will be seen as the Captain.

Gerald Denisof, third semester arts and letters major, will act Insigna, John Aniston, seventh semester arts and letters student, will play Mannion, and Dominic

Landro, eighth semester mechanical engineering major, will be seen as Dolan.

Sole Woman
Karl Held, fourth semester arts and letters major, will play Rubber, Roland Taylor, third semester division of intermediate registration student, will act Paine, and Harriet Steinman, third semester arts and letters major, will be seen as Lieutenant Ann Girard, the only woman in the cast.

Others in the cast include Alphonse Coune, Howard Rowlands, Emil Haas, William Eager, Jay Tolson, Morton Bender, Lyle Pelton, Herbert Otto, John Konstanzer and John Krumrine.

"Mr. Roberts" has been called the "most successful war play of the American theatre since 'What Price Glory?'"

Procedures Changed For Interview Group

All-University Cabinet Thursday night amended the procedure of the cabinet personnel interviewing committee, which was approved by cabinet two weeks ago.

The amendment, presented by Donald Bell, committee chairman, provides that the group shall complete interviews with committee appointees at least one week before the appointments are finally approved by cabinet.

The original report asked that interviews be completed at least two weeks before the appointments are finally announced. The amendment also provides that a list of the committee positions to be interviewed as well as application procedures be announced in the Daily Collegian at least one week before the final interviews.

CPIC to Interview Members
The CPIC was set up to interview all committee members appointed by the All-University president. Prospective committee members must apply to the committee to obtain an interview.

Bell said he felt his amendment was necessary to shorten the interval between the time the committee receives applications and final approval of committee members by cabinet. He pointed out that under the original provision, approximately a month would elapse before a committee could finally be approved. Under the amendment, he said, the time could be cut down to two weeks.

He said it was necessary to shorten the period of time because of the great number of committees which must be interviewed.

Cabinet also approved the second reading of an amendment by Richard Favro, president of the Business Administration student council, dealing with the appointment of committee chairmen. Favro's amendment provides that appointments of all committee chairmen and persons receiving compensation be presented to cabinet members on Tuesday before the meeting at which they are to be finally approved. The amendment will be voted on at the next cabinet meeting, Nov. 11.

Cabinet Vetoes Holm Request
Cabinet also vetoed a request by Janice Holm, National Student Association coordinator, asking permission to bid for the regional NSA convention at the University if the date for the meeting could be changed from December to February.

Miss Holm said she felt the University could not hold the convention in December, because of the short time that is left to make preparation for the meeting.

However, because of a clause in the NSA constitution which stipulates that the regional convention must be held in December, the date can not be changed.

Smoot Presents Request
In turning down the request, cabinet also felt that the University should wait and make a bid for the national convention of NSA next summer. The request was presented by Robert Smoot, president of Hat Societies Council, in the absence of Miss Holm.

The complimentary ticket list for the Junior Prom was also approved by cabinet.

Robert Sturdevant, fifth semester agricultural education major, was appointed chairman of a committee to investigate food service in dormitory dining halls.

Curtin Schaffer, third semester student, was named to the Senate committee on academic honesty, to replace Earl Seely, fifth semester electrical engineering major, who recently resigned.

Retired Prof Dies Suddenly

Lawrence C. Madison, retired professor emeritus of animal husbandry, extension at the University, died suddenly at his home, 326 W. Ridge avenue, at 11:30 p.m. Monday.

Mr. Madison, prior to his retirement on June 30, 1953, was head of the extension livestock department. He had been associated with the University since 1924.

He was considered an authority on swine production and was a field representative of the American Poland China Records Assn. and was secretary of the Illinois Poland China Breeders Assn.

Mr. Madison would have been 67 years of age on Dec. 7. He was born in Boone, Iowa.

He is survived by his wife, Lula E. Hutchison; one son, Lawrence, Scarsdale, N.Y.; one daughter, Mrs. Joseph Disque, Drexel Hill; and five grandchildren.
