

AIM Discards Merger Plan

The idea of a Nittany-Pollock Councils merger last night was dropped by the Association of Independent Men.

President Robert Dennis said that AIM will take no action on the merger in the foreseeable future. Dennis said Pollock Council has been organized and tentatively plans a constitutional revision. This revision, he felt, would possibly

University Students Get 4-H Titles

Six University students placed first in their respective 4-H Club projects and have been declared winners in the National 4-H awards program for 1954, according to an announcement by Edward A. Mintmier, assistant professor of agriculture extension and assistant 4-H leader at the University.

The six students are among fourteen Pennsylvania 4-H Club members out of a total state membership of 34,000 who ranked first in their groups. They are David Morrow, fifth semester dairy husbandry major; Marion Ludwig, fifth semester home economics major; Jerome Kleisath, third semester agricultural economics major; Audrey Neff, third semester home economics major; Carrie Curtis, first semester home economics major; and Ann O'Toole, first semester home economics major.

Morrow, winner of the meat animal award, receives a gold watch while the other winners receive expense-paid trips to the 33rd National 4-H Congress to be held from Nov. 28 to Dec. 2 in Chicago. Morrow will compete with other state winners in the Northeast for the Chicago trip.

Miss Ludwig's winning project was home garden; Kleisath, dairying; Miss Neff, food preparation; Miss Curtis, recreation-rural arts; and Miss O'Toole, girls' record.

Miss Ludwig was also designated the outstanding 4-H Club exhibitor at the York Fair last month and received a trip to the annual International Livestock Exposition which runs concurrently with the 4-H event. This will also be held at Chicago.

Nittany Council Names Officers

Three appointments were made by Nittany Council last week.

George Wills, third semester dairy husbandry major, was named parliamentarian; Theodore Simon, third semester pre-medical major, social chairman; and John Shay, third semester electrical engineering major, recreation chairman.

The council discussed the food service in the Nittany area and passed a motion that the Nittany Council food committee meet with the AIM food committee to jointly air complaints about the dormitory food.

The committee brought up the question of a merger of Nittany and Pollock Councils. However, since Pollock has not as yet organized a functioning group, Nittany Council named a committee to investigate the possibilities of a merger of the two councils. Named to the committee are Edward Steck, James Bealer, Robert Guy, Charles Willard, Richard Wocht and Donald Davis.

Holy Cross Rally Will Be Tonight

A pep rally sponsored by Blue Key, junior men's hat society, and Chimes, junior women's hat society, will be held 7:30 tonight in front of Recreation Hall for the Holy Cross-Penn State football game.

A motorcade will be led through campus by the Blue Band. Emcees for the rally are Phillip Wein, fifth semester arts and letters major; and Sanford Lichtenstein, fifth semester education major.

University Asks Transferral Of Camp Title

The University has asked the Federal government to transfer to the University the title to 15 buildings and the water and sewage system at Camp Blue Jay, near Marienville.

The camp is no longer needed for defense purposes and has been declared available for transfer without reimbursement for educational purposes.

Since 1940 the School of Forestry has been maintaining the camp as a sophomore summer camp.

Because of its location in the Allegheny National Forest, which differs from the area in Stone Valley and at Mont Alto, where other forestry camps are held, it is considered an important educational facility by the school.

The close association between forestry students and the United States Forest Service is also considered a valuable part of the training for students in forestry.

Collegian Promotes 4 Staff Members

Four Daily Collegian staff members have been promoted.

Ronald Hoopes, seventh semester industrial engineering major, has been named photography director, and Ann Leh, seventh semester journalism major, has been promoted to senior board.

Named to junior board were Marjorie Schenck and Theodore Serrill, third semester journalism majors.

The promotions were made by the senior editorial board of the paper.

Four Topics Announced For NSA Convention

Four workshop topics for the National Student Association regional convention Dec. 10 in Philadelphia were announced yesterday by Janice Holm, University NSA coordinator.

