

Violinist Earns Rank In Single Decade

Although Tossy Spivakovsky, who will open the Community Concert series at 8:30 p.m. Monday in Schwab Auditorium, has only appeared before the American public for less than a decade, he has already established himself as one of the most outstanding violinists of today.

Fink Asks 'Patience' From Union

Members of Local 67, American Federation of State, County, and Municipal Employees Wednesday night heard President George Fink urge them to "be patient" on the campus labor situation.

Only nine members of the union attended the meeting. Fink said he had not expected many because the group had no business to transact pending the meeting of the grievance panel at the University Dec. 16, 17, and 18.

Fink said he called the meeting "to let people know that Local 67 still holds its charter and is active."

Needs 8 Actives

The union needs eight active members to retain its charter.

Fink told the group that questions they had been asking about labor problems at the University are in the hands of the panel. The panel will consider grievances of employees against the University.

Fink also urged members to "spread the word of Local 67 around campus."

Refers To Local 417

"You can't accomplish anything merely by changing the name and number of a local," he said. He was referring to the 300 members of Local 67 who voted to disaffiliate and join the Building Service Employees' International. The group has since been chartered as Local 417 of that union.

"Ask these people what they have accomplished under the new union," he said, "and then ask them what benefits they got under Local 67."

Cites Examples

As an example of these benefits Fink cited 98 grievance hearings, 26 people who were reinstated to their jobs, and wage raises for 68 food service employees. These, he said, were while he was president of the union two years ago.

Group to Honor Manufacturers

Willard F. Rockwell Jr., president of the Rockwell Manufacturing Co. of Pittsburgh, will be the honored initiate at a banquet Monday night given by Delta Sigma Pi, professional business fraternity.

The banquet, which will follow the initiation of 45 men, will be held at Eutaw House. The initiation will be at 6 p.m. Willard Rockwell Jr. at Phi Delta Theta.

Rockwell, who was graduated from the University in 1935 with a degree in industrial engineering, became vice president and controller of Rockwell Manufacturing Co. in 1939. In 1940 he became a director.

Infirmaries Telephones On Separate Lines

Students wishing to speak by telephone to patients in the University Hospital are reminded that the telephones for the use of patients are on separate lines from the hospital telephones. Carol H. Burt, superintendent of the University Hospital, announced yesterday.

Infirmery phone numbers are: women, extension 2467; men, extension 2465. Patients may be visited daily from 1:30 to 3:30 p.m.

Under contract with Columbia records, he has recorded a Bach sonata and two by Beethoven, along with a series of encores such as Fritz Kreisler's "Caprice Viennois," a Tchaikovsky "Valse," and compositions by Raganini and Sarasate.

Between tours Spivakovsky lives in Wilton, Conn. For relaxation he plays an occasional game of croquet, likes to swim in season, and enjoys strolling the Connecticut hills.

Spivakovsky prefers planes to trains for transportation between engagements mainly because he sleeps poorly on trains. Although he has appeared in 48 states, and in Canada, Venezuela, Columbia, and Ecuador, as well as in Hawaii, the violinist has never cancelled a concert. On one occasion he was snowbound some 30 miles from Toronto, and was forced to delay a performance for 24 hours.

His first major appearance in the United States was with the New York Philharmonic-Symphony in a performance of Bela Bartok's "Violin Concerto" under the baton of Artur Rodzinski.

Although he has appeared on television, Spivakovsky does not feel that America's newest mass entertainment medium has yet solved the problem of televising serious music.

Agronomy Meetings

Kenneth Zeiders and William Brooks, both seventh semester agronomy majors, represented the University in student section meetings of the American Society of Agronomy last week at St. Paul, Minn.

AIM to Send 2 to NSA Convention

Two members of the Board of Governors of the Association of Independent Men will attend the regional convention of the National Student Association.

The board Wednesday night voted to send Leonard Richards and Richard Rigling to the convention in Philadelphia Dec. 9 and 10.

Although most of the board indicated it was in favor of sending the men, Thomas Kidd, parliamentarian, voiced strong disapproval. He said he felt that All-University Cabinet was not willing to accept the knowledge students gained from NSA conventions. He went on to say that at present "prestige" is the only value the University receives from NSA.

Weidner, Town Council president, questioned Kidd's right to voice his opinions from the floor. Kidd is parliamentarian and not a board member. However, Kidd had arrived at the meeting late and Rigling had been named acting parliamentarian for the evening.

The chair ruled that since Kidd was not acting as parliamentarian he had the right, as does any other independent, to speak.

