

WSGA Hears Suggestion For Coed Hall Managers

A plan by which women students will assist in the enforcement of Women's Student Government rules, including even the suggesting of blackmarks, was presented to WSGA Senate last night.

Patricia Dickinson, fifth semester journalism major, suggested a proposed plan for "more effective student enforcement by selection of hall chairmen to work in cooperation with dormitory hostesses."

Mardi Gras Festival to Start With Carnival

Mardi Gras Weekend, sponsored jointly by the women's hat societies, will begin tomorrow night with the Mardi Gras carnival from 8 to 11 p.m. in Recreation Hall.

Mortar Board, senior women's hat society, is sponsoring the carnival. Finalists for Mardi Gras king will be selected at the carnival by penny votes at a central voting place.

The king will be crowned Saturday night at the Mardi Ball, sponsored by Chimes, junior women's hat society. The ball, featuring Danny Grove's Orchestra, will be held from 9 p.m. to midnight Saturday in the Temporary Union Building.

The final event of the Mardi Gras weekend will be the all-University Sing at 8 p.m. Sunday in Schwab Auditorium.

The Men's Glee Club, directed by Frank Gullo, will sing several selections at the sing, sponsored by Scrolls, senior women's hat society, and Cwens, sophomore women's hat society.

Gullo, associate professor of music, and Dr. Hummel Fishburn, professor of music, will lead the audience in group singing. No admission will be charged.

Chemistry Society Pledges 9 Women

The Palladium chapter of Iota Sigma Pi, women's national chemistry honorary society, last night pledged nine women. They are: Catherine Bone, Professor of chemistry at Wilkes College; Arlene Borgeson, senior, food chemistry; Catherine Courtney, junior, chemistry; Joy Fisher, junior, chemistry; Jessie Grove, graduate, chemistry; Betty Luster, Laboratory technician, Ordnance Research Laboratory; Mary McElhane, junior, chemistry; Mary Shelton, Director, Ellen H. Richards Institute; and Ann Sterner, junior, food chemistry.

Dr. Katherine Way, internationally known nuclear scientist, addressed the group on "The Frontier in Nuclear Science" at the annual Marie Curie lecture.

The women were pledged at a banquet which preceded the lecture.

IES to Hear Teacher

Robert Bostian, industrial arts master teacher at Bellefonte Area high school, will address the Industrial Education Society at 7 tonight at Lambda Chi Alpha.

Bostian's topic will be "What to Expect While Practice Teaching."

150 Asked To Annual Journ Tea

One hundred and fifty women in journalism or active in campus publications have been invited to the annual tea sponsored by Theta Sigma Phi, national women's professional journalism fraternity.

The tea will be from 2 to 4 p.m. Sunday in the Northeast lounge of Atherton Hall.

Kitty Campbell, woman's editor for the Philadelphia Evening Bulletin, will be guest speaker. She is a former University student and State College resident.

Miss Campbell worked on the Philadelphia Inquirer before going to the Bulletin. While working on the Inquirer she adopted the pen name Cynthia Cabot. The name has remained as a copyright feature of the Inquirer.

This is the first year that women active in campus publications have been invited to the tea. In former years only journalism majors were invited.

Patricia Beahan, eighth semester journalism major, is chairman for the tea. Other committee members are Louise Glud and Constance Anderson, refreshments; Dorothy Stone and Phyllis Propert, invitations; Janet Morley and Marion Hieftje, name tags; Patricia Dickinson, decorations; and Mary Bolich, publicity.

Madore Is Head Of Checker Club

John Madore, third semester business administration major, has been elected president of the Checker Club, replacing Robert Rush, third semester industrial engineering major.

Other officers elected were Paul Popovich, fifth semester industrial engineering major, vice president; Hector Kauffman, of State College, secretary-treasurer; and Rush, assistant secretary-treasurer.

Daniel Frank, of State College, is the club's coach.

Nittany Bowmen Wish To Join Outing Club

A plan to admit the Nittany Bowmen, an independent archery club, to the Outing Club has been presented to the field and stream division of the club.

Under the plan, upon becoming members the Bowmen would have access to Outing Club funds while providing an archery range and lessons for interested members.

By definition of the plan a hall chairman "shall be a reliable and competent woman student who will be given "authority to enforce WSGA rules within her living unit." This will include the suggestion of names for blackmarks as is done now by dormitory hostesses. Judicial board alone can give blackmarks.

Apply by Application
Interested women students would apply through written application blanks. They would appear before and be chosen by WSGA screening board. Applicants would be required to have no judicial record, and the committee working on the plan is considering requiring a 1.5 all-University average.

If the plan is approved by WSGA Senate, questionnaires will be sent out to a sampling of women students and dormitory hostesses.

Food Service
WSGA moved to clarify its stand on the food service grievances. The only change discussed in last week's meeting is that the student be allowed more than one meal without a meal ticket.

Papers will be in dormitory hostesses' offices for women students who put preferences of professors they wish asked to the Junior-Senior Faculty Reception.

Professor Elected Association Head
Dr. Philip S. Klein, professor of American history, has been elected to a three-year term as president of the Pennsylvania Historical Association.

Klein, who had previously been a secretary of the association, succeeds William A. Russ, of Susquehanna University.

Dr. Robert K. Murray, assistant professor of history, was reelected as secretary.

Among members named to the council of the association were S. K. Stevens of State College, and Wallace F. Workmaster, of Pittsburgh.

Cwens to Meet Tonight
Cwens, sophomore women's hat society, will meet at 6:30 tonight in the Northeast lounge of Atherton Hall.

Thru the Looking Glass

with Gabbi

Greetings group! Stop messing with those mid-terms momentarily and goof off with me for a minute. Not as much originality as your bluebooks, but we don't require No-doz to keep you awake (sometimes we wonder!) Better retain those bluebooks, kids, comprehensive exams may slow up graduation a bit, but then you ed majors may get a chance to take some real courses (apologies to my roommate!) Now that we've got you off your study kick—let's try ETHEL'S for diversion.

Good things come in small packages . . .

and this is the cleverest yet! Washcloths, compressed into the size of a half dollar, expand into full-sized jobs when they hit water. What a crazy mess a carton would make in a bathtub! Packaged in plastic—a great gift idea. No time to stop for soap and toothbrush in the morning? Try a plastic lined, taffeta or chintz covered toilet article kit. Now you can get up at 5 to for an 8 o'clock.

Blow the man down . . .

But do it delicately with a lovely handkerchief from ETHEL'S. So pretty, we wonder if they're for show or blow—modern shades of green, charcoal and others, they are printed as gayly and freely as a spring day. For your more lady-like moments—white Irish linen, tiny flowers and embroidered scallops. Silk scarves shout about fox hunts and horses while others go off on tangents of abstraction. Despite their shape—they're definitely not for squares—too ivy-like!

Time to collect yourself . . .

and your notes and things in a Plastelle Looseleaf notebook in all colors of the spectrum. Lined in plastic, they have pockets for pencils, comb, note pads—washable and durable, they won't reject your P.S.U. seal. So if your notebook looks like it just lost the battle of the bulge, here's your solution at 3.50. We'll be seeing you . . . bye now.