The topics will be racial integration, problems relating to international students on college campuses, student-faculty-administration relations, and the college newspaper.

Miss Holm said although all the topics are vital to the University the last seems most important since it was suggested by the University NSA and supported by members of the Daily Collegian staff.

At the regional convention, questions relating to the topics will be discussed and possible solutions suggested, Miss Holm said. She said each student government determines what its problems are and arrives at its own solutions. The purpose of the workshops is to share ideas and experience in hopes of reaching solutions more easily, she said.

NSA Travel Program
The plenary session of the convention will be devoted entirely to the NSA summer travel program, Miss Holm said. Tours planned for this year include Mexico, Canada, Israel and the Near East as well as European tours.

The national vice president of NSA is scheduled to visit the University sometime before the regional convention to discuss NSA informally with student leaders, Miss Holm said.

Interested Students to Meet
A meeting of students interested in working on projects for the convention will be held early next week.

Miss Holm and Helen Sidman, fifth semester arts and letters major, attended the regional executive session Saturday in Philadelphia.

Two Mixers Will Be Held By Ed Council

The Education Student Council will sponsor two mixers for students in the College of Education. A mixer will be held from 7 to 9 p.m. Nov. 17 in the Temporary Union Building. Lynn Christy and his orchestra will play and refreshments will be served. This mixer is open to everyone in the College of Education, although it is primarily for the freshmen.

Another mixer will be a coffee hour from 4 to 5 p.m. Nov. 11, in 6 Burrows. It will be the first in a series of mixers designed to acquaint students with their advisers and teachers.

The council constitution has been revised to restrict council members to one unexcused absence from council meetings per semester rather than three.

A meeting for those interested in working on the College of Education newspaper, The Monitor, will be held at 7 p.m. Tuesday in 128 Sparks.

Philippine Dean to Speak
Boyd Bell, a graduate of the University and dean of agriculture at the Silliman University on Negros Island in the Philippine Islands, will speak on "Agriculture in the Philippines" to the Agricultural Engineering Club at 7 tonight in 105 Agricultural Engineering.

correct the "evils" which the merger would have attempted to remedy. Thus, he said, there would be no need for the merger.

A Nittany-Pollock merger was proposed last year because it was felt that the councils were not as strongly organized as they might be and that unification could bring more effective student government to the East Dormitory area.

Committee Appointed
Dennis appointed a committee to study the merger at the AIM Board of Governors meeting two weeks ago. The committee was to contact the Nittany and Pollock Council presidents about the merger and decide if a plebiscite of area students was warranted.

In presenting a report at the board meeting last night, committee chairman Bruce Lieske said a guide constitution for the proposed merger had been drawn up. However, in a discussion after the meeting was adjourned, Dennis said the merger issue was dead.

Report Given
The committee studying the dining hall lines in Waring Hall reported that it is working to ease the crowded line conditions. While no definite action has been taken, (Continued on page eight)

60 Bands to Appear At Saturday's Game

With Junior Prom coming up this weekend upperclassmen are reminded of the 15-inch snow that kept Ralph Flanagan and his orchestra from playing at the dance last year on Friday night. But Hummel Fishburn, who originated Band Day, is more pointedly reminded of the snowed-out high school band performance that was to have been on the next day.

Sixty high school bands were scheduled to appear on Beaver Field during half-time of the Fordham game. Only about four of them ever got to State College.

The same 60 bands have accepted invitations to participate in the fifth annual band day performance, jointly sponsored by the Athletic Association and the Department of Music. Again, they are scheduled to appear at half-time, this year at Saturday's Holy Cross game.

In 1950, Hummel Fishburn, professor in the department of music who plans the novelty routines the Blue Band follows during football halftimes, invited the eight bands from Centre County to play at the University.

All the bands in the state that were directed by University graduates were invited to the 1951 band day. Twenty-four accepted.

The 1952 band day brought 24 of the bands within a 90-mile radius to the campus.

"And in 1953 it snowed," Fishburn said. (Continued on page eight)