The names of Richards and Rigling will be submitted to All-University Cabinet. Cabinet must approve all delegates if they are to be official University delegates and have voting rights at the convention.

Applications Due For Draft Test

Tuesday is the deadline for filing applications for the fall Selective Service Qualification Test. The test will be given Dec. 9.

Applications are available in the dean of men's office, 109 Old Main. They must be mailed to Science Research Associated, Chicago, before Tuesday.

To be eligible a student must intend to request deferment, must be a full-time student, and must not have taken the test previously, according to the test brochure. The next selective service test will be given April 21.

Transportation Group Taps Fifteen Students

Fifteen students were tapped by Delta Nu Alpha, transportation fraternity.

They are Jose Berguido, Thomas Courtless, Edward Frankfield, Richard Favro, John Gilbert, Walter Kochard, Walter Lowman.

Chapel Organist

GEORGE CEIGA, Chapel organist, rehearses at the organ in his home. Ceiga will present the first of a series of faculty concerts at 4 p.m. Sunday in Schwab Auditorium. Ceiga, who plays for the University Chapel services each week, has been at the University since 1947.

Presents Recital Sunday

Ceiga Once Played Music for Flickers

By JACKIE HUDGINS

How would you like to go to the movies every night while you're in college? Well, it doesn't leave much time for studying, says George Ceiga, Chapel organist, but it surely is exciting.

Ceiga used to play background music for silent pictures during the first World War to help pay his expenses at the American Conservatory of Music in Chicago.

Ceiga will be back at the keyboard, but in a somewhat different role, when he presents an organ recital at 4 p.m. Sunday in Schwab Auditorium.

When an organist plays for a newsreel, Ceiga said, he really has to be fast. One time, he related, when a friend of his was playing for the first time and he saw a regiment of soldiers on the screen, he struck up "The Stars and Stripes Forever." As the soldiers came nearer the audience he noticed that they were German.

Playing for silent movies was exciting, Ceiga repeated, even if it was embarrassing sometimes.

After Ceiga graduated from the Conservatory he taught there for several years. He was organ master and choir director at St. Margarets in Chicago and he did boy choir work at the Episcopal Church.

Before he came to the University in 1947 he had written several organ numbers, a study book for the Hammond organ, music for junior choirs, and several other musical compositions.

Ceiga, who is of Swiss origin, said when his great grandfather came to the United States from Switzerland the family name was spelled "Zeiga."

Great grandfather Zeiga found that he had to wait in line so long to be paid at the end of the week that there seldom was much had been paid, for they were given money left after all the employees their wages according to alphabetical order. So he changed the first letter of the name to put himself at the beginning of the line instead of at the end.

Ceiga's recital Sunday will be the first of a series of programs to be presented by faculty members of the department of music and music education.

The program includes the first movement of "A Minor Concerto" by Vivaldi-Bach, "Sheep May Safely Graze," by Bach, and D Minor Toccata and Fugue, by Bach.

Following the Bach numbers, he will play "Song of Peace" by Langlais, a contemporary, blind organist and composer.

AIM Seeks WD Parking Privileges

The Association of Independent Men will ask that 39 upperclassmen in the West Dormitory area be given parking privileges in areas near their dormitories.

President Robert Dennis will take the request to the Physical Plant and, if no favorable action is received, will present the petition to All-University Cabinet.

The decision was made at the AIM Board of Governors Wednesday night.

The board will also ask that West Dorm freshmen be allowed to park in that area Saturday mornings.

The requests were recommendations in a West Dorm parking survey report presented by West Dorm Council President Stanley Juras.

Juras said his committee found that the 39 upperclassmen in that area who drive cars were forced to park near the east end of campus. The lots behind Sigma Chi Fraternity and near Recreation Hall were reserved for commuter and staff use, he said.

Juras said he believed the upperclassmen had earned the parking privilege because of the "stabilizing influence" they provide for West Dorm freshmen.

Since freshmen use their cars mostly for weekend dating, Juras said, the committee believed these men should be allowed to have their cars parked in that area Saturday mornings. At present weekend parking privileges begin at noon Saturday.

He said it did not seem fair that when the men left their dates Friday night they should have to park their cars at the opposite end of campus, walk back to the dormitory, and then, Saturday afternoon, walk back to the other end of campus again to get their cars.

Joan Packard, Leonides president, explained the functions of the joint AIM-Leonides flash card and welfare committees.

James McDowell was named chairman of a committee to investigate the possibility of a centennial Homecoming dance.
