

2 Tried to Gain Party According to DelleDonne

By DON SHOEMAKER

State Party student representative council Sunday heard clique chairman Rae DelleDonne explain that two party workers were fired Tuesday because they were trying to gain control of the party.

She referred to the firing of David Scott, men's ward chairman, and Richard Rigling, campaign manager, because "the gentlemen in question were incompetent and failed to fulfill the obligations of their positions."

Miss DelleDonne explained to the council that the dismissals came when Scott attempted to remove John Kagarise, Nittany Area ward chairman, from his position a week ago.

Miss DelleDonne had appointed Kagarise to the position. The appointment also placed him on the student representative council.

Backed By Rigling

According to Miss DelleDonne, Rigling backed Scott in his attempt to remove Kagarise. She said Rigling had called her and asked her to get in touch with Scott the morning after Kagarise's dismissal (Wednesday).

Meanwhile, she said, Rigling had called Harold Dean, another member of the council, and told him to contact Scott. According to Miss DelleDonne, he was to tell Scott to give her a good reason for dismissing Kagarise from the council when she called him.

Miss DelleDonne told the council that Scott had no grounds to remove Kagarise, since he was a member of the student representative council. She said that since she had appointed him ward chairman in Nittany, she alone had the right to dissolve the appointment.

She said, however, that if Kagarise had not been a member of the council, Scott would have been within his rights to remove him.

Dismissal Unfair

Miss DelleDonne said she felt the attempted dismissal of Kagarise was unfair. "I don't like to have people try to take the party from under me," she said, "but I'm not trying to be a dictator."

According to Miss DelleDonne, Rigling and Scott had cut off all campaign publicity to the Nittany area. She added that Scott and Rigling had taken over Kagarise's responsibilities without his knowledge.

Told Nothing

She said she went to Kagarise and found he had been told nothing about campaign schedules in the Nittany area and that Scott had been taking the candidates through the dorms himself.

Rigling and Scott last night issued this statement in answer to Miss DelleDonne's charges:

"The entire affair seems rather petty. The fact that a minor disagreement over party function led to such drastic action during the time when a party is in need of a close-knit organization (the campaign period) can only point to an inefficiency in the present administration."

Scholarship Awarded

Ronald Stark, first semester ceramics major, has been awarded the $300 Oscar Hommel Memorial Scholarship.

The scholarship was established by the O. Hommel Co., Pittsburgh, manufacturers of colors and frits used in the ceramic industry.

Seely Terms Prom Success, 1324 Attend

Editorial, letter on page four

A turnout of 1324 students and other guests helped the Junior Prom climax a successful Junior Week, according to Earl Seely, junior class vice president.

Good weather and the fact that this was the first big weekend of the year encouraged a good response, Seely said.

Seely termed the Junior Talent Show a success in spite of the poor weather. The class also turned out well for the Sunday morning chapel service, he said.

About the only aspect of the week which might be called disappointing, Seely said, was the confusion which resulted at the coronation of the Junior Prom Queen. "The event was well planned," he said, "but people just weren't where they should have been at the right times."

Seely also expressed disappointment in the small number of students who voted for the Queen.

Home Ec Group Taps 19 Students

Nineteen students have been tapped by Phi Upsilon Omicron, home economics honorary society. Five seniors and 14 juniors were tapped.

Fund Offers 3 Fellowships

The Danforth Foundation, an educational trust fund, is offering three graduate fellowships to senior men and recent graduates preparing for a college teaching career, and planning to enroll in graduate school in September.

President Milton S. Eisenhower named Henry S. Brunner, professor of agricultural education, to nominate either two or three candidates for the fellowships.

The foundation will accept applicants from the fields of natural and biological sciences, social sciences, humanities and other fields of specialization.

These fellowships carry a promise of financial aid should the need arise. The maximum annual grant for a married student is $2400, for a single student, $1800.

Applications, including recommendations, must be submitted by Feb. 15. Students wishing further information may contact Brunner at 101 Agricultural Education.

Lion Clique Chairman Appoints Two Officers

Gordon Pogal, Lion Party clique chairman, made two appointments at the steering committee meeting Sunday night.

Fraternity Open Houses

Fraternities will hold open houses for freshmen from 2 to 5 p.m. on Sunday, according to John Russell, Interfraternity Council Rushing Chairman.

Freshmen will meet with their dormitory counselors Thursday night to discuss fraternities.

Traffic Court Collects $124, Sets Record

Traffic Court last night levied a record total for the year of $124 on 2 student traffic violators.

Twelve students were found guilty of first offenses and were fined $1 apiece. Three students guilty of second violations were fined $3 apiece.

A $5 fine and Traffic Court probation were imposed on five students guilty of third violations.

Court found one student guilty of a fourth violation which involves the paying of a $10 fine and suspension of campus driving privileges for 60 days.

The total number of fines was swelled to $124 due to the number of students who paid for past offenses at last night's sessions following a period court suspension. They were placed on suspension for violating regulations at a previous meeting but were only required to pay when found guilty of another violation.

Graduate students were asked by Mark Wiener, Traffic Court chairman, to register their cars at the Campus Patrol Office if they intend to operate them in the State College area for a period of three weeks or longer.
