PENN POST MORTEMS

It's been a long, long time since a Penn State football team whipped Pennsylvania as decisively as the Lions did Saturday. In fact, the 35-13 win was the worst ever administered to the Quakers by their "country cousins". The best the Lions had been able to do prior to Saturday's TV runaway, was a 28-7 win in 1928.

Penn State has shown some brilliant line play at times this season, but nothing has touched the performance of the Lion forward wall at Franklin Field. The Quakers, probably at their lowest ebb of the last decade, struggled and strained, but managed to gain only a net of 27 yards on the ground.

Rip Engle's second team, if it can possibly be considered a "second team", is just about as devastating as his front line outfit—and at times, more so. Engle has relied heavily on his shock-troop unit this season, and Saturday gave it lots of work when he shook up his starting lineup. Again, if it can be called a "second" team, it's probably the best such outfit in the east.

Lenny Moore's brilliant 60-yard touchdown dance in the third period Saturday—was probably one of the finest pieces of ball carrying anybody has done in a long time. The swift all-American candidate got a mammoth hole off right tackle and a beauty of a block by Jack Sherry just after he cleared the line. From then on, he was on his own, and the walk he did down the right chalk line would rival the finest of tight rope walkers.

Rip Engle's comment: "That 60-yard touchdown run of his was a thing of beauty, the likes of which you seldom see on any football field."

Don Bailey's sister, Jean, was on hand to watch her brother on the football field for the first time. She's been on tour with the Ice Capades for the past three years and got the afternoon off from the Philadelphia engagement to see the game.

Jim Garrity's five extra points Saturday, brought his total up to 12. The Lion co-captain has missed only two.

A few interesting statistical notes: Lions are now averaging 257.5 yards per game on the ground. Their 383 against the Quakers was the best this season... The average per carry is a robust 5.3 yards... Penalty

Upsets Hamper Grid Swamies

The mass of football upsets taking the nation's top college grid-ers by storm so far this season proved to be too much for the Daily Collegian's quartet of weekly grid predictors to cope with Saturday.

Sports editor Dick McDowell was the high man in Saturday's fray with a lowly 8-7 mark, but staff writer Roy Williams' seven correct picks and eight miscues was good enough for him to retain first place for the fourth straight week.

Assistant scribe Herm Weiskopf and Joe Paterno, Nittany backfield coach, each contributed similar 7-8 performances.

Williams ran his six-week total to 62 right and 28 wrong for a .688 average, 66 percentage points ahead of Weiskopf. He owns a 56-34 slate.

McDowell moved one game ahead of the coaches to take third place on 55 positive picks and 35 wrong-doings for a .611 average.

3 Fraternities Win Swimming Matches

Three fraternities copped intramural swimming meets last night at the Glennland Pool. Phi Kappa Tau topped Delta Tau Delta, 23-13; Tau Kappa Epsilon beat Phi Gamma Delta, 24-16; and Pi Kappa Alpha defeated Pi Kappa Phi, 27-10.

Phi Kappa Tau easily scored over Delta Tau Delta. The winners won by five yards in the 4-man relay, covering four lengths of the pool in 1:07.8.

Phi Gamma Delta lost the final relay to Tau Kappa Epsilon and with it the meet. The TKE's won by eight yards in 1:21.1.

Pi Kappa Alpha had the night's highest score, topping Pi Kappa Alpha, 27-10. The winners scored a one-lap victory in the relay.

Monday night winners were Penguins over Irvin Hall by forfeit and Jordan Hall over Fishes by forfeit. Mac's Men and Kingsmen both forfeited their matches.

losses have mounted to 344 yards... Moore's 60-yard scamper was his longest scoring run of the year. He's hit pay-dirt nine times for 54 points. Ron Younker still holds the longest TD run. He went 80 yards against Virginia... Moore averaging 119 yards per game... Bailey is probably the runningest quarterback in Penn State history. The swift signal caller has run for 229 yards, and has made most of them on the "sneak". However, losses on pass attempts have cost 100.

9 Independents Cop IM Cage Victories

Nine independent basketball teams scored victories Monday night at Rec Hall.

In the first game, the Renegades scored a late victory over the Liberty Clowns, 23-19. Jim Richards topped all scorers with 9 points, while Bill Johnson led the losers with 7.

Physchem took an easy 23-12 win over the Jordan Jokers. Joe Menges led the winners with 8 points, and Lou Trautman paced the losers with 6.

In the third game, the Mustangs took a 20-18 thriller from the Koons. Mike Miller led the winners with 8 markers, while Bill Lenzer scored 6 to pace the Koons.

The Steelers came back from a 14-12 halftime deficit to take the Birds, 23-14. Vince Carocci sparked the winners attack with 9 points. Bob Thomas scored 8 in the Birds' losing effort.

Watts Wonders fought off a closing rally by the McKee Duces to take the win 25-16. Ed Rhoads sparked the winners offense with 12 points and Mark Roller was high man for the Duces with 6.

The Setters won from Irvin Aces in the seventh contest by a 19-13 score. Bill Mullins was the offensive standout for the winners, scoring 14 points, while Dave Jones led the Aces with 8.

In the eighth game, the Snorks ran away with the Giraffes 26-8. Marv Baltusaik led the winners with 8 markers, and Paul Beamer tallied 5 for the Giraffes. The evenings last game produced both the high team score, and the outstanding scorer of the night. In it Hamilton Unit VI scored an easy 45-13 win over the Gophers. Hamilton used their superior height to an advantage in controlling both backboards throughout the game. Lanky Milt Wardrop topped the evenings scorers with a 15 point contribution, to his team's effort. Bobby Lietz topped the loser's offense by scoring 6 markers.

In the only other game, the Kingsmen were awarded a forfeit over the Lions.
